8.9 INCHES OF SNOW IN FOUR HOURS

We Could Be Clobbered Again

War Starts Again

SAIGON (AP)—For the third straight day, the United States kept its planes out of North Viet Nam's skies today, but U.S. Marines killed 63 Viet Cong in ground skirmishes after a short, interrupted Christmas truce.

The Marines reported strikes against the Communists during patrols around the big U.S. air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. The Americans reported taking light casualties.

A squad of Marines pounced on about 40 Viet Cong, killing 15 at a hamlet called Quant Ha No. 1.

Two hours later a marine platoon near Quang Ha No. 2, about two miles southward, was attacked by 75 Viet Cong armed with automatic weapons.

The Americans called in artillery support, tanks and armed helicopters. When the brief encounter was over, they counted the bodies of 41 Viet Cong.

Marines, in other scattered actions, reported killing seven Viet Cong during the day.

LIMIT ACTION

Air attacks were made only on suspected Viet Cong concentrations in South Viet Nam, U.S. spokesmen said. Ground action also was reported in low key for the last 24 hours.

A U.S. spokesman said early today that no orders had come yet for resumption of the air war against the North. This immediately raised speculation of another bombing pause in hopes of persuading the North Vietnamese to come to the conference table.

As a peace gesture to Hanoi, the United States halted the raids for five days in May but the pause did not lead to negotiations. Washington has been under strong diplomatic pressure to stop the air war again.

U.S. planes dropped their last bombs over North Viet Nam just before the start of the 30-hour Allied truce at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve. A 12-hour Viet Cong ceasefire began an hour later.

U.S. planes once more struck suspected Viet Cong targets in the South as ground fighting resumed.

A Communist mine blew up a jeep near Sadec, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, killing two American soldiers and wounding a civilian.

WANTED EXTENSION

U.S. officials said the state department had instructed the military command to extend the truce as long as possible. But even as the instructions arrived the Viet Cong had already broken the Allied ceasefire period with a rash of incidents, U.S. spokesmen said.

American headquarters sent out orders to all units early Sunday to resume normal operations, thereby sealing the end of the truce.

Viet Cong attacks during the truce killed at least a dozen Americans and up to 50 South Vietnamese troops, U.S. spokesmen said. Many others were wounded.

During the 30-hour Allied

SMALL CARS are popular in Victoria, especially today. They take less push. Those of us who had to work today saw pushmobiles on every corner. Most Victorians were enjoying Boxing Day at home however, with nothing to do but shovel sidewalks, dig for fireplace logs and, in many cases, pray for the power to come back. Touch-and-Go For Two Days

A snowfall of 8.9 inches thumped Vancouver Island in a four-hour period this morning breaking power lines, cutting off telephones and blocking many roads.

Weather office officials had to go back to Feb. 14, 1923, to find a heavier snowfall. That day 20 inches fell on Victoria in a 24-hour period.

At Sunday midnight it was raining. At 1 a.m. the rain was mixed with slushy snow. At 4 a.m. the rain had vanished to be replaced by a light but steady snowfall and at 5:30 the full onslaught of the storm from the Oregon coast was plugging driveways and toppling trees across power lines.

The forecast for the next 24 hours is uncertain.

Cold air blankets most of British Columbia but warmer temperatures carrying heavy precipitation are moving north.

Weather office officials said the next two days would be touch-and-go for the lower Island.

If Temperature Drops, Look Out

"If the temperature stays up (it was 37 at press time) conditions will remain much as they are now," a spokesman said. "If the temperature drops below freezing we could get more snow."

Meantime most Vancouver Islanders were not worrying about the future. Their main concern was to get stranded cars out of ditches and driveways and wait for B.C. Hydro trouble-shooting crews to get out power lines back in action.

Hardest hit by power failures were Duncan and Nanaimo with close to total power blackouts in the early hours of the morning.

In the Victoria area, Burnside lost its electric power at 7:30 a.m. and was out for three hours.

Belmont Park lost its power at about the same time when a heavy tree on the Sooke Road crashed across the main line. Power was off for several hours before the tree could be moved and the line repaired.

In East Saanich power went off about the same time with the cause of the break unknown shortly before press time.

Hydro officials reported hundreds of smaller breaks all over the Island and estimated that in the Victoria area alone 100 men were seeking out and repairing the breaks.

B.C. Telephone officials reported only minor troubles but said they were swamped with calls, most of them asking for a connection with B.C. Hydro to report power failures.

Tow Trucks Busy, Busy, Busy

Motorists without snow tires or chains found themselves in serious difficulties as the light work day opened.

With most businesses and offices closed for the Christmas holiday the situation was not as serious as it could have been 24 hours later.

But even with light traffic on the roads wrecking truck companies reported a land-office business towing cars out of ditches or driveways.

Taxi companies also recorded a record business morning and were running up to an hour late on their calls.

Motorists seeking chains to get mobile were right out of luck. Only one jobber in Victoria opened his doors for business to cope with the emergency and he sold every one of his 60 sets of chains in the first hour of business.

They were thought to be the only chains available in Victoria.

On the Malahat the snowfall was only slightly heavier than in Victoria—about 10 inches recorded during the night—but the RCMP was asking that only emergency vehicles attempt the journey north or south.

In Saanich two graders were at work clearing main roads from Judah and Carey Road north. Sanding trucks were following the graders.

The graders started their clearing program at 9 a.m. having been delayed by a power failure which necessitated filling gas tanks with diesel fuel by hand.

Saanich Short of Good Operators

The greatest fear of Neville Life, Saanich engineer, was that his manpower would run out before all roads could be cleared.

"We can keep the graders running 24 hours a day should more

26 MEN MISSING

U.K. Oil Rig Falls in Sea

GRIMSBY, England (Reuters)—An armada of ships and helicopters was reported tonight to have picked up the body of a dead man and rescued 19 of the 46 men aboard a giant oil-drilling rig which collapsed and sank in the North Sea east of here.

Three of those rescued were reported seriously injured.

Only a few pieces of steel sticking above the waves showed where the 5,600-ton oil rig had stood.

The rig, The Sea Gem, stationed 42 miles east of here in 100-foot-deep waters, had been preparing to move on after discovering a vast field of natural gas and drilling a 10,000-foot well.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind swept the scene as the rig, manned by an all-British crew, crumpled into the water early this afternoon.

The British ship Baltrover sent out an immediate "mayday" distress call and launched a lifeboat. Other lifeboats set out from nearby ports, while trawlers converged on the scene and RAF helicopters took off from the mainland.

The first four survivors were found floating on a life raft as a spokesman for the rig's owners, British Petroleum, was telling reporters:

"She seems to have sunk. For this to have happened seems inconceivable."

HEADS FOR PORT

The Baltrover reported that it was heading for Hull with the crew members it had rescued.

Three ships were at the scene searching for the 26 crew members still unaccounted for while a helicopter dropped flares to light the rescue efforts.

The Sea Gem, a 247- by 90-foot platform on 10 self-elevating legs, was BP's first North Sea rig but most of its crew members were experienced drillers.

It first struck gas in September, then in October made another strike. British Power Minister Fred Lee told Parliament this should justify piping gas to the mainland by 1967 or 1968.

It was indicated that the field would produce 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

The Sea Gem was towed to its site from Le Havre, France, and its equipment was assembled from as far away as Trinidad and Papua, New Guinea. Its sister rig, the Sea Quest, now is being built at an estimated cost of £3,500,000 ($10,150,000).

Mainland, U.S. Dig Out Too

VANCOUVER (CP)—A white Christmas season on the British Columbia coast spelled death to some and trouble to many.

A storm hammered the B.C., Washington and Oregon coasts today, with winds with gusts up to 120 miles an hour in the U.S. and snow over a wide area.

Lower Mainland and Greater Vancouver police urged motorists to stay off the roads.

Up to six inches of snow was expected in the Fraser Valley and Greater Vancouver areas of the Lower Mainland.

AIRPORTS CLOSED

All flights were grounded on the west coast. Victoria, Vancouver and Abbotsford airports were closed. The weather office at the Vancouver Airport said 4.5 inches fell in six hours.

Snow started falling on the Lower Mainland last Wednesday. Temperatures fell after that and icy highways and roads accounted for several of the traffic deaths in the province on the holiday weekend.

Many side roads were closed in the Fraser Valley early today as winds gusting to 35 miles an hour caused drifting.

Police warned drivers to stay off the Fraser Valley roads if they could. Drivers were warned not to attempt the mountain roads to the interior without chains or snow tires.

Snow was general in the southern part of B.C. In the north it was clear and cold with temperatures as low as 21 below zero at Prince George overnight.

In the U.S. Pacific Northwest there were high winds, rain and snow.

The Coast Guard weather station at Cape Disappointment at the mouth of the Columbia River reported its wind gauge broke at 120 miles an hour.

Ships off the coast messaged winds of between 80 and 90 miles an hour.

The storm was drifting northeastward and weakening.

DRIVER DIES AFTER FIGHT OVER CRASH

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—A 50-year-old motorist died Sunday night after a fight which followed a minor collision between his car and another.

Dead is Isbal Hundal of North Vancouver.

Police said during a scuffle following the accident a passenger in Mr. Hundal's car walked away. Mr. Hundal apparently fell to the pavement and the other motorist drove off.

Cause of the death had not been established today.

HEROIC EFFORT BY PAL

Pt. Hardy Boy Perishes 10 Minutes From Safety

Special to the Times

PORT HARDY — Nine-year-old David Hunt was just a 10-minute walk from safety when he lay down in the bush and died last Thursday night.

RCMP say he died of exposure on the snow-covered ground in dense bush near this community on northern Vancouver Island.

The heroic efforts to save him by a 10-year-old companion were thwarted when the two boys became separated at dusk Thursday night.

Norman Wilson was found Friday morning near Port Hardy airport when he walked out to the highway after spending the night wandering in the bush clad only in a T-shirt, trousers and running shoes.

The body of David Hunt was found by searchers later the same day, a 10-minute walk from the main highway.

He was still wearing a heavy jacket which was given to him by Norman just before they became separated.

From his bed at home today, Norman Wilson retold his mother the story:

"Thursday morning David and I decided to follow two men who had gone into the bush to cut Christmas trees.

"Before we went into the bush I told David, 'You better get a jacket on; it's cold.' He told me, 'I'm not cold,' so we went into the bush.

David was wearing only a light shirt at the time.

"We walked for a while, but we couldn't catch up to the men.

"Then I realized we were lost.

"We continued walking. There was heavy bush and snow on the ground.

"In the afternoon David said he was getting cold so I took my jacket off and put it on him.

"David said he was tired of walking, but I knew we had to keep going if we were going to get out before dark.

"I carried him piggy-back until it started getting dark. We still did not know where we were.

"When I stopped to rest we became separated.

"I couldn't see him anywhere because it was getting dark. I lay on the ground and tried to go to sleep. I closed my eyes for about 10 minutes, but it was too cold to sleep so I kept walking.

"Early in the morning (Friday) I heard a dog barking so I followed the sound until I came to a house near the highway. It was near the airport.

"I warmed up and the woman fed me something to eat, then she telephoned my mother."

The alarm was raised immediately and searchers, headed by RCMP, set off into the bush.

Later that day they found the body of David Hunt.

An inquest will be held.

David Hunt was one of a family of six children who were being cared for by a stepfather.

His mother, who was living in Vancouver, has returned to Port Hardy.

HOLIDAY FATALITY LIST GROWS

Christmas Night Crash Kills Five

HANEY (CP)—Five persons returning home from visiting were killed Christmas night in a head-on collision on the icy highway in the Fraser Valley near here.

Police said all were dead by the time help arrived.

Dead are: Mrs. Addie Bennett, 53; her son William, 17; daughter Sandra, 13; mother Mrs. Estella Agnes Murdoch, 83; and Mrs. Murdoch's brother, Needham Dwyer, 8?.

Mrs. Bennett's husband, Herman, their son Gordon, seven, were unhurt.

Ivan Monrad Peterson, lone occupant of the other car, was severely injured.

Police said the Bennett family were travelling in a station wagon on the Lougheed Highway near this community 30 miles east of Vancouver. They were going home to nearby Hammond.

One of the vehicles attempted to pass another and lost control.

Seven others were killed in traffic mishaps on the mainland during the weekend. Two died in a fire.

Phillip Ghostkeeper and Mrs. John Carfille, both of Prince George, were killed when their car was in collision with a car occupied by five teen-agers.

FERRY SLIP

James Melvin MacArthur, 65, of Nakusp was killed when his car plunged off a Columbia River ferry slip 12 miles south of Revelstoke.

Robert Allan Godfrey, 22, of Vancouver, died after his car went out of control on an icy path of the Trans-Canada Highway near Langley and crashed.

Wynard Baylis, 79, of Delta was killed in a two-car collision near his home and Allan Lee Folsam of Surrey died after his car left the icy Pacific Highway.

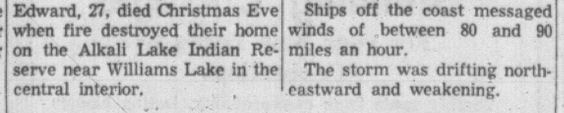

Cornelius Unruh, 80, of Matsqui died today of injuries suffered when hit by a car as he crossed a street in Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley Christmas Eve.

Louis Dan, 58, and his son Edward, 27, died Christmas Eve when fire destroyed their home on the Alkali Lake Indian Reserve near Williams Lake in the central interior.

CHARGE OF BUFFALOES SCARES MOTORISTS DRY

ANZA, Calif. (AP)—"I'm sure there will be a lot of people giving up drinking for life," a California Highway Patrol officer observed Saturday after motorists reported being charged by two buffaloes.

The buffaloes escaped from a herd owned by James Minor of Anza. They roamed five miles from their home and caused grave doubts among several motorists in Christmas Day traffic.

The animals charged and dented several cars before Minor and his posse rounded them up. There were no physical injuries.

snow fall," he said. "Unfortunately you can't keep men working as long as machines and we are short of competent grader operators."

In Victoria, graders and snow-clearing trucks got off to a slow start as the city engineering department waited in vain for the rain forecast earlier to start.

When it didn't two graders, three trucks and a loader got to work clearing main thoroughfares.

City engineer James C. Garnett said more graders and trucks would be called into action if more snow fell.

In Central Saanich many side roads were impassable with up to 18 inches of drifting snow plugging rural byways.

Police departments in all areas reported few accidents and those minor.

Sooke RCMP summed the accident-free morning succinctly with "nobody's crazy enough to try and travel on the roads this morning."

Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospital emergency wards reported a "light" morning with one or two suspected broken bones from pedestrians falling on slippery streets.

At least two heart attacks were reported and hospitals advised elderly people to exercise discretion before they tackled the heavy wet blanket with shovels.

Radio and television stations were also having their troubles.

CHEK-TV was off the air most of the day. Station officials said a B.C. Hydro power break on Saturna Island had blacked out transmitting facilities. At press time the spokesman said they had no idea when the break would be repaired.

Radio station CJVI reported nine minor black-outs during the morning.

"Power surges have put us off the air nine times so far," a spokesman said at noon. "Each one has lasted about 20 seconds and we are on the air now—but for how long I don't know."

CKDA and cable TV operators could not be reached for comment.

At Patricia Bay all air traffic came to a halt as visibility diminished and snow covered the runways. But there was hope that traffic would resume normal schedules later today as snow-clearing equipment cleared runways and the driving snow stopped.

Buses Have No Trouble 'So Far'

Vancouver Island Coach Lines reported normal traffic with all schedules on time.

"The plows have cleared the Malahat and we have had no difficulties so far," a company official said.

B.C. Ferries were also on schedule though traffic was light.

"We may be a few minutes behind, but not enough to worry about," a spokesman said. "We aren't getting much traffic though the cars coming through from Victoria have reported no serious difficulties."

Many outlying areas on the Island reported grief similar to Tofino where a sub-station power failure had blacked out the area and heavy snow was making it difficult for power crews to locate and repair the breaks.

Small airports throughout the Island were closed to all traffic.

The last heavy snowfall in Victoria was in 1960 when 8.5 inches fell in 24 hours—but that was several weeks after Christmas.

This morning's heavy fall, while bringing grief to many, brought heartbreak to city golfers.

It marked the second year in a row The Daily Colonist Boxing Day golf tournament had to be cancelled. Last year it was freezing conditions which "duffed" it.

But there was one bright note of hope: a Times reader on St. Charles Street phoned in to say that plum trees were in bloom between Rockland and Fort.

truce period, which ended at midnight Saturday, there were 84 incidents instigated by the Communists, a U.S. spokesman said. This included 20 violations in the first six hours of the truce.

But, he added, he knew of no serious infractions by the Communists during the truce they proclaimed from 7 p.m. Christmas Eve to 7 a.m. Christmas Day.

There was at least one U.S. violation. An artillery unit continued firing for four hours after the start of the truce Friday night. "We simply did not get any official word from division headquarters," the unit commander said.

Victoria had to reject an offer for nationwide publicity this morning.

A movie crew from Toronto in Vancouver to film the evergreen playground of the Pacific Coast for a nationwide distribution system telephoned the Times to say all they had over there was snow.

"We have heard," a spokesman for the crew said, "that while it may snow in other parts of B.C., Victoria remains snow free. Would it be worth our while to come over?"

We were tempted, but like George Washington we couldn't tell a lie.

"Give us," we said, "a couple of days to tidy up, but right now save your ferry fare, we, er, do have just a little of the white stuff."

Warships Protested

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam charged today that U.S. aircraft and warships "intruded" into its territorial air and water space Christmas Day.

It charged the planes conducted "reconnaissance and provocative activities."

The claim, made in a protest message to the International Control Commission of Canada, India and Poland, made no reference to the Christmas truce in the Viet Nam war.

The message, broadcast by Hanoi radio, also charged that "on the nights of Dec. 23 and 24, 1965, two warships of the U.S. and its agents intruded into the territorial waters of the DRV (Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam), in Thanh Hoa province, opened fire and rounded up two boats."

They searched the two boats and took away three Vietnamese. It said North Viet Nam demanded their immediate release.

Collision Takes All the Fun Out of Holiday

Pedestrian Bill Sullivan, 16, of 2949 Glen Lake Road, got a tape recorder and an injured right leg for Christmas.

Both were broken Friday night when Bill was in collision with a car at Goldstream and Jacklin.

Kenneth Samuel Willman, 46, of 1115 Donna, was reported by Colwood RCMP to be the driver of the car.

"Bill was wondering a few days ago what it would be like to spend Christmas in hospital," said his mother, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan.

"It's too bad he had to find out."

Bill's family has been visiting him in relays at St. Joseph's Hospital where he is reported in good condition.

Doctor Loses Fortune

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (AP) — A doctor reported to police that his home had been ransacked and more than a third of a million dollars in cash and negotiable securities stolen. The report was made by Dr. B. T. Owens, a general practitioner who said he discovered the theft when he returned home from making house calls shortly after 1 a.m.

Many Hoof It To Work

A group of city-bound passengers waited half an hour on the snow-bound Dallas Road waterfront this morning for the 7:30 a.m. Hillside bus.

They waited in vain. The bus broke down en route and the soaking passengers began a slow and mournful trek up Cook Street towards the city.

One went to a phone booth and called every taxi cab stand in the city. All lines were busy but one, which advised no taxi would be available for at least 50 minutes.

A few private cars, moving at a snail's pace up Cook Street, picked up passengers. Others waited in shop doorways until a bus came along.

But they were very few and far between.

Dozens of cars were abandoned on Fort between Cook and Douglas. The scene was typical of dozens of areas throughout the city.

Suspect Charged In Slaying

NORTH KAMLOOPS (CP)—A 30-year-old man was charged with capital murder today in the rifle slaying of John Barnett Booker, 37.

Charged is Daniel Bakum of Ashcroft who turned himself in to police Sunday night after police learned of the shooting.

Police said Booker was shot with a .303-calibre rifle in the back yard of his home in this community neighboring Kamloops.

They said they were called to the home at 8 p.m. and were seting up roadblocks when Bakum turned himself in.

No further details were available. Booker leaves a wife and three children. He worked in a department store.

Bid to Upset Sauve Will Move Slowly

HULL, Que. (CP)—Legal action to have Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve's election in Iles-de-la-Madeleine nullified probably won't begin before February, Lionel Mougeot, lawyer for Conservative candidate Marc Arsenault, said today.

Mr. Mougeot disclosed Friday that a petition alleging irregularities on and before election day in Mr. Sauve's riding was filed late Thursday in Quebec Superior Court at Perce, on the tip of the Gaspe Peninsula.

The Hull lawyer said that court clerk Jean Bourget mailed by registered letter Thursday copies of the petition to the four men who contested the Nov. 8 election.

MAY SEEK EXTENSION

They had 15 days to appear in court to reply but lawyers probably would ask an extension.

"It's impossible to say when it will proceed," Mr. Mougeot said. "I don't think it can proceed before February."

In Montreal, Mr. Sauve said: "I have not yet seen any documents relating to this report and cannot comment until I have."

Mr. Mougeot toured the Magdalen Islands to investigate allegations of irregularities at the request of Conservative headquarters in Ottawa.

Mr. Sauve defeated Dr. Arsenault by 392 votes in the Nov. 8 contest. Mr. Sauve had 2,837 votes, Dr. Arsenault 2,525, Maurice Giguere (NDP) 29 and Jacques Levesque (Creditiste) 29.

GI Bounty Offered

SAIGON (Reuters)—The clandestine "Liberation Front Radio" today anounced that a medal would be given to Viet Cong guerrilla who killed the largest number of Americans in South Viet Nam in 1966.

Another medal will be given to the "most valiant guerrilla" in killing Americans, the radio said.

It also exhorted greater efforts toward the elimination of Americans in South Viet Nam—an appeal repeatedly made during the fifth anniversary of the founding of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, earlier this month.

Return of Sight His Best Gift

HOUSTON (AP)—No matter what is your best Christmas gift, it is unlikely to approach Lloyd D. Johnson's.

Johnson get his eyesight back last week. And he's seeing all the sights and colors of the yule season for the first time since 1947.

He was blinded when sulphur dioxide spewed into his eyes as he was repairing a refrigerator 18 years ago. He's had 17 operations and nine corneal transplants since then. None worked except the one performed on his left eye last Nov. 4.

Last week Johnson, 40, now the credit manager of a Houston firm, was allowed to remove the bandage.

He opened the eye and saw his mother and other relatives.

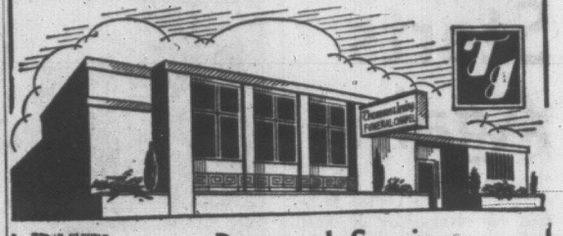

"I saw them," he said later.

"What can I tell you about that? It was the greatest moment I've ever known."

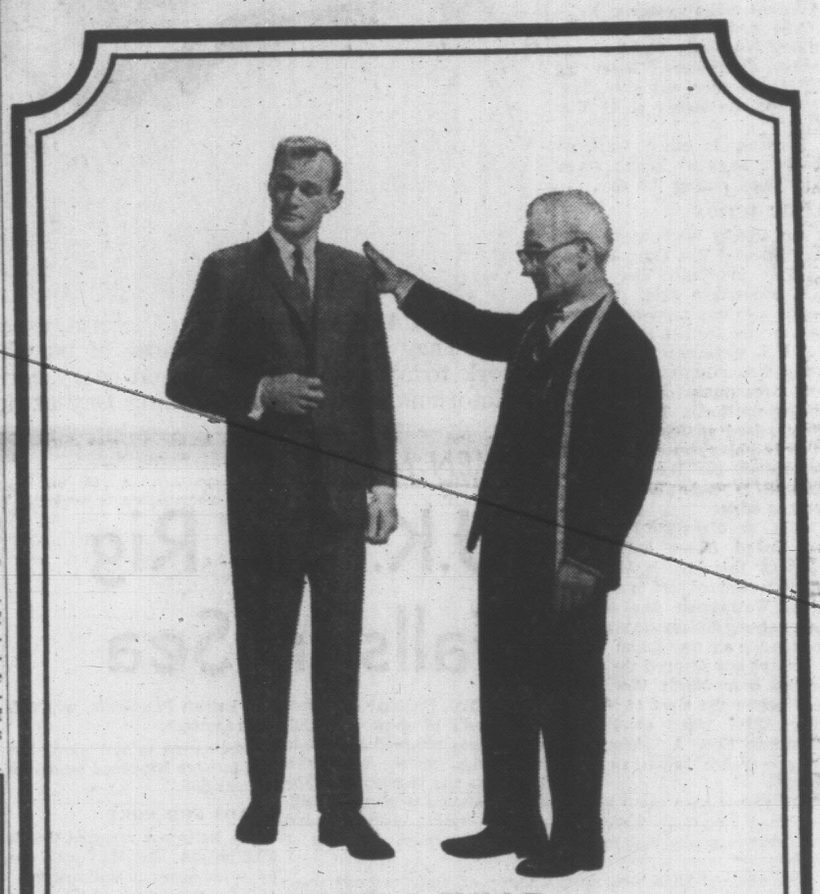

"Some friends drove me downtown. It was heaven just to watch people hurrying along.

"This is the happiest Christmas of my life."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

It was clear and cold along the northern mainland and in the northern interior of B.C. overnight as minimum temperatures ranged from 7 above at Prince Rupert to 21 below at Prince George. Elsewhere in the province it was generally overcast with snow. An active Pacific storm about 200 miles off the Oregan coast is moving northeast and will reach southwestern Vancouver Island late this afternoon and then drift slowly northward. Snow and gale warnings have been issued for most coastal areas in advance of this disturbance. About four more inches of snow should fall in the Vancouver district by early this afternoon, tapering off then to a few snowflurries. Another six inches or more will fall along the east coast of Vancouver Island before milder Pacific air arrives this afternoon.

U.S. Sergeants Charged With Aiding Viet Cong

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) —Two U.S. Army sergeants freed by the Communist Viet Cong last month and who later were critical of American involvement in Viet Nam have been charged with aiding the enemy, the U.S. military command disclosed today.

The two are Sgt. George E. Smith of Chester, W. Va., and Spec. 5 Claude McClure of Chattanooga, Tenn. They were freed Nov. 28 at the Cambodian border after two years in captivity.

A terse statement issued by military authorities on Okinawa said charges would be brought against the men for "preparing, furnishing and delivering to the Viet Cong certain documents, statements and writings inimical to the interest of the United States."

The statement indicated Smith and McClure were being held for alleged dealings with their Communist captors and not for statements attributed to them in a Nov. 30 news conference in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

They told the news conference "The United States has nothing to gain from the war in Viet Nam" and said they would join peace movements when they returned to America.

ARMY MUM

The army refused to elaborate on the statement or say whether Smith and McClure are in confinement on Okinawa. It is known only that they were brought to Naha from Korat, Thailand, after leaving Cambodia, which does not maintain diplomatic relations with the United States.

The Australian Embassy in Phnom Penh handled their return to U.S. Army officials.

The U.S. Army headquarters for the Ryukyu Islands said a two-week investigation was conducted into the conduct of the two sergeants which "warrants the preferring of charges in violation of the uniform code of military justice, article 104" (aiding the enemy).

Smith and McClure were captured Nov. 24, 1963, when the Viet Cong overran the Hiep Hoa U.S. special forces camp 27 miles northeast of Saigon.

They were the second and third Americans known to have come out of a Viet Cong prisoner of war camp. The first was Sgt. Isaac Camacho, El Paso, Tex., who is now stationed in West Germany.

CAMBODIA chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, claimed today the U.S. is preparing to invade his country on pretext that Viet Cong guerrillas are using it as refuge. He denied there have been any Viet Cong on Cambodia territory.

Siamese Twin Girls Separated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Siamese twin girls, separated in three-hour surgery shortly after birth, have a better than even chance of survival, their attending pediatrician says.

The babies were born Christmas Day with a common bladder and intestines.

Sunday, as Mrs. Robin Mantonya passed her 20th birthday at one hospital, daughters Lisa Marie and Sheila Norine appeared to be holding their own at another.

Their pediatrician said 36 hours after surgery: "They are both still moving around, which is the most important sign to us. Everything is functioning, and their color is good."

The twins, together weighing 12 pounds, were born by caesarean section at Holy Cross Hospital in suburban San Fernando, then taken to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where a team of 18 doctors, nurses and technicians performed the surgery.

U.S. Correspondent Expelled by Poland

WARSAW (Reuters) — The Polish government today withdrew accreditation facilities from David Halberstam, 31, correspondent of the New York Times, and requested him to leave the country in about a week.

Halberstam, who arrived in Poland nearly a year ago, is the second New York Times correspondent expelled in the last six years. Abe Rosenthal was expelled in 1959.

An official of the Polish foreign ministry charged Halberstam with dispatching slanderous and offensive reports and of continued hostility towards Poland.

The correspondent shared a 1963 Pulitizer Prize for his reporting from Viet Nam. He also is the author of a recently published book on American involvement in North Viet Nam, The Making of a Quagmire.

He previously served as New York Times correspondent in the southern states and in Africa.

Six months ago Halberstam married Elzbieta Czyzewska, 26, a popular star of screen, television and theatre who won many awards for her acting and is the pin-up girl of young Poles.

Earlier this year Halberstam provoked a storm of criticism in the Polish press when he wrote that anti-Semitism was still widespread in Poland despite the Nazi killing of Jews during the Second World War.

His departure leaves eight Western correspondents working in Poland.

HAWAII VOLCANO ERUPTS

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Scientists are keeping a 24-hour watch for earthquakes and another possible eruption on the Aloi Crater of Kilauea Volcano.

The crater erupted unexpectedly Christmas Eve, but the bright orange and red lava fountains died down six hours later. There were some minor earthquakes before the eruption and again Sunday but scientists said they noticed none of the underground vibrations which usually precede volcanic activity.

The crater is on Hawaii Island, in an unpopulated area about 200 miles southeast of Honolulu.

No property damage or injuries were reported from the quakes.

NEGROES JAILED, CANED

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Twenty-six Negroes were reported to have been sentenced to jail terms ranging from two to seven years' hard labor for damaging crops and property in the Sipolilo tribal area north of here.

Most of the convicted men also were sentenced to six or eight strokes of the cane. All were tried in the Sipolilo magistrate's court under Rhodesia's Law and Order Maintenance Act and sentenced on Christmas Eve.

A police spokesman said the offences occurred soon after a radio broadcast from Zambia calling for acts of this nature.

For Future Discussion

WEST GERMAN CHANCELLOR Erhard's pre-Christmas visit to President Johnson in Washington gave rise to agreement, as the official communique put it, that non-nuclear nations in NATO should have "an appropriate share in nuclear defence."

Just how meaningful that phrase is may be difficult to tell at the present time although Chancellor Erhard on his return to Germany proclaimed he was highly-satisfied with all phases of his talks with the president. Certainly no one in Washington believes that Mr. Johnson made any commitment to give West Germany any greater control over American nuclear weapons than it now possesses through the "two-key" system under which they are held in Germany.

In fact, despite what Mr. Erhard said, there were signs that the West Germans were not entirely satisfied with the way the talks had gone. Bonn's press chief, Mr. Karl-Guenther von Hase, said the communique evidently meant that the present situation "is not appropriate" for the sharing of nuclear weapons. A White House press official, Mr. William Moyer, said: "I agree with Mr. von Hase that the Germans do not believe it is satisfactory."

There is some evidence that Mr. Erhard pressed hard for something more than West Germany now has in relation to nuclear weaponry. Prior to the meeting with the president, for instance, Mr. Erhard told a National Press Club audience that his nation's nuclear interest "is not a question of prestige for us. The point for us is to have a say in these matters. West Germany wants to be an ally with equal rights and obligations."

Mr. Erhard added that while West Germany favors nuclear non-proliferation, "settlement of these nuclear questions with a common and joint policy should have priority over a non-proliferation treaty."

At this point West Germany seems to come hard up against the policy of most of its NATO allies which see a non-proliferation treaty as the first order of business and which, in fact, are not eager to see Germany with any further nuclear capability in any event.

Mr. Johnson seems to have been quite determined not to allow himself to be put in the position of favoring a greater nuclear role for West Germany and it seems to be agreed that the matter will come up for further discussion in a committee struck for that purpose at last month's NATO ministerial conference. It would probably please almost everyone, except the West Germans, if it became stuck in that committee for some time.

Safety Through Regulation

WARNINGS ABOUT THE DANGER which has arisen from the entry on the Canadian trust company scene of a number of new companies—many of them organized and managed by people with limited experience — have been heard frequently in recent months.

The financial troubles of the British Mortgage and Trust Company in Ontario, as an outcome of the Atlantic Acceptance Corporation debacle, have lent point to these warnings and have prompted one well-known spokesman in the industry to urge stricter government regulation of trust company activities as a protection for depositors.

Mr. J. G. Hungerford, chairman of National Trust Company, notes that no fewer than 27 new trust firms have been incorporated in Canada in the past five years but that because they come under provincial jurisdictions there is no uniformity of supervision or regulation. Unless the provinces can agree on satisfactory uniform regulations there are obvious dangers in this situation, but Mr. Hungerford suggests another way out of the dilemma.

The provinces could turn over to the federal superintendent of insurance the regulation of the savings operations of all Canadian trust companies while leaving the companies still free to operate in other fields — which are predominantly mortgage-lending—under provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Hungerford's suggestion makes good sense and should be acceptable to the provinces, some of which are very jealous about their prerogatives in financial fields. It is also particularly timely since Canada is entering a period of possibly high business risk. Many of the new trust companies are competing vigorously for new funds from depositors and—perhaps not always wisely—for high return investments in which to place the funds.

Bilingually Hopeful

TO CANADIANS, WITH THEIR ingrained concern for the subject, a report on Belgium's struggle with bilingualism may promise hope.

In the European country the problem of two peoples in one nation divided by two languages runs back to origins at the time of the Roman conquest. At present about 5 million Belgians speak Flemish, some 3.5 million speak French and about 1 million, mainly in Brussels, speak both. Current conflict, exaggerated by a minority of separatists, stems from the fear that the French-speaking section will be engulfed by the Flemish.

But an amicable settlement is possible, according to Premier Pierre Harmel, a Walloon whose mother tongue is French but who is equally fluent in Flemish.

The hope springs from the changing economy of Belgium — industrialization which is encouraging more of the people to speak both languages. In addition, there are constitutional reforms in prospect which will give legal parity to each tongue.

The separatist trend, says the premier, is losing momentum in Belgium. Moreover, in recent years, an inclination on the part of the inhabitants to develop three distinct loyalties is becoming more apparent. The Belgian is loyal to his region, to the nation whose common problems all must share in solving, and to the new Europeanism.

"We are hopeful," says Premier Harmel, "because our people have always found reasonable solutions and shown common sense."

Young Trouble Ahead

PROBABLY NO COUNTRY IN the world is more alert than the United States to the dangers of juvenile delinquency, or more active in varied programs attempting to curb it.

The results so far are not encouraging. Two years ago young people under 18 formed 46 per cent of the total brought into American courts for major crime. Today the percentage is 48, up two.

Offering complications for the immediate future is the fact that the postwar baby boom is now reflected in the swollen ranks of teen-agers for whom there are no jobs. And statistics seem to prove the old adage that idle hands cause trouble.

The outlook bespeaks a more intensified program to provide useful activity for the young people to arrest the drift into anti-social behaviour.

Canadians can look only with dismay at the American figures. Doubtless up-to-date surveys here would show little, if any, improvement in the trend north of the 49th parallel. Certainly, when the Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council instructed a special sub-committee to look into the situation last year, the findings were discouraging. Here, also, the number of young people getting into trouble showed an increase both in the total and in the rate at which it was rising.

"... same old thing ... they're fighting over who's to blame because we didn't turn off the TV when they kept telling us to ...!"

CANADIAN SELF-ANALYSIS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

An Identity of Discontent

IT is impossible, said Burke, to indict a whole people. In Canada we have recently learned that it is equally impossible to assess the opinions of a whole people, even when they have made up their minds before an election. As the unhappy pollsters found, the Canadian mind is mysterious. This great, but hardly original thought is inspired by Mr. Gerald Clark's book, "Canada: The Uneasy Neighbor," an excellent book, unquestionably an accurate book, by one of our best reporters. But accurate only in its visible facts and they never tell us much about anything important.

Hutchison

A foreigner reading Mr. Clark's report, or any other factual survey, must suppose that the Canadian nation is a sorry mess, a limp jelly sure to dissolve next weekend. The visible facts, the statistics, the interviews with public and private men, all the information that a competent reporter can collect in six month of intensive study, show that the nation is torn by internal conflict, crapulous with the diseases of prosperity, sick unto death.

Better Than Most

Yet the invisible facts flatly deny the factual conclusions. We cannot prove it statistically but we know that the nation, with all its failures and follies, is doing pretty well as nations go, far better than most of them in a demented world.

From a certain personal experience I begin to see dimly why the visible facts add up to the wrong conclusion.

About a year ago Mr. Clark called on me, as on hundreds of obscure Canadians, and wrote down what I told him. Now I am appalled to find myself quoted as utterly despairing of the nation. Doubtless that is what I said after a day of peculiar irritation but it was not what I thought next morning or what I think now. Nevertheless, it goes down on the record and the reader has no reason to guess that I was talking through my hat.

Later Regrets

In similar fashion, I suspect, the many Canadians interviewed by Mr. Clark tossed off trenchant judgments as their immediate mood suggested and regretted them on reading the book.

After all, when a distinguished journalist confronts you with pencil and notebook you have to say something and are likely to exaggerate your feelings, especially your anger, just to sound good. You must demonstrate the independence and originality of your mind. No man likes to admit that he doesn't know what he thinks about any subject whatever. He must have an opinion and feels naked without it. So he blurts out some shocking heresy and suddenly feels very grand.

But fortunately he doesn't intend to impose his heresy on the nation. Indeed, he would be terrified if he thought that the nation would pay any heed to him. He makes his little protest, strikes his brief attitude, as I did, and goes quietly about his business, knowing that the nation will do the same.

If it were otherwise no free nation could endure. If all the threats, and if all the private citizens were to vote as they talked, we would not have a democracy. We would have a civil war.

As in the average family, the bark across the cranky breakfast table is far worse than the bite. By dinner time everyone is more tolerant, almost human. The savages are tamed. If they weren't, the family, like the nation, wouldn't last beyond tomorrow morning when the quarrels resumed.

Safety Valves

That is the virtue and salvation of a free society. Unlike a dictatorship, it has its harmless safety valves. It can blow off the steam pressure without total explosion. It can change governments and policies without a revolution.

A book such as Mr. Clark's has its virtues, too, even if the visible facts won't add up. It helps us to gauge the pressures and deal with them before they explode.

Nevertheless, the author, who has spent much time in distant countries, apparently returns from a tour of his own in a rather pessimistic mood. Like most Canadians, he is chiefly worried by the lack of a Canadian "identity."

That word is so loosely bandied about now-a-days that it has forfeited all meaning but there is really no need to worry about it. The Canadian identity shines clearly through Mr. Clark's book and many others, though the writers are quite unable to see it. They have lost sight of the forest in the trees, mislaid the meaning of their surveys in the documentation.

A foreigner examining the documents without prejudice may well conclude that Canada is about to explode but assuredly he will not conclude that it has no identity because the thing hits him straight in the eye. He will conclude, on the contrary, that a nation so furious in self-examination, so critical of itself, so desperately anxious to understand what it is doing and where it is going, already has made a positive identity in the negative act of denying it.

Temporary Despair

If there were no protest, no anger, no self-dissatisfaction then we might well despair, as apparently I did for one short evening. All men and nations are truly sick once they become satisfied with themselves. When everybody seems agreed that our nation is in a lamentable state and must do better, we have an identity all right, the identity of discontent. This surely means that Canadians share a common love of Canada, an odd, fretful patriotism or they wouldn't be so alarmed about their collective affairs, so eager to improve them.

Lock the Gates

I would like to congratulate Elizabeth Forbes on her article, "Time to Lock the Gates at Government House."

I am sure she expresses the opinion of a large majority of citizens. — "Also Disgusted."

What's Wrong With Sweeps?

When we read in the news about the millions of dollars in sweepstakes tickets seized in Canada, I wonder what the trouble with our country is, which will not permit a sweepstake here.

The expenses of hospitals would be taken care of without all the bickering, and folk wouldn't have to illegally buy the tickets. Three dollars seems so small for the chance of winning, and the sweep is for such a good cause.

Let's get smart and do something about it. The people on the other side of the ocean can't be so wicked, by gambling. — (Mrs.) Lillian Rennie, 2424 Central.

Low Rungs

From an Editorial in Le Devoir, Montreal

The fact that Mr. Maurice Sauve is stuck in the relatively minor post he held before the cabinet reorganization while Mr. Winters is awarded the ministry of commerce without striking a blow, is somewhat significant. Of all the choices Mr. Pearson had to make, this was the most telling, the most revelatory.

In choosing Mr. Winters, Mr. Pearson has opted, in an important sector of the administration, for a man whose recent history indicates he will be moved to defend the conservative point of view in the inner cabinet and to accent a movement towards the "North American continentalism" that is already far advanced with the infiltration of American capital into key sectors of our economy.

All the key posts of the next government will, in sum, be held down by strong men, by tested and orthodox men. The bureaucratic and financial establishments will be able to sleep in peace. There won't be any fitful sleepers among the more important ministers of the next Pearson cabinet.

No Major Posts

An observation of the same kind comes to light regarding the French-Canadian representation in the inner cabinet. The portfolios given to Messrs. Marchand, Pepin and Sauve are at best, just the embryos of major portfolios. The future ministries of manpower and energy will both probably be the grounds of subtle juridicial conflicts between Quebec and Ottawa.

The first will be used to implement the consequences of economic policies conceived by other ministries; the second seems destined only to influence governmental policy in the rather distant future. For the moment the portfolios that count—External Affairs, Finance, Trade and Commerce, Defence, Transport, Industry, Agriculture, Labor, Justice—all remain, except for one, in the hands of English-Canadian ministers. This fact ought to be very strongly deplored.

In the whole of the postings, only one, to be just, appears to be entirely absurd. It is the naming of Miss LaMarsh as Secretary of State. Mr. Lamontagne ... had undertaken, in this ministry, a worthwhile work which commanded general respect.

Tactless

It was a delicate job, one that demanded refinement and intelligence. What idea could have taken Mr. Pearson to entrust this ministry to someone whose lack of subtlety and other qualities is widely deplored?

In summing up, Mr. Pearson has opened the door of his cabinet a little wider to the younger elements of the Liberal party. But he has created—and to say this is not going too far—a double-storey cabinet.

There will be, on one side, the "elders," the real masters: this group stays the same save for its enrichment by the addition of Mr. Winters. Almost all its members are from Ontario.

There will be, on the other side, the "juniors," those who still have to pass the test. For some of the latter, new and more sonorous titles have been found. One should not, however, be tricked by the illusion; none of these ministers, except perhaps for Mr. Marchand, will be invited to penetrate the "inner-sanctum" where the real decisions will be made. The greater part of the ministers from Quebec, find themselves, as if by accident, on an inferior level.

FROM NEW YORK — By RICHARD PURSER

While Africans Were Out

IT was hardly noticed at the time, but Prime Minister Wilson had much to comment on besides Rhodesia during his stopover at the United Nations en route to Washington. While his chief concern in his lengthy General Assembly speech was to head off hasty action on Rhodesia that could bring racial conflagration in Africa and political conflagration to his government, he also presented UN members with an uncommonly realistic appraisal of the Viet Nam situation.

Purser

Uncommonly realistic, that is, in contrast to the partisan nonsense usually talked about Viet Nam at the UN. The non-aligned African states have taken to filling UN records with statements assuming the Communist position on Viet Nam to be true.

Since they will not listen to the United States—whose statements here on Viet Nam are regarded with some justification as rhetorical and unconvincing — they might better have listened to Mr. Wilson instead of scampering off to the delegates' lounge to complain to reporters about Rhodesia.

Shadow on Co-existence

Mr. Wilson said the Viet Nam war had cast a shadow over the co-existence hopes of a year or two ago, when it was dreamed that each side, "believing profoundly in the rightness of its own system of government, could still move closer together." The war is an immediate tragedy in Viet Nam, "but it is those who refuse to come to the conference table who are responsible for the perpetuation of this intolerable suffering." As long as the war continues there is danger of a greater war, but "again, it is those who refuse to negotiate who carry this responsibility."

Some Africans, in the padded comfort of the lounge, shrugged Mr. Wilson off as playing stooge to the U.S. in return for U.S. support of Britain in other matters. But Mr. Wilson's sincerity as a Viet Nam peace seeker is beyond reasonable doubt. The war, as long as it exists, creates an internal threat to his own party, and stymies all his hopes of fostering an international detente.

He has tried everything possible to pave the way for talks. His foreign minister, Mr. Michael Stewart, as one of the Geneva conference co-chairmen, has repeatedly urged his Soviet colleague to reconvene the conference. "So far, our Soviet friends have not been able to agree," Mr. Wilson said.

The Commonwealth, on Britain's initiative, appointed four heads of government of widely varying views to visit the capitals concerned. "From Washington and Saigon we had an agreement to receive us: from Peking and Hanoi there was no agreement. The efforts of the United Nations secretary-general have been equally unavailing. We have sought and are still seeking to turn the key in Hanoi, where alone this matter can be decided."

The Viet Nam problem itself "is not one that could at this time be most helpfully raised in the Security Council," Mr. Wilson said, but he suggested nine propositions for moving the UN forward "with a set purpose towards becoming a world authority":

Set Purpose

1. The General Assembly must have authority in the maintenance of international peace if the Security Council is rendered powerless by veto. (The Soviet bloc says "never" to this.)

2. Effective, efficient and permanent peacekeeping machinery must be established.

3. The UN financial deficit should be covered by contributions, and future decisions must not be rendered ineffectual through failure to finance them.

4. The UN should be able to act quickly in a military sense if peacekeeping "machinery" fails.

5. New approaches to methods of peaceful settlement should be studied.

6. There should be "a more coherent international responsibility" for economic development and co-operation. (Mr. Wilson expanded on the need for success in the Kennedy Round, and an expansionist mechanism in international payments.)

7. Stable and remunerative prices must be established for the primary produce of developing countries.

Disarmament

8. "The time is ripe for a drive forward on disarmament." (This is widely disputed; although the 18-nation Geneva disarmament conference is to reconvene next month, little action is expected while the Viet Nam war lasts.)

9. There must be an effective agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Mr. Wilson said this transcended all other disarmament-related questions in urgency.

"If, in 1966, we do not succeed in negotiating an effective and water-tight treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons, the world may have passed the point of no return. There are some non-nuclear nations nearing the end of their patience, Grant that they may have the patience to wait a little longer."

Mr. Wilson left it to his audience to supply names.

Looking Back

From The Times of Dec. 27, 1905:

Santo Domingo—Carlos F. Morales, dissatisfied with the cabinet support left the capital last night with a few followers. His intention it is said is to join Jiminez in opposition to the followers of Horacia. A conflict between the two forces is imminent, probably in the vicinity of San Juan, if Morales makes an attempt to establish a new capitol and create a new cabinet. There is political excitement, but without disturbances here. American holdings are said to be in safe hands.

The Young Brave Among the Scalps

By ALAN CRAIG, The Manchester Guardian

The African sun lay heavy on the patio, pressing the residents to inaction as they soaked in its luxurious lethargy. The roast beef, the paw paw fritters, and now the coffee pinned them to their chairs scattered through the scanty shade. The only movement came from the young male as he wound tape around his cricket bat like a mother swaddling her new-born baby. He stood up and cut the thick air with several cover drives, then sat down again.

"You know, I can't understand you people!" he exclaimed. "You waste all your Sunday afternoons like this—wallowing in your own laziness. No wonder you all complain about putting on weight!"

"Ah, that's our privilege," a bald head muttered from behind a chair. "At 45 one has the right to sink in a swamp of self-pity and do nothing about it." They laughed approval.

Moral Support

"If you won't move yourselves to action, at least you could give your city's side a bit of moral support."

"Oh we'll do that by all means—from here!"

"Sloth is a deadly sin!" taunted the young man.

"So is old age!" retorted another senior from behind his newspaper. The young man rose.

"Ah well," he sighed, "if you chaps are going to give up in the prime of life I'd better be off before I catch the disease!" He moved towards the entrance of the boarding house. "Boy!" he shouted, his voice lacertating the Sunday calm, then returned to his gibing. "I only hope I'm not like you in twenty years' time.

"It comes to us all, lad," countered a resigned voice.

"If you let it!" He turned again impatiently towards the door, "Boy!" he bawled. "And I don't intend to let it happen to me!"

A colored man of roughly 35 appeared from the shadows of the boarding house.

Cricket Gear

"Where the hell d'you think you've been, boy? Get my cricket gear together!"

The colored man retreated into the building's darkness, and the young male fondly swung his bat again.

"No sir! As long as I can swing this English willow you won't catch me sitting around on my fanny!"

"That's the stuff! I hope your rheumatism will agree!" Rheumatism! That's merely a state of mind!" he scorned.

"Wish mine was!" groaned an elder.

"Exercise—that's what you want." And he vigorously square-cut the air. "Where the hell does that boy think he's got to? Boy! Boy! For Christ's sake hurry up!"

"Impatient," scoffed one of the others. "Look, the young brave can't wait to get among the scalps!"

The colored man emerged from the house's shadows carrying some cricket kit.

Lost Boots

"Where the bloody hell d'you think you've been?"

"I couldn't find your boots, sah."

"They were in the cupboard. I don't suppose you looked in there!"

"Yes sah—but I found them in the bathroom."

"Bathroom! How the devil could they be there?"

"You put them there, sah."

The young man's face reddened and his knuckles whitened round the handle of the bat.

"You cheeky little sod!" He brought the bat back behind his head. Cutting sideways through the thick air, the blade made contact with the servant's head from his eyebrow to his ear. His sharp cry stirred the Sunday lethargy as the skin split like an orange thrown against a wall, and the blood quickly curtained half his face. "Don't come to me with your bloody lies! Now clear off!" The servant ran from the patio, his sticky hands pressed tight against his streaming head.

The young man turned and quickly packed his kit into a canvas bag. So suddenly disturbed, the air now gently settled down again to blanket the sleepy group. He picked up his bag and moved towards the sunshine.

"Well, you lot. I'll leave you to simmer in your own sweat!"

"Much better than boiling in it on a cricket field," yawned one of the oldermen. "Hurry up and clear off, and leave us to sleep it out in peace!"

But the young man missed the last sentence. He was already far out into the Rhodesian air, pushing his youthful vigor through it as a Channel swimmer would breast the swell.

Famous Last Words

(1670-1738)

Red Chinese Think U.S. Will Attack

Felix Greene is a Briton who has made four trips to China, made films and written two books on the country. In the following story he presents the situation in China as he observed it on his latest trip.

By FELIX GREENE

LONDON — The government in Peking is convinced that a U.S. attack on China has become highly probable. There is evidence the people are being prepared for a major confrontation.

Chen-yi, the foreign minister, said last September:

"It is up to the United States' president and the Pentagon to decide whether the United States wants a big war with China."

If the United States is determined to launch a war, he said, "they are welcome to come sooner — to come as early as tomorrow."

Empty bombast?

I don't think so.

Behind this challenge is the belief that the United States — if it faces an impasse in Viet Nam and is unready to concede defeat — may attempt to find a solution by widening the area of conflict.

Chen-yi's challenge also springs from a supreme confidence in China's defence capacity.

Target Practice

Wherever I went in China I saw young people drilling and taking target practice. The civilian militia has been extended so that almost everyone of 18 to 40, women as well as men, is in training.

As a result, China today can mount the greatest defence-in-depth the world has ever seen.

She could mobilize, I was told (and after what I saw I could believe it), a civilian defence army of 100,000,000 in a matter of hours.

Britain's Field Marshal Lord Montgomery was in China in 1960. After seeing the country's civilian militia he laid down a cardinal rule of war—never commit an army to fight on the mainland of China.

The civilian militia has been greatly extended since that time.

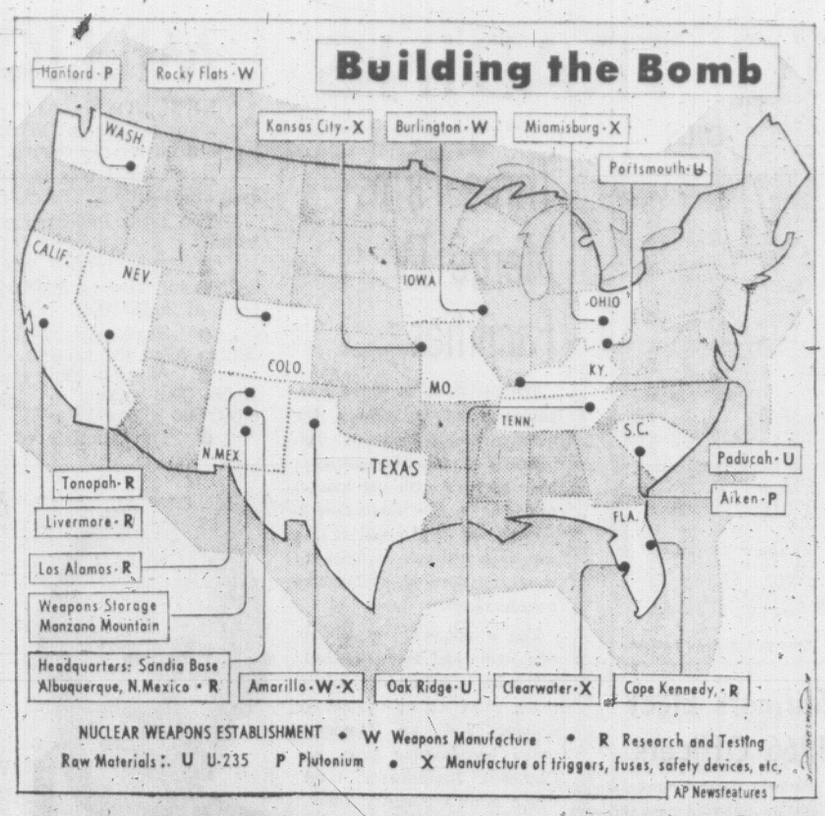

Yet with all this drilling the Chinese are not in what would be called a "militaristic" mood. I have never seen them more relaxed than they are today.

Part of the reason is that after years of difficulties, things are improving greatly in China.

There are no signs of food shortages. Rice and wheat still are rationed, but the rations are generous and not normally fully used.

While the general well-being of the Chinese people undoubtedly is advancing, no one in China is allowed to forget the "struggle against U.S. imperialism."

U.S. Building Fewer A-Bombs Because Arsenal Is So Full

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON—For the second year in a row, the United States is spending less for producing nuclear weapons—but there's no cause for any adversary to enjoy it more.

Indeed, all available evidence suggests that a major reason for the spending retrenchment is that a huge stockpile of both A-weapons and H-weapons has been built up in recent years.

Production of new and improved nuclear bombs, missiles, land mines, depth charges, artillery shells and other arms goes on—although the Atomic Energy Commission has said there is "a reduction in the rate of increase."

Spread About

Major plants and other facilities for the development, fabrication and testing of both nuclear and non-nuclear components of such weapons are spread over many states, extending from California to Florida and from Iowa to New Mexico.

Aside from investments in nuclear test sites in Nevada and the far Pacific area—the latter now on a stand-by basis—capital investment in this weapons production complex exceeds $1 billion.

For the year ended last June 30, the AEC spent $763 million on its weapons program, including costs of underground testing at the Nevada proving grounds. This represented a decrease of five per cent from the previous year.

$700 Million

In the current fiscal year—now half over—the AEC is operating with a weapons budget of $704.4 million.

The commission reports it "is maintaining the country's nuclear defence capability as well as its readiness to resume atmospheric testing in the event the limited test ban treaty is abrogated."

And where are the nation's completely fabricated weapons stored—other than those deployed with military units on land and sea and in the bays of ever-watchful bombers aloft?

Locations Secret

The location of these storage vaults is one of the nation's closest-kept secrets. But it's common talk around Albuquerque, N. Mex.—the nerve centre of America's far-flung nuclear weapons production complex—that one of the storage areas lies in Manzano Mountain, which overlooks the old southwest frontier town.

The location of the plants, laboratories and other facilities engaged in the actual development, fabrication and assembly of the weapons is NO secret—although, in most cases, the AEC describes only in general terms what goes on in such places.

Here's a run-down on weapons installations and their missions:

1. Raw Materials. Plutonium is produced at plants at Hanford, Wash., and Savannah River, Aiken, S.C. U-235 is produced in plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

2. The AEC's scientific laboratories at Las Alamos, N.M., and Livermore, Calif.: Where new weapons concepts are dreamed up for testing. These laboratories also fabricate the nuclear explosive components for later use in completed weapons. The Y-12 plant at Oak Ridge also fabricates U-235 into bomb components.

3. Amarillo, Tex.: Manufacture of conventional chemical explosives for use as "triggers" for nuclear explosives.

4. Mound Laboratory, Miamisburg, Ohio: Produces special explosives for detonators and other devices.

5. Pinellas Peninsula plant, near Clearwater, Fla.: Develops and produces complex, miniaturized "neutron-generating devices" to provide the first nuclear "sparks" for a chain-reaction within a weapon.

6. Sandia Base, Albuquerque, New Mexico: Nerve centre for the development and rigorous slam-bang testing of various non-nuclear components. The latter range from switching and timing devices and automatic fuses to "safeing" devices to prevent premature explosion or unauthorized detonation of completed weapons.

Beatniks, New Puritans Lead Student Protests

By WILLARD CLOPTON, The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—Just because a college student wears a beard and casual clothes and joins in a peace march, don't write him off as a beatnik.

He may be a new puritan.

The more dishevelled among the student protest movement is made up of two quite different types whose only resemblance is physical, says Dr. Waldo Beach, professor of Christian ethics at Duke University.

On the one hand are the beatniks—those who reject all authority, be it governmental, economic or moral.

On the other are what Beach calls the new puritans, who may rebel against superficial conventions such as coats, ties and clean shaves, but who take strong positive stands on basic human values.

For every beatnik who burns his draft card there are several new puritans marching on civil rights picket lines or helping southern Negroes become registered voters, Beach said.

New Puritans, like the old, are notable for their inner-directed zealousness. But unlike their New England predecessors, whose basic concern was with personal morality, the new generation is deeply involved with issues of social morality.

The new Puritans' actions "are often more Christian in essence than those of cautious, church-going suburbanites," Beach said.

Although the Viet Nam protest movement attracts both beatniks and idealists, he said, their motivations are different.

"The beatnik simply revolts against the whole thing. He says 'No.' He wants out.

"But the new Puritan is more likely to be the one pushing for negotiations. He, too, feels revulsion for the killing, but he is sensitive to the political problems the United States government has. It isn't just negativism with him."

Both types, Beach feels, are a reaction against the campus operator who, during the 1950s, sought popularity above all, "whose God was the crowd."

But the new Puritans' revolt is a genuine rebellion against conformity, he said, while the beatnik, with their long hair, corduroy jackets and guitars, simply conform in a different way.

De Gaulle Must See To Domestic Issues

By WAVERLEY ROOT, The Washington Post

PARIS — Lessons learned from the voting in the French presidential election are likely to inspire considerable changes in internal policies in France, making of 1966 a year of social and economic change.

Certain significant results demonstrated a decrease in support for Gaullism wherever economic development has lagged—or receded. Some observers are of the opinion that domestic issues did more to reduce President Charles de Gaulle's majority than the more-discussed international questions, such as the Common Market crisis.

One of the most striking examples of the importance of local considerations was provided by the port and shipbuilding city of St. Nazaire. St. Nazaire is in Brittany, always strongly Gaullist. Its department is the Loire-Atlantique, which as a whole gave de Gaulle almost 61 per cent of its vote. But St. Nazaire voted almost as strongly for lefists candidate Francois Mitterand, who received more than 59 per cent of the city's votes.

There was no doubt about the reason for this reversal. The economy of St. Nazaire depends largely on shipbuilding, and two of its shipyards have had to shut down for long periods during the past year or two for lack of orders.

In certain other regions which supported de Gaulle, individual exceptions occurred in industrial communities which had suffered from labor disputes or economic depression of one sort or another.

Bloc Suffers

Similarly, a bloc of departments in southwestern France, extending north from the traditional radical stronghold of Languedoc, which would have voted Mitterand anyway, put de Gaulle in the minority presumably because it has suffered economically for two reasons.

One is the population flight from rural areas and small towns to the big cities, an indication that the government policy of decentralization and development of poorer regions has not been sufficiently successful.

The other is the uncertain agricultural situation which has made many of the farmers anti-Gaullist. Whatever effect the warning of the farm vote may have on internal agricultural policies, it is certainly not likely to make France any less uncompromising on its fight within the Common Market for a privileged position for French agriculture.

De Gaulle's major interest is in international matters, and the policy he is pursuing in regard to them is his personal policy. It is chiefly to pursue that policy that he is in office, and even if analysts argue that the presidential voting indicates a majority of the public does not agree with him on his foreign policy—a questionable deduction — he will not alter it.

Less Interested

But de Gaulle is notoriously less interested in economic matters. He tried to dispell the impression that he does not concern himself greatly about them during the election campaign by saying in a televised interview, "Nothing has occupied me more for a very long time than the national prosperity."

What direction changes may take is a question which still remains in the realm of speculation. There may be a relaxation of the stabilization policy, which has been applying a brake to increased production to prevent inflation.

There may also be a reduction of the pressure against salary increases. More intensive efforts may be made to improve the situation in especially sensitive areas—like shipping and shipbuilding, or agriculture. The campaign for the development of underprivileged areas is likely to be stepped up. Probably efforts will be made to improve relations between government and the trade unions.

Some of these likely developments will not be palatable to the present artisans of French economic policy, so some resignations, voluntary or forced, can be expected, even, perhaps, at the ministerial level. But it will be a new look for internal affairs only. Her policies abroad are expected to bear much the same aspect.

At Least the New Cabinet Is Loaded With Good Looks

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

Most of us will be confused for months about the reorganization of departments announced by Mr. Pearson.

The most significant changes seem to be the creation of the departments of manpower and resources and energy, not so stirring as new structures, but because Tom Kent, the prime minister's imagination, becomes deputy minister for manpower and the two ministers will be youngish, aggressive French-Canadians, Jean Marchand and Jean-Luc Pepin. Allan MacEachen seems to have been sidetracked, being given the housekeeping job in national health and welfare.

Fisher

At first blush one may assume that Judy LaMarch's transfer from health to secretary of state is a demotion but it isn't so. It hasn't the name but her new department is really the ministry of culture, responsible for such burgeoning or troublesome matters as university affairs, the CBC and broadcasting, the National Film Board, and Canada Council. There'll be some pretty shaken officials preparing fixed smiles for Miss LaMarch.

My advice to the prime minister has had less effect than I expected. He did take up my suggestions that Joe Greene and Larry Pennell should get big jobs and that Lucien Cardin was over-strained. But he kept Messrs. Teillet, Robichaud and Drury in their portfolios and gave John Turner very little as minister without portfolio.

★ ★ ★

No one that I know touted the new postmaster general, Jean-Pierre Cote. He's been a most assiduous MP at sitting in the House. He has a rugged handsomeness that will match the manly graces of Robert Winters. It's going to be one of the most handsome cabinets in Canadian history.

Everyone in business and commerce on the corporate executive level is bound to be pleased about the parts given to Mitchell Sharp and Robert Winters. This will be another example of where I disagree. For company I shall have to turn to those ordinary Liberal MPs who'll be disturbed at the start on the Liberal leadership that the trade and commerce portfolio will give the Honorable Bob. Paul Hellyer stands on guard at national defence. More and more he's likely to become the poor man's long shot for the leadership.

Just last week I heard a psychic Mr. Greene on an Ottawa radio proclaiming the virtues of the family farm, that "backbone of Canada" as Joe called it. Alvin Hamilton has argued that a good minister of agriculture must have one capacity above all others. He has to be able to cry with the farmers.

The acreage payments may be rolling in, the wheat quotas rising, butter subsidies stable, pork prices zooming, American poultry banned, but the farmer wants somebody to sympathize with him, to tell him how badly he's being treated and that better days are coming. Joe can cry and moan to suit an Irish wake. I'll predict that he'll never be like Harry Hays, telling the farmers that they've never had it so good.

★ ★ ★

Something must be said about the glories given to that old reliable, Guy Favreau. Mr. Pearson is having trade marks, patents, and companies act registrations transferred to Mr. Favreau as president of the Privy Council. It's almost as good as being asked to resign. Now some Establishment con man will tip us that this change will give Mr. Favreau time to groom Mr. Marchand as his successor as deputy leader (French-Canadian).

Mr. Pearson has said that the department of forestry is to become the department of rural development and forestry with Maurice Sauve carrying on as minister but with a stepped-up program on the rural side of it. Those of you who have followed Mr. Sauve's recent fortunes know that he represents one of the most quaintly rural parts of Canada. Undoubtedly his success in modernizing and reforming the attitudes of his constituents in the past three years brought this vote of confidence from the prime minister.

The Eskimos will be happy to keep Arthur Laing as their protector against those chaps from Quebec like Rene Levesque who wanted to make them tri-lingual. On the other hand the Indians will have another new minister in Mr. Laing to tell them how concerned we all are about their plight.

The passing of Mr. Nicholson to a rather mutilated labor department reminds me that it will now be Jean Marchand's turn to tell us that the government is busily preparing a white paper on immigration policy. When that paper is finally produced I want it called the Fulton-Fairclough - Bell - Favreau-Nicholson-Marchand Declaration.

In sum then, the Prime Minister has given us the best-looking collection of ministers in living memory: John Turner, Bob Winters, Jean-Luc Pepin, Jean Marchand, Jean-Pierre Cote, Paul Hellyer, Joe Greene, Arthur Laing, Allan MacEachen, Larry Pennell, Bud Drury, Jack Nicholson, and the Yul Brynner figure of E. G. Benson. Cleverly, Mr. Pearson has kept Judy LaMarch, Mitchell Sharp, George McIlraith and Eddy Robichaud for contrast.

REACTION AGAINST SHADY DEALS

Year of Reform Seen for Securities

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—For much of Ontario's securities industry, 1965 has been the year of revelation and 1966 could be the year of reform.

Pushed by the reports of two independent commissions and prodded by public reaction against opportunities for shady dealings they detailed, a clean-up program has been promised that could — if the promise is fulfilled—lead to far-reaching changes for investors all across Canada.

Expected early in the new year as a result of the outspoken findings of the Kimber and Windfall reports is new, tougher Ontario securities legislation. The oft-criticized Toronto Stock Exchange already has introduced some changes to halt unwanted practices and has promised more.

If these steps do produce serious reforms, officials agree other provinces and perhaps Ottawa will have to re-examine their securities laws, opening the way to a new era of improved investor protection in Canada.

It was the question of investor protection that touched off the two Ontario studies.

The first, which reported last March, was a special committee under John Kimber, chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, appointed to recommend changes in securities legislation.

LACKED INFORMATION

Although talk of the committee had been in the air for some time, its appointment was triggered by a controversial takeover of one company by another in which, critics said, shareholders were not given enough information to be able to assess the offer properly.

The Windfall report came down in October. It was the result of a year's investigation by Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court as a one-man royal commission into the boom-bust cycle of shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd.

The shares rose to $5.60 from 56 cents in July, 1964, on rumors of an important ore find, then collapsed overnight when the rumors were denied. The nosedive cost investors millions.

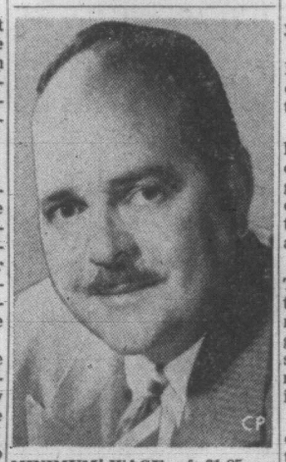

Although the Kimber report deals with securities legislation generally while Windfall dissects one special episode, some identical criticisms color both:

—The Ontario Securities Commission is too small, too poor and is handicapped by a lack of clearly stated authority and responsibility;

—Executives don't always pay as much attention to their ethical responsibilities as they should;

—The cloak of respectability that mantles the Toronto Stock Exchange can be used by unscrupulous operators to hoodwink unwary investors who assume listing on the exchange automatically assures protection against duplicity; —Regulations about keeping the investing public properly informed are too lax.

MINIMUM WAGE of $1.25 an hour for construction workers and $1 an hour for both men and women in general industry, hotels and restaurants goes into effect across Ontario today, says Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree.

MAY AWAIT REPORTS

Any legal changes during the next year are expected to occur in some, or possibly all, of these areas, although many observers argue that the Ontario government will not take any major steps until after a select committee on company law reports and the royal commission on the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. is finished.

That will take about two years.

Meanwhile the Toronto Stock Exchange, starting with what it calls a "blueprint for the future," has hit the reform trail.

In presenting the blueprint last June, the exchange conceded the public could be forgiven if it concluded the exchange was operated mostly for the benefit of stock brokers and a few sharp operators.

To try to overcome this, the TSE took many administrative tasks away from committees made up of member firms and gave them to its permanent staff. The aim is to reduce the number of potential conflict-of-interest situations.

The TSE also appointed a so-called stock cop, whose job it is to watch for unusual market action in any company and, if necessary, recommend suspension of trading.

MORE DELISTING

Another long-sought change came when the exchange announced it would start delisting dormant mining and oil companies. Take-over of such companies has long been a favorite ploy of the fast-buck promoters, since it was easily and cheaply done and lent respectability to their operations.

But some reform-minded Bay Streeters, who have seen exchange bylaws broken with impunity for years, aren't convinced the TSE's changes so far really mean much.

One financial analyst notes a little-known fact in the Windfall report is that brokers made more than $1,000,000 in commissions alone from that company's hectic trading.

"How many times have you seen anyone give up a million dollars without a gun pointed at his head?" he asks. "So far I haven't seen anything that looks like a gun.

"Nothing the government or the exchange does will really change the situation until they change their basic philosophy.

"Rules and regulations still are geared essentially to helping companies raise money. They should be aimed at protecting the investor."

Laurentide Ups Reserve

VANCOUVER (CP)—Laurentide Financial Corp. Ltd., one of Canada's largest finance companies, has announced an increase in loss reserve to improve the company's ability to borrow money in the United States.

Peter Paul Saunders, president of the company, said the change is the "latest in a series of steps we have taken to overcome the shrinking effect of the Atlantic Acceptance Co. default on money available for lending in Canada."

Laurentide has offices in North America and Europe.

Laurentide will carry a loss reserve equal to 2¼ per cent of its receivables — the usual reserve of major American finance companies—instead of the normal 1¼ to 1½ per cent maintained by Canadian companies.

Mr. Saunders said this move "has made it necessary to restate Laurentide earnings for the past 10 years."

8 Million Lose Power

BUENOS AIRES, (UPI) — Residents of this densely populated Latin American city slipped back into their daily routine today, none the worse apparently from a Sunday afternoon power failure that cut off electricity to some 8,000,000 persons. The failure stopped the city's five subway lines and four lines of electric commuter trains.

OIL VOTE SCHEDULED

TORONTO (CP) — Texaco refinery workers at nearby Port Credit and in Montreal will vote Tuesday on a contract agreement reached Thursday between negotiators for the company and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC).

IRON ORE

October Trips Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Shipments of iron ore by Canadian producers totalled 3,993,335 tons in October, a drop of 3.5 per cent from the 4,138,109 tons shipped in October of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

January-October shipments of 32,458,627 tons were about one per cent above the 32,174,761 tons were about one per cent above the 32,174,761 tons moved in the same period of 1964.

End-of-October stocks held by producers were 3,838,412 tons, down 13.3 per cent from year-earlier levels.

WARNING SYSTEM of Viet Cong is this makeshift horn, part musical instrument and part rice mill — but it worked. It was heard during a U.S. naval assault on town of Long Than. When landing was complete, enemy had vanished. Here it is tested by a South Vietnamese soldier.

Dancer Kisses Pilot After Plane Dunked

ABOARD THE TICONDEROGA (AP) — Bob Hope and his troupe of entertainers got a rousing ovation today from more than 2,500 sailors jamming the flight deck of the U.S. 7th Fleet carrier Ticonderoga off the coast of Viet Nam.

Hope touched off a storm of applause when he took a potshot at American students who demonstrate against the war in Viet Nam.

Wolf whistles from sailors greeted shapely stars Carroll Baker, Kaye Stevens, Joey Heatherton, Anita Bryant and Dianna Batts as they appeared in tight-fitting dresses.

The evening almost ended in tragedy when an A-4 Skyhawk returning from a strike against the Viet Cong went out of control as it came in for a landing.

The pilot, Lieut. J. G. (Bill) Brougher of Johnstown, Pa., ejected as the plane plunged into the sea and exploded.

Rescued by helicopter, Brougher was taken to sick bay and greeted by a kiss from dancer Joey Heatherton.

Scientists in Dispute On Civil Defence Systems

BERKELEY, Calif (AP)—Two prominent scientists clashed today over proposals to spend millions on anti-missile systems and fallout shelters.

"Reliance upon a defence system of such extraordinary complexity may bring more risk than safety," said Dr. Barry Commoner, head of the botany department at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

Countered Dr. Edward Teller, University of California physicist and one of the inventors of the atomic bomb:

"A strong civil defence is our best hope of preventing nuclear attack."

The two spoke at a briefing before a symposium on civil defence at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Commoner, an authority on radiation effects, said nuclear war could bring epidemics, crop destruction by radiation, erosion resulting from massive destruction of vegetation, and possibly catastrophic climatic changes.

". . . All that we speak of as our civilization would be irrevocably lost following a major nuclear war."

Teller, urging strong civil defence measures as a deterrent, said:

"The Russians and Chinese are not mad, as Hitler was. I don't think they will want to start a war unless they are sure they can defeat us, and they can't be sure if we have a strong civil defence."

VENUS PROBES THIRD OF WAY SOVIETS SAY

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Saturday that its two unmanned Venus probes, launched last month, have covered nearly a third of the way to the earth's cloud-wrapped sister planet.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Venus 3, launched Nov. 16, is about 6,200,000 miles from the earth and functioning normally. It said Venus 2, launched Nov. 12, is slightly farther away.

'WHERE'S THE BABY?'

Anne and Maggie In Slumberland

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Baby Anne had a wonderful Christmas!

How could she help it—with a doting mother and father, several grown-up aunts and uncles and a round dozen of cousins in varying stages of growth.

Forbes

The Christmas tree was at the grandparents. There were gifts for everyone, including the aunts and the uncles and the steps-and-stages cousins.

But the gifts that everyone was most interestd in were those for little Anne.

She was seated on the floor. The parcels, in all sizes and shapes, were placed around her.

Of course, the idea was to have her open her gifts herself. But three-year-old fingers are slow and easily distracted.

It wasn't long until the cousins were helping a bit, here and there.

Little Anne chattered excitedly and clapped her hands as the gifts emerged from their wrappings.

There was a baby doll that cried, a sleek-furred bear that growled deep in its throat, a big Christmas stocking, a black and white panda, a doll's cradle and a doll's buggy.

There was a top that hummed tunes. Books with big colored pictures and a tiny dancing man who beat a big drum.

Little Anne had fun. So did the uncles and the aunts and the cousins.

They played with the top. They laughed at the little man who beat away at his drum. And they dressed and undressed the baby doll.

Suddenly they missed little Anne!

"Where's the baby?" someone asked. For a moment there was confusion as the uncles and the aunts and the cousins dashed about the big room.

★ ★ ★

It was her mother who found her, curled up on a couch in her grandfather's study, sound asleep.

What was she hugging, close under her chin? Not the new baby doll, nor the black and white panda with the big wide eyes.

It was a lanky rag doll, minus an arm and with only one eye. There was little color left on the cheeks and no hair on the head. But little Anne held the doll tightly and, even in sleep, there was a look of love on her baby face.

★ ★ ★

This was Maggie the doll she was given when she could barely hold out her hands.

Maggie always had a bath with little Anne. She went with her on walks and to bed with her at night. She ate much of little Anne's food. Indeed, she entered into every minute of this tiny tot's day.

Mother covered Maggie and her little mistress with a warm blanket. The uncles and the aunts and the cousins went back to the living room to gather up the shiny new toys and place them back under the tree.

You can see that baby Anne did have a wonderful Christmas!

Deathbed Wish To Help Some 4-H Member

OTTAWA (CP)—The dying request of a British Columbia farm boy is to be fulfilled in 1967 with the first award of a university scholarship to a member of the 4-H club movement.

The Canadian Council on 4-H clubs said today the fund launched on his deathbed by Bill Alendal of Sardis, B.C., now has been built up to $3,200. It expects that the figure will be high enough to make an award in 1967.

Before his death from leukemia last March, Bill Alendal, 19, had saved $1,500 to study law at the University of British Columbia. His last request was that the money be used to start a scholarship plan for members of 4-H clubs, the organization of junior farmers.

Bill's parents added $500 and donations began coming in from 4-H members across B.C.

CHRISTMAS AT THE EMPRESS

'We're Here to Enjoy Ourselves'

Christmas at the Empress!

That has been the dream of Edward Keefe ever since he first came to Victoria with his parents 49 years ago.

The dream came true this year when Mr. Keefe, his wife and their 15-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth, joined the more than 700 guests who celebrated Christmas Empress style.

"It's wonderful—really wonderful," said 57-year-old Mr. Keefe as he surveyed the glittering, festive-clad lounge.

"We've been here many times in the summer and enjoyed it. But the old traditional Empress Christmas was just an echo to us. We heard about it and we read about it, but the real thing always seemed just beyond our reach."

Mr. Keefe, whose home is in Oklahoma City, is president of Kiwanis International, but says that is strictly incidental to his visit.

"We are here to enjoy ourselves," he said.

One reason Mr. and Mrs. Keefe were eager to share in the Olde English Christmas at the Empress is that their respective grandparents came out to the United States from England.

"My ancestors lived many generations in the county of Sussex," Mr. Keefe said. "My parents took me there twice when I was a boy and we visited the cemetery where my grandparents are buried.

"Alas, we never had the opportunity to spend Christmas in England."

Born in Ohio and raised in New York, Mr. Keefe was elected president of Kiwanis International last July.

He says the organization now has 275,000 members in Canada, the U.S. and 17 other countries and is active in many fields of charitable enterprise.

He is particularly proud of the development of Kiwanis Villages for senior citizens in North America. He inspected additions to the Victoria village, which he last visited in 1963.

"This is a really worthwhile enterprise," he said.

HE GOT THE CALL

'Best Christmas Present I Could Get' Says Mormon

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — For 10 years Richard Keith Newton has been buildings inspector of North Cowichan.

He quit this week after receiving a "call" from the Mormon Church to be a missionary among the Indians of New Mexico.

He has to finance the two-year mission out of his own pocket.

He said: "It means selling my home, furniture and cashing in my savings.

"But the call is the best Christmas present I could have got."

GIVES UP $5,000

A 40-year-old bachelor, Mr. Newton is a minister of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

He is giving up a $5,000-a-year salary to become a missionary.

And he has no safeguard about his future after two years.

He said: "I may get a call again, or I may have to find another secular job."

Mr. Newton is an ex-member of the United Church.

"I was not disillusioned with the United Church but feel my new faith gives me more personal opportunity.

He says the missionaries among the Navajo Indians live frugally and humbly and he expects the two years' work to cost him about $2,000.

Mr. Newton feels his municipal job has helped him know people and their problems in an individual way.

He is "thrilled at the honor" of being called to missionary work.

"The peace of mind I've known since receiving the call has already more than repaid any sacrifice I may be called to make. I'm having a hard job holding myself down I'm so excited."

OVERCOME HANDICAP

Mr. Newton, afflicted since birth by a cleft palate and hair lip, is amazed he was chosen to work as a missionary.

As a child it was expected he would not be able to speak, but he has overcome his handicap.

He requested work among the Indians "because I love them."

He expects to leave at the end of January for a six-week course at Salt Lake City before going to the desert states of New Mexico and Arizona.

Power Lines Falling Like Snow in Valley

DUNCAN — "We're in trouble all over."

The admission came this morning from Al Van Sacker, area manager of B.C. Hydro, as snow continued to fall heavily throughout the Cowichan Valley.

Power lines are down throughout the area with the exception of central Duncan, Ladysmith and Chemainus.

The Mill Bay area has been powerless since 7 a.m. and residents are without light and water.

SHORT-HANDED

Mr. Van Sacker said with men sick and on holiday his crews were short-handed but are working full-steam trying to cope.

Highway crews stationed at Duncan are plowing into two-foot drifts in the Glenora and Cowichan Station districts.

12 INCHES

Duncan itself had almost a foot of snow overnight and RCMP report numerous minor car accidents.

Telephone communications are not badly affected as yet.

The Malahat was closed to all but essential traffic.

ISLAND DIGEST

FOUR HURT IN CRASH

TOFINO—An accident on the Alberni-Tofino highway Christmas Eve sent four persons to hospital.

The accident occurred when two cars collided at a corner of the road which was covered with snow.

Driver of one car was Edwin Burns, Ucluelet, was injured, and an occupant of the car, Leslie Hillier, is still in hospital with undetermined injuries.

Driver of the second car was Ron Watson, also of Ucluelet. He and another occupant of his car were injured slightly.

TWO SURVIVE PLANE FLIP

TOFINO — Heavy snow on the airport runway here is believed to have caused a small airplane to flip over while attempting a take-off Sunday afternoon.

The pilot, Barry Gear, and two passengers were uninjured.

Tofino airport was closed to all traffic today. Heavy snow was falling.

Gwynne Accepts

DUNCAN — Vancouver tenor Hugh Gwynne has accepted the lead role in Duncan Musical Club's production, Gondoliers, which is to be presented early in the new year.

SNOW BALKS SEARCHERS

The search for the body of a missing man was called off today in Sooke because of the snowfall.

RCMP today were to have resumed the search for the body of Stanley Jones, 36-year-old son of Charles Jones, acting chief of the Renfrew Indian Band.

Mr. Jones apparently fell into the water off Port Renfrew wharf last Wednesday night. His car was found on the wharf with its headlights still burning at 10 p.m. Wednesday.

'COPTER AT WORK

Navy divers searched the waters around the wharf and the bay early Friday without turning up the body. A helicopter search of the shoreline was also made.

Sooke RCMP said this morning the search of the shoreline was to have continued today by boat but was called off on account of poor visibility.

Big Qualicum Permit Plan Reinstated

QUALICUM—A special permit system for fishing the Big Qualicum River will be reinstated Jan. 1 and remain until the end of April.

The provincial fish and game branch in co-operation with the federal department of fisheries announced the special permit covers the part of the river from the Island Highway Bridge upstream to a point marked by a boundary sign below Horne Lake.

The system has been put into effect to contribute to steelhead management studies being jointly carried out by the two departments.

HOME GARDEN

Don't Throw Away Those Left-Overs

By HILDA BEASTALL

The heading might as well be what to do with the pieces.

Not the pieces of turkey or that fabulous plum pudding. There are many methods we women will use to rehabilitate those left-overs into dishes even more appreciated than the original.

Hilda

But the pieces of cedar bough and branches of balsam and pine are too often cast outdoors for burning later.

And the Christmas tree, briefly the joy of the home, follows the same path to the trash burner.

Where a garden exists which contains treasures to bloom during winter, these branches and twiggy pieces can be thrust into the soil on the north and north-east to break the wind and trap a little extra warmth from the fugitive sun.

In the rock garden, the early blooming Draba aizoon and the many forms of Crocus chrysanthus making their appearance soon after the brave New Year may receive a vestige more protection from evergreen sprays on their north side.

SNACK BAR

The discarded Christmas tree may assume a new role of importance when set up firmly in even the barest of yards as a snack bar for the birds.

Pieces of beef fat, with the skin attached to hold it together, may be wired to the branches. This is a special necessity for birds in winter we are told.

If a tough crust of a home baked loaf were ever discarded, it too could be wired to the tree.

These outdoor activities are just what we need after three days of Christmas.

3 MONTHS TO GO

Goodwill Home Soon Complete

George Gray, president of Goodwill Enterprises said today there is only interior work left to do on the new Goodwill building at Bay and Wilson.

The snow won't make any difference.

"We'll even have the heat on next week," said Mr. Gray.

The $555,000 workshop and rehabilitation centre will be in operation by March and will have its formal opening the month after.

It has been a long time in the planning and the building.

The Rotary Club of Victoria over a seven-year drive towards the building's construction fund has raised over $90,000.

ALMOST DEFEATED

Spiralling building costs and other setbacks, like the burning of temporary Goodwill quarters in July '64, almost defeated the project.

But the new centre, to be named Blakeney House, for Fred Blakeney, founder of Goodwill Enterprises in Victoria, is now officially undefeatable.

It will house 100 handicapped trainees from Vancouver Island. The trainees will work in the plant's clothing repair, laundry, dry cleaning and pressing, furniture repair, electric appliance repair and housewares processing shops.

The Yates Street store will remain the main retail outlet.

The centre will contain offices for personal counselling and health services and space for the installation of a cafeteria.

New Faces Appear In Spring Thaw Opening Here

TORONTO (CP) — Two Australians will be among the new faces in Spring Thaw this year following weekend completion of casting.

Robert Johnston, who purchased production rights to the perennial Canadian revue from Mavor Moore, will take the show on a coast-to-coast tour after its debut in Victoria in late January.

The two Australians are Pamela Beard, 27, who arrived in Canada two months ago after playing leading roles in U.S. musicals in Australia, and Bob Ainslie, 25, who has had previous experience in Canada.

Also joining the cast for the first time as actor-singer-dancers are Robina Beard, Betty Hader and John Rutter, while Marylyn Stuart, Jack Duffy, Dean Regan and Peter Mews have been re-engaged from previous seasons.

Pierre Gelinas, 25, of Montreal has been commissioned to design the sets for Spring Thaw '66. Alan Lund will repeat his 1965 double role as choreographer and director.

Indian Agent Kamloops-Bound

PORT ALBERNI — Jack L. Homan, superintendent of Indian Affairs in the Alberni Valley and the west coast area, has been transferred to Kamloops.

Mr. Homan, who has been in charge of the district for the past four years, will take up his new duties on the mainland in February.

Caught in Door

TORONTO (CP)—A 50-year-old man was killed Christmas Eve when his hand got caught in the closing doors of a subway train and he was dragged 100 feet along the track. Witnesses said Griffith Pritchard of suburban Scarborough was dragged from the platform and his body fell between the cars.

5.4% Wage Increase For Sooke Teachers

Sooke school teachers have received wage increases similar to those awarded Greater Victoria teachers a week ago.

The settlement was reached Friday only five days before Sooke school board and the teachers were to take their salary dispute to an arbitration board.

The average increase in wages under the new contract is 5.4 per cent. This is similar to the average increase in Greater Victoria but Sooke teachers will receive a little less and a little more in certain categories.

The agreement marks the end of salary negotiations in this area. Saanich teachers earlier won an average increase of 5.7 per cent after going to arbitration.

RAG DOLL SAVED

4 Homeless After Fire On W. Coast

PORT ALBERNI—A family of four was left homeless here Thursday night when their rented home was destroyed by fire.

An electric light left burning to welcome them home is believed to have short-circuited and caused the fire which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emlyn Moore.

$7,000 DAMAGE

Damage to the house and contents was estimated at more than $7,000.

Area residents offered aid to the stricken family which is staying with a relative.

When Chief Maurice Smith and the crew of the volunteer fire department arrived at about 6 p.m. smoke and flames were already erupting from the doors and windows of the home.

FIREMAN HURT

No one was home when the fire started and the only casualty was a fireman who received a cut on his head when a window "exploded" as a result of the heat.

A rag doll which was to be a Christmas gift for one of the children was the only gift saved.

It was the third house fire within a month which has caused serious damage in the Alberni Valley.

PENSION HIKE

Hong Kong Veterans Optimistic

Victoria's Hong Kong veterans are optimistic their request for an increase in disability pensions will be granted.

They are also hoping for further protection for their wives and children after the death of a veteran.

Robert Manchester of Victoria, president of the B.C. Hong Kong Veterans' Association, said Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet is considering their request.

"HOPEFUL"

"His letter didn't say what changes would be made," Mr. Manchester said, "but we are hopeful our request for an increased pension will be granted."

At present a Hong Kong veteran must have at least a 50 per cent disability pension for his family to benefit after his death. The veterans have asked that this be lowered.

130 IN B.C.

Mr. Manchester said discussions with the government have been going on since 1945. There are 1,200 Hong Kong veterans across Canada, of whom 130 live in British Columbia.

A two-year study directed by Dr. H. J. Richardson of the Canadian Pensions Commission has been made into the problems of Hong Kong Veterans.

The survey showed that Hong Kong veterans have more social and economic problems than other veterans.

"They had significantly more medical disabilities, including gastro-intestinal, neurological and psychological problems and inferior dental health," Dr. Richardson reported.

"Among Hong Kong veterans as a whole, there have been significantly more deaths from coronary artery diseases than would have been expected among Canadian men of the same age group."

MILLAR SPARKLES

Leafs Lose, Draw

It didn't aid their own cause too greatly, but Victoria Maple Leafs shared with the rich and gave to the poor during the Christmas weekend.

As a result, the Western Hockey League-leading Leafs turned into the final week of 1965 with only a four-point advantage over the rest of the field.

Point-starved Seattle Totems made a move out of the cellar Saturday night by upsetting the Leafs 5-1 at Memorial Arena. Victoria salvaged a point Sunday night in Portland by playing to a 2-2 draw with the second-place Buckaroos.

And although the Leafs' morale was given a big lift as a result of Sunday's deadlock, the tie extended Victoria's winless streak to four games.

Improved Defense

Portland, playing before a hometown crowd of 8,988, had a chance to close to within two points of the Leafs. But the Victorians, turning around with a vastly-improved defensive effort after a mediocre effort Saturday night, wouldn't allow it.

The Leafs can thank brothers Fred and Sandy Hucul and goaltender Al Millar for Sunday's split.

In addition to playing standout defensive hockey, the Hucul brothers looked after the goal-getting chores Sunday.

Sandy scored his second of the year early in the second period after Larry Leach had staked the Bucks to a 1-0 lead. Bill Saunders and Fred Hucul traded power-play goals later in the period, then the defences took over.

Miss Advantage

Portland's defence was at its best in the waning seconds of the second period. Leafs had a great opportunity to break the deadlock when the Bucks were short-handed for three minutes and 45 seconds, including a 15-second stretch with two Portland players in the penalty box.

Victoria's defence, and Millar, had a chance to glow in the final 90 seconds of regulation time when Bill Shvetz was penalized. Millar made two brilliant stops to force the overtime period.

The Huculs had good moments Saturday night but it wasn't enough to keep Seattle from handing the Leafs their first home-ice loss in 15 games. All five Seattle goals were scored against the Shvetz-Aut Erickson pairing.

Forwards No Better

In fairness to Shvetz and Erickson however, it might be pointed out that Victoria forwards were more at fault than the defencemen on at least three of the five goals.

Winger Bill Dineen, with two, defenceman Larry Hale, Guyle Fielder and Earl Heiskala scored Seattle's goals.

Winger Lou Jankowski, who along with Andy Hebenton and Bob Barlow was the best of Victoria,s forwards, saved Leafs from being shut out by Ernie Wakeley. The goal was Jankowski's 14th of the year and his 300th in league play.

Jankowski might have changed the complexion of the game completely had it not been for a goal-pipe. With the Leafs trailing 3-1, Jankowski deflected a shot in the opening seconds of the third period that had Wakeley beaten. The puck bounced off a goal-post, however.

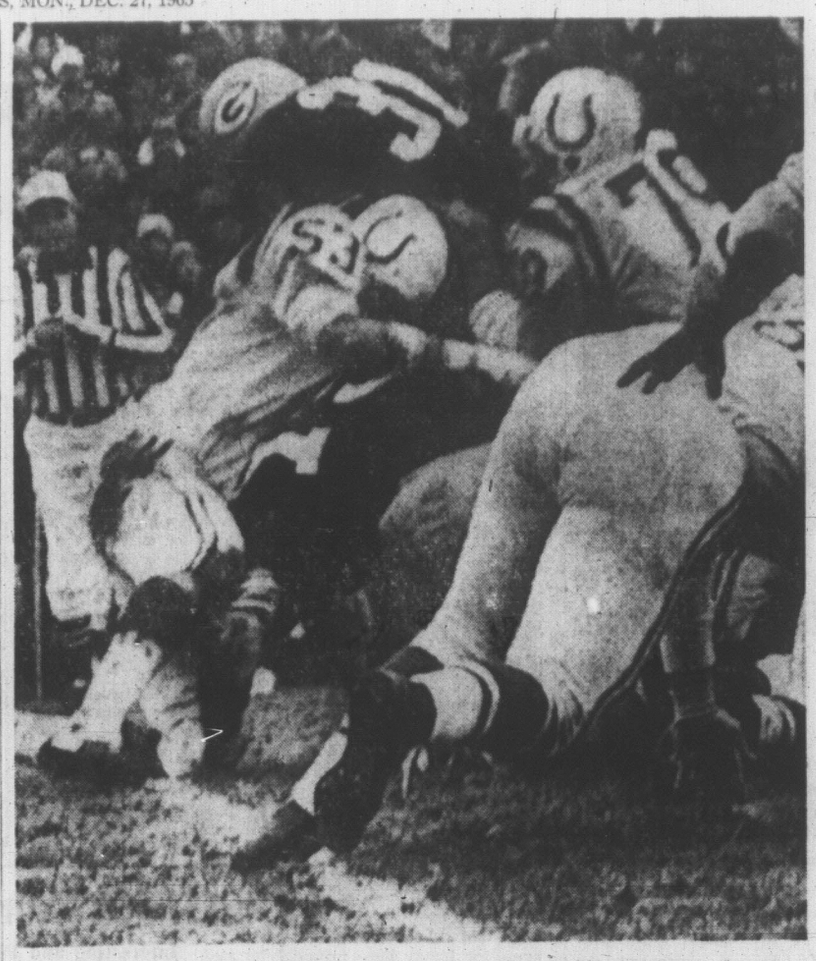

Totems, fore-checking brilliantly, rarely gave Victoria's attack a chance to get untracked after that. It was the fore-checking, more than anything, that stymied the Leafs.

Both of Dineen's goals and the one by Fielder were caused when Totems fore-checked Leafs into errors.

NO PLACE FOR THE FAINTHEARTED

The National Football League playoff game was played in Green Bay Sunday but the sound of crunching bodies could be heard in Victoria . . . and points west. Typical of the bodywork was this play in which Green Bay's Jim Taylor, No. 31, is stopped on Baltimore goal line by Dennis Gaubatz, No. 53, and Lou Michaels, No. 79. Green Bay won 13-10 to enter final against Cleveland Browns on Jan. 2. (AP Wirephoto)

Packers Survive Fight But Scars May Show

Starr, Hornung In Agony After Turning Back Colts

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers have survived a fight to the death against the gallant Baltimore Colts, but the scars may show next Sunday when they face Cleveland Browns for the National Football League title.

Injured Packer quarterback Bart Starr and halfback Paul Hornung couldn't hide the pain in the locker room after a 25-yard Don Chandler field goal gave Green Bay a 13-10 sudden death victory in the playoff for the NFL's Western Conference crown.

"I can't get dressed," said Hornung, battered by the Colts defence, out to win a conference title for a team with a running back at quarterback.

Hornung's ribs ached, and so did his knee and wrist. He spoke and breathed with difficulty and held his head stiffly to one side.

Starr appeared to be only slightly better off. He had to be assisted from the field after the first play from scrimmage when he rammed into a Colt blocker in trying to stop Don Shinnick's 25-yard touchdown ramble with a recovered fumble.

Starr refused to discuss his injury, but his ribs were swathed in tape and he moved rigidly.

Dowler Hurt Too

End Boyd Dowler was also hurt, aggravating a chronic ankle injury. Tight end Bill Anderson, who made seven more catches after his first-play bobble, allowed the Colts' only touchdown, was so groggy he couldn't remember details of the savage defensive struggle.

The Colts, with Tom Matte at quarterback because of injuries to John Unitas and Gary Cuozzo, needed to get defence-induced breaks to win. They got them, but they weren't enough because the Packers also got breaks.

The critical one came with about five minutes gone in the third period and the Packers trailing 10-0.

Tom Gilburg went back to punt on fourth down at the Colts' 40. The snap was high and he had to leap for it, then struggle to get the ball under control. By the time he did, the Packer defenders had swarmed in and nailed him at the 35.

Zeke Bratkowski, who completed 22 of 39 passes for 248 yards after replacing Starr, threw to Carroll Dale, who made a diving catch at the one. Hornung, who was sidelined a quarter later, went in from there.

Chandler Tied It

The Packers tied it on Chandler's first field goal—a 22-yarder with only 1:58 left to play in the game. A 15-yard penalty against the Colts aided the tying drive.

Still another break came in the extra period after runs by Matte moved the ball into field-goal position with eight minutes gone in the overtime.

Lou Michaels, who had kicked a 15-yarder in the second period, tried from the 47. This time the ball from centre was low. There was a split-second delay in teeing the ball and the kick was short.

Chandler's winning boot after 13:39 of the sudden death period was set up by an 18-yard Bratkowski-to-Dale pass that gave the Packers a first down on the Baltimore 26.

The Colts, who will now go to an NFL Playoff Bowl meeting with Dallas Cowboys in Miami, Fla., Jan. 9, were held by the Packers to nine first downs, 143 yards rushing and only 32 passing. Green Bay netted 250 yards in the air, 362 yards over-all and 23 first downs.

Ask Willie

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Willie Davis made a little adjustment at defensive end and it helped produce the edge for Green Bay Packers in their 13-10, sudden-death victory in the National Football League's Western Conference playoff game Sunday with Baltimore.

"What I did was play head on against the tackle and let Ray Nitschke take the outside," said Davis.

He made the move during the overtime period when the Colts' fill-in quarterback, Tom Matte, was ripping off yards inside Davis' position.

Matte first made nine yards, then five, then eight.

"But we were able to stack up those running plays after that," Davis said.

★ ★ ★

Lenny Moore lost a yard on the first carry after the adjustment, and Matte lost two more. That set the stage for a field goal attempt by Lou Michaels from the Packers' 47-yard line, which failed and gave Green Bay possession of the ball.

The Packers were unanimous in their praise of the Colts.

"I thought they were excellent," said coach Vince Lombardi of Green Bay. "They deserve a great deal of admiration."

In the Baltimore dressing room, coach Don Shula said, "You don't belong in this league if you play a team three times and can't even beat them once."

★ ★ ★

Shula added that the Colts had no reason to be ashamed of the loss and refused to single out any one player for praise or criticism.

"We gave it our best shot. We gave it everything we had.

"You can't go into a game like this without a Johnny Unitas or a Gary Cuozzo and expect to do the things offensively that you've been doing all season long."

★ ★ ★

Shula flared only once in questioning after the game. A reporter asked him, "What program are you planning for the Playoff Bowl game with Dallas Jan. 9 in Miami?"

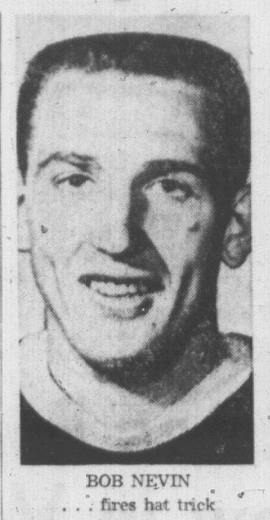

Shula said, "I was thinking about that all afternoon during the game."

The reporter persisted and Shula snapped, "Forget it, will you?"

Shula said he called 90 per cent of the Colts' plays but said he told Matte that he had everything to be proud of for his performance. Matte passed 17 times with five completions for 40 yards.

"There were a couple of hairy calls by the officials in the fourth period, but you can't blame the loss on that," said Shula.

"The Packers probably felt that they had a few bad ones called against them, too."

BASEMENT BRAWL

Wings Shade Canyens 1-0

Four teams are fighting for first place in the tight National Hockey League race. New York Rangers and Boston Bruins are just fighting.

Detroit Red Wings closed ground in the point race by nipping league-leading Montreal Canadiens 1-0 Sunday night on Alex Delvecchio's last-minute goal, and Toronto Maple Leafs stayed within range of the lead by playing second-place Chicago Black Hawks to a 1-1 standoff.

The Rangers and Bruins, meanwhile, staged their second straight basement battle royal. New York, triggered by Bob Nevin's hat trick, won the game 6-4 but the Bruins, led by tough Ted Green, held their own in the rematch of a punchfest that started night with 56 penalty minutes called.

Green, who returned after a month-long illness and set up three goals as the tailenders snapped a 12-game winless skid by beating the Rangers 4-2 Saturday, didn't do much playmaking in Madison Square Garden return bout.

JUST MISSES RECORD

Of 78 penalty minutes called Sunday, Green collected 36. This fell one short of the all-time single-game mark held by teammate Reg Fleming, who set it five years ago at New York while performing for Chicago.

Nevin set up two goals in addition to scoring three, while Don Marshall scored one goal and assisted on four. Earl Ingarfield, from Lethbridge, Alta., made his 100th career tally, and Phil Goyette completed the New York scoring.

Delvecchio rapped home Norm Ullman's rebound with 56 seconds to play, moving the third-place Wings within four points of Montreal. The Canadiens haven't won at Detroit in their last 12 visits, dating back to February, 1964. It was Wings' seventh straight win on home ice.

Chico Maki's power play goal midway in the last period knotted the score at Chicago, checking the Maple Leafs' five-game winning streak. Toronto slipped one point behind Detroit in the standings but remained only four short of the Hawks and five off Montreal's pace.

The Canadiens edged Detroit 4-3 and Toronto topped Chicago 5-3 in Saturday night's other games.

BREAK-THE-BANK

$800,000 Pact for Collegian?

It's front and centre this week for the traditional year-end bowl games that bring the United States college football season to a close and may lift bidding between the two professional leagues for standout talent to break-the-bank proportions.

The bidding may reach an unprecedented level right at the start Friday when Donny Anderson of Texas Tech finishes his college career in the Gator Bowl game against Georgia Tech at Jacksonville, Fla.

Weekend action also includes the Sun Bowl and the East-West games on Friday and concludes with the big four Saturday—the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange Bowl classics.

"It is not beyond the realm of possibility that Anderson will receive $800,000," says owner Bud Adams of Houston Oilers of the American Football League, bidding against the National League's Green Bay Packers for Anderson.

Also mentioned as a prospect in the $500,000-or-above range is Missouri's standout back, Johnny Roland, up for grabs between the NFL St. Louis Cardinals and New York Jets of the AFL.

Sherbrooke Wins Ahearne Cup Opener

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sherbrooke Beavers, Canadian Allan Cup champions, defeated the Swedish Djurgaarden team 8-3 Sunday in the opening game of the Ahearne Cup amateur hockey tournament here.

Leksand of Sweden defeated another Swedish team, Sodertalje, 9-7, in another game. The tournament has only the Canadian squad and three Swedish teams this year following the unexpected withdrawal of the Russian entry last week.

The four teams will play a double round-robin series, ending Jan. 4.

The Beavers outscored their opponents 2-1 in the first period and 4-0 in the second.

Czechs Hobble Swedes In Tournament Opener

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP-AP)—Czechoslovakia downed Sweden 8-3 Sunday in the opening game of an international hockey tournament here. Canada's national team plays its first game Tuesday, against the Soviet Union.

Vaclav Nedomansky and Jaroslav Jirik led the Czechs to victory over the young Swedish team. Nedomansky hammered in three goals and one assist and Jirik posted two goals and an assist. Also scoring for Czechoslovakia were Rudolf Sindelar, Josef Cerny and Josef Golonka.

Swedish scorers were Bjorn Palmqvist, Lars-Goran Nilsson and Bengstsson.

The Soviet Union, which won the world championship in Tampere, Finland, in 1964, is favored in the six-day tournament. The Czechs finished second in the world tournament, Sweden third and Canada fourth.

CANADA-RUSSIA SELLOUT

Sweden plays the Soviet Union tonight.

The 4,750-seat Broadmoor Arena already is sold out for the big match between Canada and Russia Tuesday.

The teams are playing under international rules in which the team with the most points will win with each victory counting two points and a tie one point. If a tie exists then the team with the most goals scored will be the winner. If that category is tied then the team with the least goals allowed will be the champion.

The Russian team built up a 4-2 record in a swing through Canada before the tournament. They lost 6-1 to the Nationals and 2-1 to a strengthened Montreal Junior Canadiens team.

REPEAT VICTORIA WIN?

The international tournament here is the last time the teams will meet before the 1966 world hockey championships in Yugoslavia March 3-13, 1966. The teams are playing here for the Walter A. Brown Trophy.

In their only victory in the recent Canadian tour, the national team played sound positional hockey that frustrated the renowned Russian passing pattern for a 6-1 win.

Rev. David Bauer, now special adviser to the team, said after that game in Victoria:

"The players have reached a point where they are playing together."

He gave much of the credit to Jackie McLeod, 35-year-old coach and manager from Swift Current, Sask., who abandoned retirement for the Victoria game and scored two goals.

In an exhibition match with Flin Flon Warriors Sunday, Finland's national hockey team downed the home squad 4-2 before 2,000 fans.

Finland has four wins, one loss and one tie on their Canadian tour. Only Canada's national team has beaten them.

Hadl Holds Forth:

'THEY BEAT THE HELL OUT OF US'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "We won by clawing and digging, the way we've done all year," said quarterback Jack Kemp who led Buffalo Bills of the American Football League to their second straight championship over the San Diego Chargers Sunday.

Released by the Chargers in 1962, he was voted the most valuable player of the game Bills won 23-0.

"They didn't throw me hardly at all. We wanted to show that it was no fluke that we won last year because Lincoln and Alworth were out of the game," he said.

He referred to the Chargers' Keith Lincoln, who was knocked out of action early in the game at Buffalo and Lance Alworth, who was injured and didn't play at all.

Coach Lou Saban said:

"We whipped them in the trenches, meaning up front. We knew we had to.

'DID NOTHING DIFFERENT'

"We did nothing different except Billy Joe at halfback did a good job, and using Ernie Warlick and Paul Costa at end gave us better blocking.

"The punt return really helped us and our pass rushing was great," Saban concluded, mentioning the brilliant 74-yard run by Butch Byrd, the 208-pound two-year man from Boston University, who fielded a punt by John Hadl and raced down the sidelines in front of the San Diego bench in the second quarter.

SOUGHT ANSWERS

John Hadl, who paced the league in passing, completed 11 of 23 passes for 140 yards, but was looking for answers.

"I don't know why," he said. "It was just their day. They beat the hell out of us. I don't know what happened, I really don't."

One of the Chargers' few threats to score came when Paul Lowe, who led the league in rushing, ripped off a 47-yard run. But Lowe netted only 63 yards on 12 carries.

"When I got that long run, I felt we were winning," he said. "Then mistakes killed us, just demolished us. We just couldn't get the ball rolling."

Rochester Opens Gap On Pack

By CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Americans, paced by Dick Gamble, won a pair of big ones over Pittsburgh Hornets during the weekend and spurted into a 10-point lead in the Western Division of the American Hockey League.

Gamble scored twice Sunday as Rochester wiped out a 3-1 Hornet lead in the second period and won 6-4. He scored the winner in a 3-2 overtime win Saturday.

Half the weekend contests went into overtime with Quebec Aces nipping Baltimore Clippers 3-2 in an extra period, Providence Reds and Cleveland Barons battling to a 2-2 overtime tie and Springfield Indians trimming Buffalo Bisons 3-0 in Sunday games.

STRING OF 13

Saturday, the Hershey Bears edged Baltimore 3-2 in overtime, Cleveland tripped Buffalo 3-2 and Springfield dumped Providence 5-1.

A standing-room-only crowd of 7,403 Sunday saw the Americans win their 13th in a row at home and run their unbeaten string against Pittsburgh to 11 games. Other Rochester goals went to Gerry Ehman, Jim Pappin, Larry Jeffrey and Mike Walton. Bob Wall, Ted Hampson, Norm Beaudin and Duke Harris scored for Pittsburgh.

FORMER SOCCER GREAT LOUIS DE COSTA DIES

A prominent city soccer player, Louis De Costa, died this morning, aged 53 years.

Mr. De Costa, an outstanding goaltender for Victoria area teams in the 30s, began his career in sport with the Esquimalt Dockers, a team he joined in 1928.

He played with the Dockers and the Victoria All-Stars until 1937 when he joined the RCN.

After three years in the service he returned to play with Victoria United and to manage a team in the Coast League.

He was known as one of the soccer "greats" in Island play.

He is survived by his widow, Dorothy, son Larry, a goaltender for Victoria United; brothers Wilfred of Victoria and Edward of Esquimalt, and sister Elsie of Victoria.

BILLS' BARGAIN BEAUTY . . . . . DEFLATES SAN DIEGO

$100 Quarterback Slays Chargers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Sid Gillman of San Diego Chargers remarked: "We can't win with Jack Kemp."

Apparently they can't win against him, either.

Kemp led Buffalo Bills to the American Football League championship for the second straight year Sunday, embarrassing his former mates with a 23-0 shutout. He did it last year, 20-7.

Three years ago, Kemp incurred a sprained finger on his throwing hand and the Chargers wanted to put him on the injured list. But the Bills executed the coup of AFL history, picking up Kemp for the $100 waiver price.

Sports writers selected Kemp the game's most valuable player, a role for which Jack was chosen by The Associated Press for his play all year.

The scrappy Bills weren't supposed to win, rated as one-touchdown underdogs. They weren't favored last year, either.

They probably wouldn't have won if: Buffalo's defence didn't act like a concrete wall; Butch Byrd didn't return punts; Pete Gogolak didn't know how to kick, and Kemp wasn't the best $100 quarterback in football.

Kemp got all the points he needed in the first quarter by firing an 18-yard touchdown strike to former Calgary Stampeder end Ernie Warlick.

Moments later, Byrd delivered the conquering blow by running a punt 74 yards back down the sideline to score.

Gogolak managed to enter the defensive stalemate long enough to boot three second-half field goals of 11, 39 and 32 yards.

Kemp completed only eight of 19 passes for 155 yards but his completions were made when needed.

Charger quarterback John Hadl hit on 11 of 23 pass attempts for 140 yards but had two intercepted and was plagued by the hard-charging Bills defenders.

The Chargers threatened to get on the scoreboard three times. Two drives bogged down and Herb Travenio failed on field goal attempts of 35 and 31 yards.

It was the fourth time the Chargers lost an AFL title game, winning only in 1963. The Bills have won two straight.

The Bills received $5,189.92 apiece for winning and the Chargers, $3,447.85 for losing.

Stolle Turns Key With Win Over Santana

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia grabbed a 2-0 lead over Spain in the Davis Cup challenge round Monday, Roy Emerson making a timely recovery to form and lanky Fred Stolle rallying against Manuel Santana in a two hour, 57 minute match.

Emerson, generally regarded as the world's best amateur but disappointing in recent appearances, disposed of Juan Gisbert 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 on the lightning-fast, grass courts at White City Stadium after Stolle had fought off Santana, Spain's hope for an upset, 10-12, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5.

Australia now needs only one more victory in the three remaining matches—the doubles Tuesday and the two final singles Wednesday—to retain the big silver cup symbolic of world amateur tennis supremacy. They've won it 12 of 19 times in the years since the Second World War.

The defeat of the veteran Santana was a crushing blow to Spain's hopes of an upset in this, their first appearance in the challenge round. And it was a heart-breaker to the group of about 400 wildly yelling Spaniards who shocked the reserved crowd of 10,000 with their antics.

SPANIARDS ERUPTED

They yelled, chanted, waved pennants and home-made signs while Santana built his 2-0 lead over the tall, blond Stolle with some great passing shots, short volleys and deft lobs that dropped only inches inside the baseline.

They even banged away on drums and crashed cymbals when the players changed ends of the court. But they began to subside when Stolle came back and had nothing at all to shout about in Emerson's quick, almost casual victory in straight sets over Gisbert, a 23-year-old law student.

Down two sets to none, Stolle stormed out to a quick, 3-0 lead almost before Santana knew what was happening, aced his service three times in the seventh game and wrapped it up 6-1.

FIRST LOSS OF YEAR

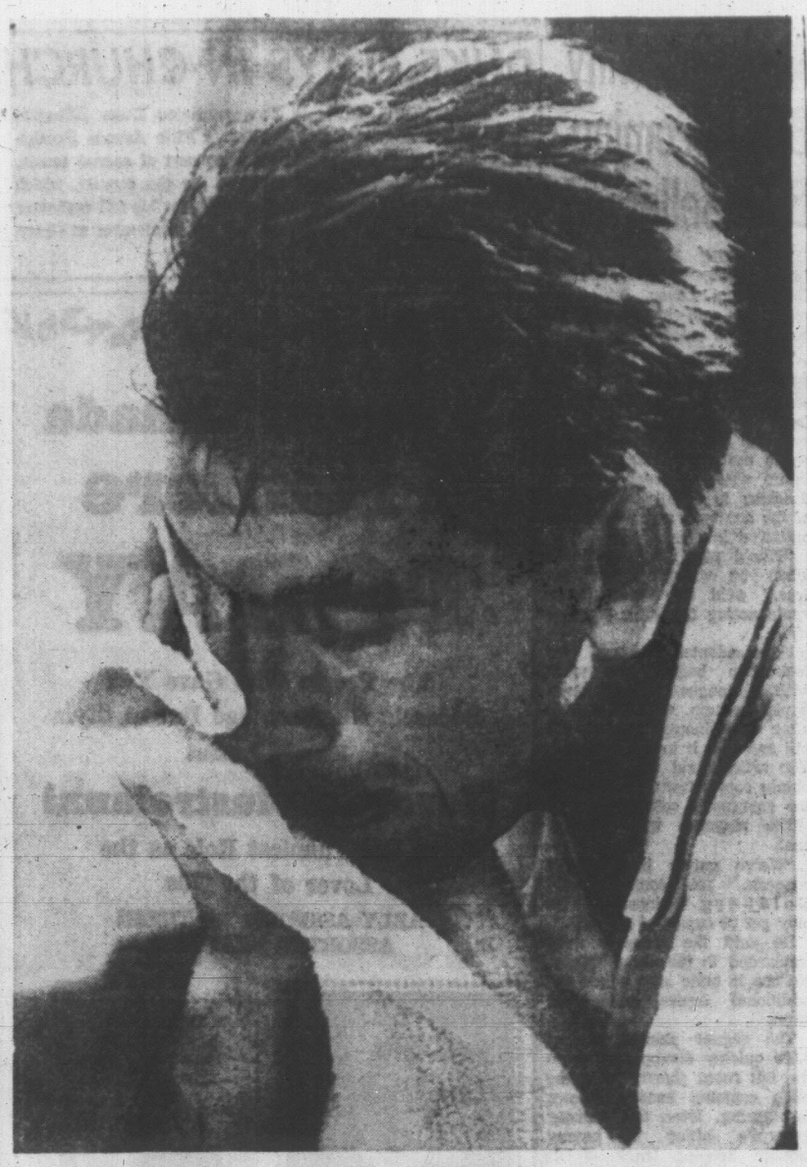

Stolle's big chance in the fourth set came in the ninth game when Santana, down love-30, missed two volleys at the net, the sort of shot he had been hitting for winners. Stolle then beat him with a cross-court volley and the Spaniard double faulted to drop the service at love.

It was the first loss of the year in Davis Cup competition for the 27-year-old Santana, the key figure in Spain's elimination of the United States.

He has been named to team with Luis Arilla in the doubles match Tuesday, but the team can be changed up until one hour before the scheduled starting time, 11 p.m., EST.

Australian Captain Harry Hopman has not yet named his doubles team, but has one of the world's best in Emerson and Stolle, who took the title in the U.S. national doubles.

The final two singles matches Wednesday will send Santana against Emerson and Gisbert against Stolle.

CRUEL SUN DOWN UNDER

Spain's Manuel Santana wipes perspiration from face after losing match in opening singles play in Davis Cup Challenge Round to Australia's Fred Stolle. Sunday's 2 hour, 57 minute match dashed Spain's hopes for upset over touted Australia team. Santana lost, 10-12, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5.

PIRATES SIGN 18-YEAR-OLD B.C. ATHLETE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eric Guthrie, 18-year-old junior football and high school baseball star, has signed a baseball contract with Pittsburgh Pirates.

He got $500 cash and a $2,500 scholarship to attend college. Guthrie said he may go to the University of Arizona.

Guthrie, who quarterbacked Vancouver Meralomas to the British Columbia junior football title this year, had planned to attend the training camp of the B.C. Lions of the Canadian Football League this year but decided instead to try baseball.

Santa Visited Seattle Totems

(Times News Services)

A pair of Christmas weekend victories were a ticket out of the Western Hockey League basement for the hot-and-cold Seattle Totems.

After embarassing the league-leading Victoria Maple Leafs 5-1 Christmas night, coach Bobby Kromm's Totems completed a climb from sixth to fourth place by clipping Los Angeles Blades 6-5 in overtime Sunday night.

Totems stepped one point ahead of San Francisco Seals, who were stymied, 5-2, by Portland Buckaroos in another Christmas night offering.

BLADES SUFFER

It wasn't much of a Christmas for coach Lynn Patrick's Blades. In addition to losing Sunday's ovetime bout, the Blades were dumped 7-3 by Vancouver Canucks on Saturday.

Veteran Bill MacFarland, Seattle's hockey-playing lawyer, was the Totem hero Sunday. He scored his second goal of the game after only 54 seconds of overtime to chill the Blades.

Don Chiz also scored twice for Totems, who trailed 3-1 at one stage.

It was a heart-breaking loss for Los Angeles. The Blades out-skated Totems most of the way but a combination of poor shooting and some brilliant goaltending by Ernie Wakeley kept Los Angeles at bay. Wakeley was especially brilliant in the third period when Seattle out-scored the Blades 3-1 despite being out-shot 11-5.

McVIE INJURED

Portland found no cause to celebrate Saturday's victory over the Seals. The Buckaroos lost the services of winger Tommy McVie for at least eight weeks when he suffered a broken ankle after running into the boards.

At Vancouver, the Canucks maintained a mastery over the Blades with their convincing victory Saturday. It marked the fourth straight time Vancouver had beaten the Blades this season.

San Francisco tests the Canucks in Vancouver tonight and then moves to Victoria for a Wednesday game.

O.C. SOCCER

Rangers, Celtic Rub Shoulders

LONDON (AP) — Celtic defeated Morton 8-1 Saturday to tie Glasgow Rangers for first place in the Scottish Soccer League's First Division. Each team has 27 points.

At the same time, the Rangers were defeated by Dunfermline 3-2. Celtic has a 13-1-1 won-tied-lost record and the Rangers are 12-3-1. Their nearest rival is Dunfermline with 10-4-2 for 24 points.

There was only one game in the English League. Blackpool defeated Blackburn Rovers 4-2, but neither is among the First Division leaders.

The English League's heavy schedule will be played today, Boxing Day, which winds up the holiday soccer weekend.

In the Scottish League's Division II, Arbroath defeated East Stirling 3-1 to maintain a two-point lead in first place. East Stirling is three points out of the league cellar. Second-place Albion Rovers downed Queens Park 4-3.

British Pair Set Record

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — John Murray and Barry Knight saved Britain's MC cricketers against South Australia here today with a record eight-wicket stand of 164 in two hours.

At one stage MCC needed 60 runs to avoid the follow-on and had only three wickets in hand, but Murray and Knight fought back so successfully that the touring team reached 444—only 15 behind the state team. At the close South Australia was 121 for two in their second innings, a lead of 136. The match ends Tuesday.

Wicketkeeper Murray scored a chanceless 110 in 175 minutes and hit 11 fours. All-rounder Knight, who was brought out to Australia as a reinforcement for the injury-hit MCC party earlier this month, made 79, including seven boundaries.

The partnership easily beat the previous best for an English eight-wicket pair in Australia—137 by Maurice Leyland and George Geary against Queensland in 1928-29.

Scores: South Australia 459 for seven declared and 121 for two. MCC 444.

DISPUTE MARS XMAS STAKE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Patrice Jacobs' Turn to Reason won the $17,075 Christmas Handicap at Tropical Park Saturday but had to survive a foul claim to make it official.

Turn to Reason, under jockey Robert Ussery, ran the 1 1/16 miles in 1:42 1/5 and scored by three-fourths of a length over fast-closing Abdul with Johnny Sellers aboard. First Family got up for show money.

Hobeau Farm's Sunstruck, with Jack Leonard aboard, set the pace and led to the stretch turn where the alleged interference occurred.

Turn to Reason carried second high weight of 118 pounds and paid $13.40, $8.60 and $7.40. Abdul, a 30-to-1 shot, returned $22.20 and $11.40 while First Family was $7.60 to show.

North Lies In Shade Of Dixie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A spectacular passing display and a stolen pass gave the South two victories over the North Saturday in U.S. college football all-star action.

Randy Johnson put on the passing display in a South comeback that toppled the North 23-19 in the annual Blue-Grey game at Montgomery, Ala.

Bill Clay of Mississippi State stole the pass and sped 39 yards to climax a wild fourth quarter and lead the South to a 21-14 victory over the North in the Shrine college game at Miami, Fla.

Johnson, a Texas A and M quarterback, completed 23 of 33 passes for 301 yards. He tossed two touchdown passes and scored once himself.

MARRED BY BRAWL

In the North-South game, Clay's big run came seconds after Allen McCune of West Virginia had directed the South to a touchdown and two-point conversion that tied the score.

The Blue-Grey engagement was marred by a brawl in the final minutes. Bill Briggs, Iowa tackle who was one of four Negroes playing in the all-star game for the first time, was in the thick of the free-for-all. Northern team-mates joined in the battle.

The game ended with three players from the North bench apparently racing on to the field to tackle North Carolina's Anthony Golmont after he intercepted a Blue pass.

The Greys took an 8-0 second-half lead before halfback Bob Riggles of Penn State ignited a Blue comeback by intercepting a pass and recovering a fumble. The North converted both opportunities into third-quarter touchdowns before Johnson sent the South on its winning surge.

Johnson, voted the game's most valuable player, hit on passes of 20, 13 and 21 yards in a 75-yard drive he capped with a one-yard scoring plunge that cut the North lead to 19-16. He then tossed a nine-yard touchdown pass to Harlan Lane of Baylor for the winning points with 25 seconds left.

THUNDERBALL
James Bond Again
Capitol Theatre

This roving-eyed hero with the licence to kill is now one of the all-time heroes of the screen, like Tarzan, Superman or Tom Mix.

He was an immediate success in the exotic adventures of Doctor No; he proved his staying power in From Russia with Love and he topped all records in the superbly ridiculous Goldfinger.

Now we have his fourth entry, Thunderball, with more outrageous comic-strip heroism, more bogus glamor, more science-fiction gimmicks, more women and more sex.

★ ★ ★

Of course, James Bond was well established through Ian Fleming's novels long before U.S. movie producers Broccoli and Saltzman adapted him to the screen. But it took the physical appeal of Sean Connery to elevate Bond to his present status as a kind of bad-good man who is just as much concerned with his own pleasure as with saving the western world for democracy.

★ ★ ★

He is perhaps an ideal hero for this cynical age. The old screen heroes, with all their daring, were paragons of virtue. They loved only one woman and risked their cinematic lives in her defence.

Bond is a heroic libertine who deals in weapons, wines and women with the air of a man who doesn't care too much about anything. He knows his way around and his gadgets work for him.

★ ★ ★

In Thunderball, the international crime syndicate known as Spectre hi-jacks two atom bombs by utilizing an underwater team of frogmen. They plan to hold the entire western world to ransom by threatening to bomb two key cities.

James Bond meets Domina (Claudine Auger), the sister of a NATO pilot who crashes the plane carrying the bombs, and she tells him of a secret channel near the hideout of Emilio Largo (Adolfo Celli), the chief of SPECTRE.

★ ★ ★

The action is fast and furious and Bond is as resourceful and quick-witted as ever. With girls to the right of him, girls to the left of him, he rides into the laws of almost certain death, yet somehow manages to elude them.

No man could be more heroic —or more improbable.

ACADEMY AWARDS

Doctor Zhivago Top Contender

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The premiere of Doctor Zhivago has fulfilled its promise: It is the leading contender for best picture in the 1965 Academy Awards.

David Lean may well repeat what he has accomplished twice before. With Bridge on the River Kwai in 1957 and Lawrence of Arabia in 1962 he provided films of such artistry that they dominated the Oscar race and provided awards for himself as director.

Doctor Zhivago is a new background for Lean's work, but the theme is much the same. It is a man's search for his soul. This time the forbiddingly beautiful wastes of Russia (actually Finland) are substituted for the jungles of Asia and the deserts of Arabia.

Lean accepted a challenge with the new film. Doctor Zhivago was one of the most talked-about and unread novels of recent times. The obscurity of the period and the multiplicity of characters seemed to mitigate against its chances as film entertainment.

But Robert Bolt, a playwright A Man for All Seasons who also wrote the script for Lawrence of Arabia, threaded the diverse figures into a sensible pattern. He also invested the long-ago events with immediacy; the elements of revolution, anarchy and suppression are ever with us.

CONCERNS ADJUSTMENT

Basically, Doctor Zhivago concerns an artist's adjustment to society. A doctor-poet, Zhivago recognizes the decadence and cruelty of the Czarist regime, later witnesses the insanity of war. Revolution only brings another tyranny. Rule of the mob and the elevation of petty terrorists.

The brilliance of Lean's technique is in the fact that Zhivago's feelings are not expressed in speeches. The events happen and Zhivago reacts, mostly with his expressive face.

The choice of Omar Sharif for the leading role was critical. Since his face is not overly familiar to the movie public, there is no intrusion of his own personality. He becomes Zhivago. His compassionate eyes tell all that needs to be known as he witnesses the slaughter of revolutionaries on a Moscow street; later, the carnage of a village destroyed by a rampaging Soviet general.

Aside from Egyptian Sharif and American Rod Steiger, the leading cast members are English: Julie Christie, Alec Guinness, Tom Courtenay, Ralph Richardson, Rita Tushingham. All are uniformly excellent.

Geraldine Chaplin makes a splendid debut as Zhivago's long-suffering wife, but her role is overshadowed by that of Miss Christie as his mistress.

Essentially it is Lean's film, and he handles all the elements masterfully. His camera explodes the icy panoramas, then focuses on the cracking of ice under heavy boots. Never does he let the long view overwhelm what's up front: The struggle for survival by the human spirit.

Anti-Obscenity Bill Becoming Best Seller

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Lithe Fanny Hill and Lady Chatterley's Lover, New Jersey's new anti-obscenity bill is becoming a smash hit.

The legislation is, by its own definition, obscene.

Children had to be cleared from the Senate gallery whenever the bill was discussed because the garden state's legislators went to great pains to describe in detail those parts of the anatomy and sexual acts outlawed in print.

"Who'd pay for dirty books when you can get the bill for free," said one state house cynic noting the bill's popularity.

Unprecedented demand for legislation began last week with a tongue-in-cheek newspaper column written shortly after both houses passed the bill and sent it to the governor. The article said readers could obtain copies from the office of the governor's counsel.

The response was phenomenal.

"We've gotten hundreds of requests," said counsel David Goldberg Wednesday. "We only get 20 copies of any bill."

He said the requests were forwarded to the state library. No one is quite sure where the additional copies will come from.

The reguar printed run of 1,000 quickly disappeared from the bill room shortly after the bill's contents became known last spring. Even the attorney general's office is having trouble keeping track of its copies.

"Everybody's reading it," one legal aide noted.

A state library official said requests were being filled with copies of the bill mailed out wrapped in a plain brown envelope, marked only by the state seal.

Gives Coat for Poor

SEOUL (AP) — American actress Helen Hayes has given her $2,000 nutria coat to help needy South Korean students. She took off the coat in this South Korean capital Saturday and handed it to a U.S. embassy employee, asking that proceeds from its sale be used for poor Korean students.

DUKE PLAYS IN CHURCH

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz musician Duke Ellington brought his orchestra to New York's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church Sunday night for a concert of sacred music. Singer Lena Horne joined Ellington for the concert, which included In the Beginning, God, a work for his full orchestra first performed in a similar concert last September at Grace Episcopal Cathedral, San Francisco.

Two Teen-Agers Die In Holiday Mishaps

Beautiful

Clinging snow made a lacy valentine of Beacon Hill Park trees today but few camera enthusiasts were intrepid enough to mush through the park after pictures this morning. Times photographer Bill Halkett was out before the snow was tracked. The oaks appeared to wear their snow without strain . . .

'SNO HURRY AFTER ALL, FOR MOTHER

An expectant mother got a frantic ride to hospital through the snow in an Oak Bay police car this morning.

But all the rush wasn't needed. At press time the baby had still not arrived.

Mrs. Loraine Olson, 24, of 1931 Oak Bay Avenue, tried to get a taxi to go to hospital at 7 this morning. Some taxi companies didn't answer their telephone and others told her they were too busy; she would have to wait an hour.

Finally Mrs. Olson's landlady, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, called police. They were on the scene in minutes and drove Mrs. Olson to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Olson, who is separated from her husband, has one other child.

Truck Runs Off Road; Car Slips

RCMP are still trying to piece together the details of accidents which killed two youths in the Duncan area over Christmas.

Albert Hendrik Wikkerink, 19, of Cowichan Station, was found dead near his pick-up truck which apparently went off the Trans-Canada Highway near Cobble Hill.

The accident occurred about 8 p.m. Christmas Day.

Coroner Dr. R. R. Wilson said today he is awaiting a pathologist's report to determine the exact cause of death.

THROWN FROM CAB

RCMP believe Wikkerink, alone in the truck at the time of the accident, was thrown from the cab when the truck crashed into the ditch.

Wikkerink, who worked at a Duncan bakery, was the youngest son of farmer Hendrik Wikkerink of Cowichan Station.

The second fatal accident occurred Sunday.

CAR FELL

RCMP believe Leonard Dale Vellacott, 19, died as a result of injuries he received when his car fell when he was underneath doing repairs.

The car had been jacked up in the driveway of his home on Fisher Road, Cobble Hill, when the accident occurred.

Coroner Dr. Wilson said he would await medical reports in both cases before deciding on inquests.

THIEVES HIT TWICE ON SAME CITY STREET

Another house break-in on Pentrelew Place was reported to city police Christmas Eve.

Thirty-five dollars was stolen from the home of Dr. A. C. C. Johnstone, 1020 Pentrelew, by a thief who smashed a bedroom window to gain entry.

The bedroom was also ransacked but nothing else was reported missing.

Thursday night $71 in cash, a camera and a watch was taken from the home of A. C. V. Hall, 1033 Pentrelew.

Christmas Crash On Icy Highway Injures Five

Nine Sent To Hospitals After Holiday Collisions

A head-on collision on ice-slicked Patricia Bay Highway Christmas night sent five persons to hospital.

The mishap occurred near the entrance to Beaver Lake.

None of the occupants of the two vehicles was injured seriously.

Driver Ronald Osland, 19, of 2766 Island View Road, was reported in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

Passengers John Cook, 6272 Rudolph Street, and Murray Hurst, 20, of 2437 Keating Cross Road, have been released from hospital.

In good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital is the driver of the other car, Harold Piton, 247 Sims.

His wife, Dorothy, was treated for minor injuries and released.

NINE PERSONS

The smashup was the worst of a holiday weekend which saw a total of nine persons taken to hospitals following traffic mishaps.

Also injured Christmas Day was assistant city fire chief John McLennan, 58, of 2570 Roseberry.

He was driving the fire department's inhalator truck on an emergency run when he became involved in a collision at Fernwood and Bay streets.

The fire vehicle was on its way to assist a woman who was locked in a room.

It was going east on Bay when it became involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Lorne H. Ames, 1704 Myrtle St., police said.

FIRE HYDRANT

The fire vehicle went out of control after the impact, mounted a curb, broke a fire hydrant off at the base, went through a picket fence and into property at 1303 Bay St.

Mr. McLennan and Harold Ames, 65, a passenger in the other vehicle, were treated and released from Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A city works crew had to be called to turn off water gushing from the sheared off hydrant.

Also treated for minor injuries were Frank and Molly Tchebeault, address unavailable, after a one-car mishap at Douglas and Dieppe at 12:02 a.m. Sunday.

Police said their vehicle left the road, travelled through a ditch and bounded into a field.

FIRES STARTED IN TREES BY FALLING POWER LINES

Sidney volunteer fire department drove through drifts this morning to extinguish two fires caused by fallen power lines.

In both cases, on Madrona Drive and Harbor Road, the lines set fire to trees.

Firemen said that with the help of snow tires and chains, the emergency vehicles were able to get to the fires. They were quickly extinguished.

Broken

But some varieties of trees couldn't bear their unaccustomed burden without collapse. This Japanese plum on Cornwall Street was an early morning casualty, losing a bough. Many evergreen shrubs were flattened. Many boughs took telephone and power lines to ground also, creating a hazard. Hydro warns — don't touch felled wires . . .

Sudbury Reaches Disabled Ship

Salvage tug Sudbury II hove within sight of the disabled freighter Tainan Sunday night and was expected to put a tow line aboard today off the tip of Alaska.

'Greater Awareness' Of Christmas As Religious Fete

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Church Editor

For many Victorians it was a truly Christian Christmas.

There were more Christmas Eve services than for many years past and many churches throughout the city were packed.

"There seemed to be a greater awareness of Christmas as a religious festival," said Bishop Denys Rankilor of the historic Church of Our Lord at Humboldt and Blanshard.

Nearly 1,200 men, women and children attended the candlelit choral eucharist in Christ Church Cathedral and a peak attendance of more than 800 was recorded at the family communion service at 10:30 a.m. Christmas Day.

St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, with normal capacity of 900, had to provide extra chairs for worshippers attending the midnight mass on Christmas Eve and the Family Christmas Day mass at 11 a.m.

Two organists and two choirs were heard simultaneously at the midnight mass, which was celebrated by Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic church in Victoria and Vancouver Island.

NO STANDING ROOM

"Because of fire hazard we cannot offer standing room in the cathedral," a spokesman said. "For that reason, many who could not find seats attended midnight mass in other churches."

Nearly 900 attended the midnight service in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church on Haultain Stret to hear a presentation of the Pastoral Mass in F Major by Anton Diabelli given by the church choir and members of Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

"We had to provide about 200 extra chairs," said Albert Richter, who conducted the performance. "It was a most inspiring occasion and we were happy to welcome officials of Victoria Symphony Society to our congregation."

A repeat performance of the Pastrol Mass is planned in the Church for Jan. 16 at 11 a.m.

More than 500 attended the Christmas Eve candlelight service in Metropolitan United Church at 11 p.m. and the neighboring Anglican Church of St. John the Divine attracted 550 to the midnight service of holy communion conducted by the former rector, Canon George Biddle.

DAY, NIGHT

A continuous service of worship lasting from 10 a.m. Christmas Eve to 10 a.m. Sunday drew day and night congregations to the Sikh Temple at 1210 Topaz.

But the peak attendance of 500 was recorded Christmas Eve.

Throughout the uninterrupted two-day service, five bearded Sikhs read continuously from the sacred word of Guru Nanak as contained in the Holy Book of the Sikhs.

FIRST FAILURE

Beak Count Scrubbed, Rescheduled Sunday

Birdwatchers were 'fowl-ed' up by the big snow today, forcing a six-day delay in the annual Christmas bird count.

Victoria Natural History Society was forced to cancel its traditional Boxing Day bird census because car travel in the far-flung spotting zone was almost impossible.

"We depend so much on cars to cover our large area," organizer David Stirling explained.

TAKE COVER

"Visibility is poor and birds tend to take cover in this weather. The conditions would not have been good for the count.

"This hasn't happened before as far as I know," Mr. Stirling said.

But National Audubon Society, whose census rules the local bird group follows, allows until Jan. 2 for the count to take place.

LAST PLACE

Sunday will be bird-count day in Victoria, probably the last place in North America where snow could be foreseen as an obstacle.

Last year local birders winged the Canadian record by spotting 124 species among the 53,000 Victoria birds counted.

Elsewhere, even snow a foot deep and temperature at 50 degrees below zero was no impediment to dogged bird-watching. At Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., last year, Ramon Burron stomped all day in these conditions, finally spotting a flock of 11 rock ptarmingan which he reported to the society.

'FEED THEM'

Meanwhile, local weather should prompt more people to look after their feathered friends.

"The thing to do now is feed them," Mr. Stirling said.

"The little birds will find food hard to come by and people may put out grain and suet to tide them over."

'Crashing' Sound Of Falling Snow

Sleeping people often report being awakened by such intrusions as thunder claps, rain storms, train wrecks, howling wind and earthquake.

Mrs. J. D. Somerville, 2886 Tudor, and probably dozens of other residents in the district, awoke this morning to the sound of falling snow.

Her home on Ten Mile Point is surrounded by large evergreens with spreading boughs that get heavy with sticky snow.

The crack of snow-laden branches falling into the Somerville driveway was a pretty effective alarm.

Everywhere in the district where evergreens caught the heavy snow, branches came crashing to earth, sometimes brushing power lines and causing brilliant flashes of bluish fire, or knocking out electric power and telephone lines.

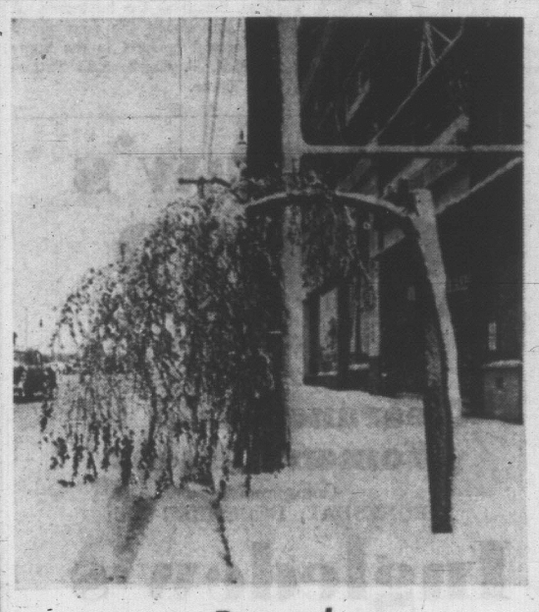

Leaning Pole Seen In Time To Save Train

Esquimalt Police this morning flagged down the E & N Dayliner to avert a collision with a telephone pole leaning over the tracks.

The train was flagged at the level crossing on Lampson St. near Old Esquimalt Rd.

The telephone pole as not on the tracks but was suspended over them by wires weighted with snow.

Police just happened to spot the pole while on routine patrol.

Bowed

Not all foliaged trees were "disemboughed"—some were just bowed—and will spring erect again when the snow goes. This one on Douglas near Hillside, one of the "instant trees" recently planted by the city, is expected to survive. Early rising gardeners were out giving trees a good shaking wherever they were letting a little snow get them down.

Driver Blamed By Inquest Jury In Traffic Death

A coroner's jury Thursday night blamed motorist Elmer Moxham, 1687 Pear, in the traffic death of pedestrian Isaac Stirling, 75, of 424 Linden.

Mr. Stirling died in hospital following the accident 10 days ago.

Two witnesses told the jury the pedestrian was in the crosswalk going from west to east across Cook.

Another witness said he was either in the crosswalk or very near it.

Mr. Moxham testified he did not see the man until he was right in front of him.

He was travelling north on Cook at the time.

Pathologist Dr. Garth Walter testified the pedestrian died from abdominal injuries including a fractured pelvis, causing shock.

New Motorbike After Crawlers

Saanich police will begin a motorcycle patrol of the Pat Bay Highway early in the New Year.

The new $2,100 cycle arrived Friday.

The vehicle will be used to nip up to the front of long lines of traffic, caused by motorists driving too slowly, said Deputy Chief Joseph Armstrong.

TO KEEP SUN OFF tourists and that other stuff off residents, many Victoria merchants leave awnings in place all winter as a form of advertising. But this awning at dawning today was a sorry sight when weight of snow collapsed it. It's at Fort and Blanshard. (Times photo)

750 AT SCOPE

Battle of Bands 'Proves' Teen-Agers Aren't Snobs

A blaring battle of bands Boxing Day proved Victoria young people will turn out in support of local entertainers.

More than 750 paid $1 each to attend the Scope, a discotheque, where five bands were on the stand.

Arranged by Brad Williams, manager of the Victorian Sect, one of the bands taking part, the program was designed to disprove a statement made by Scope manager Peter Chapman.

He said recently that Victoria teen-agers are "snobs" who will not support local entertainers. Mr. Chapman also said that senior high school students will not mix with those in junior high and that university students scorn to be seen with those still at school.

Mr. Williams, 18, said the Boxing Day performances disproved Mr. Chapman on all points.

"We showed that all age groups can mix, will mix and will enjoy it," he said.

But, he admitted, it took a number of bands to draw the crowd. And he said that the organizers would probably have lost money if the bands had asked for payment. All the bands played free for this occasion.

Bush Driver Fined For Impairment

A man who drove his car 50 feet into dense bush was fined $350 in central court Friday for impaired driving.

Stanley Schwartz, 219 Howe St., pleaded guilty.

Court was told he lost control of his vehicle Thursday night when he was travelling east on Craigflower Road.

The vehicle dropped down a six-foot embankment and into the bush, causing $100 damage.

"You were just lucky you didn't kill someone aren't you?" said Magistrate William Ostler who suspended Schwartz' licence.

Make Lint Disappear With This Magic Wand

By Penny Saver

Black is a color that suits just about any person, for most every occasion. The bad feature about blacks, though, is that they seem to be magnets for lint, and other white matter that detracts from the neatness of the apparel.

In one shop, I found a revolutionary type of lint-brush that should remedy this. It consists of a roll of tape that adheres to the speckles, thus enhancing your costume. Sections of this tape are perforated, so that when one section has served its purpose, it can be disposed of, leaving a fresh, adhesive surface to rid you of future lint problems. It costs only $1, and can be used to remove particles from upholstery, suede and other lint-collecting materials.

One very useful gadget is a tie-hanger, selling for $5.95. This attaches to any closet rod, and slides back and forth. Ties hang neatly on special flat hooks, so that they retain their shape.

Some men have a hard time finding a shirt that is just the right size, tall, thin men, in particular. This shop carries a whole line of sports shirts, in many colors, checks and stripes, for the man with this problem. They all sell around the $7.95 price range.

Speaking of men's sports wear, cardigan sweaters, made of 100 per cent cashmere, sell for $19.95. These have V-shape necklines, and come in earthy brown or warm blue.

Another cashmere product, selling for the same price, is an English-style dressing gown. These also come in shades of brown.

Imported crystal from Austria forms the basis for cuff-link and tie-tack sets, selling for $17.50 the set. The stones are diamond-cut, and come in shades of emerald-green, blood-red and ice-blue.

Exotic toiletries for men, with the scent of sandalwood and incense, sell in this store. A travel kit, with pre-electric lotion and cologne in break-proof plastic buddahs, is priced at $6.50. Individually, these two items are $3.50 and $2.95 respectively.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do You Attempt to Appear As Youthful As Your Daughter?

It's fun, comparing mothers and daughters. We can also learn a lot from this practice. Whenever I am in any place where there are numerous mother and daughter teams, I always do this.

Lowman

AND, I am always newly impressed with the fact that the appearance of age is the sum total of many small changes which have taken place over the years. Many of these can be improved and some can be completely remedied or avoided.

What are some of these small changes which made a woman look older than she feels? The most usual one is a gain in poundage, and this isn't always a small change. However, only 10 pounds can cause a thickening through the waistline and a heaviness at the jawline. Usually a gain in weight is the change which makes the biggest difference.

There are other factors which join forces to banish the glow of youth. Facial expression is often a giveaway. The mother may appear lifeless when compared to the wide-awake keen awareness and enthusiasm which are reflected in her daughter's face.

Often the way a woman moves gives away her age. Sometimes you guess a woman to be years younger than she is until you watch her walk or sit down in a chair, get up out of one, or go up or down stairs.

Posture makes all the difference in the world, too. A lifted chin and a straight spine create an aura of youth while drooping shoulders and a ducked head give the impression of lack of vitality and enthusiasm.

Of course there are lines which the daughter does not have but I do not think that these play as great a part in the aging look as the other factors I have mentioned and these, like the other changes, slip up on us very gradually. The fact that the changes are gradual is very heartening since this gives us the opportunity to fight them with a daily routine of health and beauty care.

We can keep our girlish figures if we are interested enough to make the effort. We can keep our minds keen-edged with new interests and alert outlooks. We can surely take lovely posture down the years with us. Exercise will provide us with elastic young muscles and physical co-ordination which lead to graceful movement.

Stand in front of a mirror with your daughter or someone else's daughter and list the differences you see. Do not be discouraged because many of them can be reversed. Work on each small change in a small but constructive way.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Always Proper!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I read that when Princess Margaret visited here, she wore a diamond clustered "rose" pin on her coat while touring the city in the DAYTIME!

I have read that it is not proper to wear diamonds or brilliants during the daytime, only in the evening. But I suppose anything goes with royalty.

MRS. W.

DEAR MRS. W.: Don't believe everything you read (even in this column, I have been wrong), but of one thing I am certain: Diamonds are a girl's best friend, 24 hours a day. And they may be worn with propriety during the daytime, if they're properly set.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married an extremely sharp, intelligent businesswoman. We get along very well and have yet to have our first argument. We are open books to each other except for a few pages. I have a good income and so has she, but right from the start I paid for everything and still do. We have a joint checking account. I put in and we both take out. I am not complaining, but to this day I haven't the faintest idea what she does with her income, which is considerable. And I refuse to ask her.

A few months ago I had some minor financial difficulty and needed a few hundred dollars. She knew this, but she looked out the window and played dumb. I had to borrow it from the bank. What is your opinion of where I stand?

NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: Out in left field with egg on your face. Before you married this "sharp, intelligent businesswoman," all aspects of marriage, of which money is a very real part, should have been clearly spelled out. Unless you agreed that what's yours is hers and what's hers is hers.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "ODD BALL," whose husband is "immaculate" but whose conversation is laced with four-letter words and filthy sex intonation, struck home with me because I am engaged to such a man. He baffles me with the comment that among businessmen, this is the rule.

I love this man for his kindness, consideration and personal cleanliness. Besides, he is highly successful in business and possesses a brilliant mind. But I've never heard so many four-letter words in general conversation as I have since I've been seeing him. He reads your column, Abby, so maybe you could suggest that "man talk" be confined to men. It sickens me.

ENGAGED

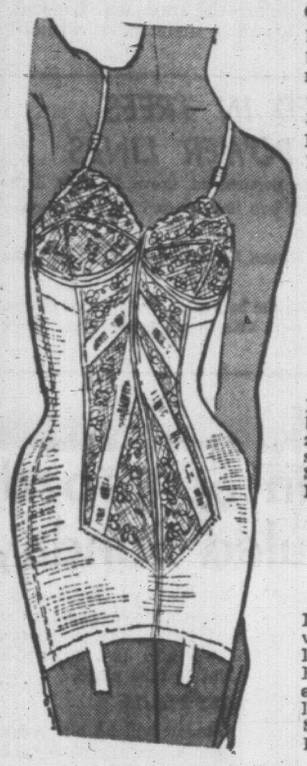

DEAR ENGAGED: If you have never emphatically voiced your disapproval, don't blame him. "Man talk" is inexcusable not only in the presence of ladies, but when it's persistent and ripe, it offends even gentlemen of breeding, though they may not voice their objections. If you plan to marry this otherwise outstanding man, do him a favor and insist that he launder his language. He'll respect you for it.

Queen Elizabeth II greets Nigerian visitors during her visit to the exhibition of contemporary arts of the Commonwealth, held in the Royal Festival Hall in London, England.

THE QUEEN RAISES CONTROVERSY AND PRAISE

Takes Assertive Part in Political Sphere

LONDON (CP)—For the first time in many years, the monarchy is shifting subtly towards something more than a purely ceremonial role. As she approached the 14th year of her reign, the Queen seemed to be playing a more assertive part in the political sphere—a development that caused some controversy in 1965.

The trend was highlighted by the royal tour of West Germany—an event that fanned some still-smoldering ashes of anti-German feeling in Britain—and by the Queen's part in the Rhodesian rebellion crisis.

On both occasions, right-wing commentators revived the long-dormant issue of the Crown's involvement in politics, protesting that the Queen was in danger of becoming an instrument of government policy.

Other reaction, however, was to welcome the more positive image of the monarchy that emerged during the year. On the May tour of Germany—first state visit there by a reigning British monarch since before the First World War—the personal triumph scored by the Queen was seen as comparable to that of King Edward VII in cementing the Anglo-French "entente cordiale" of 1904.

During the 11-day, 1,500-mile tour, the Queen and Prince Philip spent 90 minutes at the Canadian NATO base near Soest, Westphalia, reviewing a military display and visiting the married quarters.

CENTRES ON QUEEN

In November, as the long-drawn-out Rhodesian crisis broke into open rebellion, the Queen became the central figure in the clash between London and Salisbury, with the breakaway Ian Smith regime still claiming loyalty to the Crown while flouting British constitutional authority.

The Queen's decision to give a personal award to Rhodesia's loyal governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, a gesture that went beyond Prime Minister Wilson's official recommendation of an honor, underlined the futility of Smith's proclaimed allegiance. The right-wing Daily Express criticized the award on the grounds it could be interpreted as palace support for Wilson's Rhodesia policy.

Court insiders, commenting on the prime minister's frequent audiences with the Queen during the crisis, suggest that the "asset of continuity" in the monarchy—the special palace perspective acquired over the years—can exert a real influence on government.

The royal decision to send Prince Charles to Australia's Geelond School for a semester next summer, believed to have originated with Prince Philip, marks another shift in the image of the monarchy. Britain's future king is getting a more international, democratic education than any of his predecessors.

EXPECT CLOSER TIES

In court circles it is felt the monarchy in years to come will probably edge closer to the people and to the realities of everyday life—without, it is hoped, losing its essential lustre.

So far there are no plans for a similar Commonwealth-oriented training for other royal children.

The Queen's program for 1966 includes two big trips abroad—a 34-day tour of the Caribbean in February and March, visiting 16 islands and territories, and a four-day state visit to Belgium in May.

As the Queen returns to London from the West Indies March 7, Prince Philip leaves for Miami to begin a 15-day North American tour, including four days in Canada. The trip, connected with various youth projects, is sponsored by Variety Clubs International, a charitable organization of show business people helping underprivileged youth.

Prince Philip will spend March 20-21 in Toronto, visiting a vocational training school for handicapped youth run by the Variety Club of Canada, and then go to Ottawa March 22-23.

PRINCESS GOES EAST

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, go to Hong Kong next May for British Week, a trade promotion scheme. They attended a similar one in Amsterdam last spring and also visited Uganda for three weeks as guests of the Uganda government.

Meanwhile, their semi-official tour of the United States in November has been sharply criticized in some sections of the British press for its cost in public money—it was initially planned as a private visit.

The Queen Mother is scheduled to visit Australia and New Zealand in 1966 for the biennial festival of art. Her 1964 visit was canceled because of an appendix operation. The Queen Mother made three official trips abroad in 1965—to the West Indies to receive an honorary degree, briefly to Canada in late June for presentation of new colors to the Toronto Scottish Regiment, and to Germany for a similar ceremony later in the summer.

Princess Alexandra, another popular royal ambassador, travelled to Tokyo in September with her husband Angus Ogilvy for the British Industries Fair. It was learned she had planned to visit Canada during the year but that the trip had to be cancelled for personal reasons. She has no major engagements yet planned for 1966.

Luci Johnson Becomes Engaged—Plans to Marry in Late Summer

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Luci Baines Johnson, who became engaged to Patrick J. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill., on Christmas Eve with the loving approval of her parents, will be married in late summer with a White House wedding party.

The engagement was formally announced near midnight by the President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson shortly after the family and kinfolks gathered around the Christmas tree at the LBJ Ranch to open their gifts.

Eighteen-year-old Luci and Nugent, 22—both Catholics—later attended midnight mass at St. Francis Xavier Church about a mile from the ranch.

Airman Nugent put a white gold engagement ring with three diamonds — a large centre diamond and one smaller baguette diamond on each side—on Luci's third finger, left hand, but only after his commander-in-chief, the president, had looked it over and given his smiling approval.

Nugent is in basic training at Lackland air force base at San Antonio, Tex. His flight group had Christmas leave until Sunday. When he got away from the base Friday he headed for the ranch and black-haired, blue-eyed Luci.

Luci and Pat were all smiles and showed their happiness Christmas Eve when they attended mass at Stonewall, about two miles from the ranch. Luci wore a red suit and Pat was in a dark suit. With rotund Rev. W. W. Schneider, they posed and smiled for pictures. It was the first time they stood still for a public demonstration of their mutual affection since reports last fall that they were in love.

Nugent is a Roman Catholic and Luci converted to Catholicism on her birthday last July 2.

Vivacious and sparkling, Luci plans to continue her studies at least through her freshman year at Georgetown University's School of Nursing. She began there last fall.

Blonde, handsome Pat got on the telephone with his parents to tell them the happy news immediately after he put the ring on Luci's finger. Nugent's father is an investment broker in Waukegan. His brother, Jerry, is in the Marines and last was stationed on Okinawa, en route to Viet Nam.

Nugent will wind up his basic training in the air reserves at Lackland early in January and will be transferred to Milwaukee. There, he will put in three months of paper work with the 128th consolidated aircraft maintenance group.

After four months he will be in civilian clothes again, although he will have to attend drills and summer camp for several years as a national guardsman.

On hand for the engagement celebration was Luci's sister, Lynda Bird, 21, who is a senior at the University of Texas. Lynda's name recently has been linked with tall, dark and handsome movie star George Hamilton.

Lynda spent a long chaperoned Thanksgiving weekend with Hamilton in Acapulco, Mexico. The following weekend, Hamilton was at the ranch getting a guided tour of the countryside from Johnson himself.

Hamilton is working on a new picture in Spain but he has been keeping in touch with Lynda.

It was a switch from jingle bells to wedding bells for Luci—and not too unexpected for those who knew the president's daughter. Whatever Luci wants, Luci gets. In a war of wills she has usually been able to top her father, when most people can't.

The president wanted Luci to hold off, take more time to get her college education and grow older. But he ran into a problem that a lot of fathers are facing in this country — teen-agers who want to get married and cannot be talked out of it.

Luci, young and pretty, met Nugent on a blind date last June in Milwaukee when she went to visit her friend, Beth Jenkins, daughter of former presidential aide Walter Jenkins.

She wore a blonde wig, trying to be incognito, when she went to a prom with Nugent, but was easily spotted.

Nugent graduated from Marquette University with a B.A. in history and worked for several months with the District of Columbia advisory commission on higher education. Later, he started to date Luci steadily.

Luci had previously been pinned to Paul Betz of Washington, but she never called it an engagement. Her sister Lynda broke her engagement to navy Lt. Bernard Rosenbach in March, 1964, shortly after she moved into the White House.

Both girls have expressed the wish to be married and to have children. Both have found life in the White House a strain on their young lives but admit that it has opportunities that come to few.

Luci will probably forego a nursing career for marriage. Both the president and Mrs. Johnson know that Luci has a mind of her own—and that's it.

The Johnsons spent Christmas Day at the ranch in a yuletide setting of pine cones, balsam and mistletoe. In the evening at about 6 p.m. they sat down to a Christmas dinner of turkey and cornbread dressing, cranberry salad, green beans almondine, aspargus, fruit cake and egg nog.

ACTRESS FAINTS AT WEDDING

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A young American actress fainted in church here Sunday during her wedding to an Italian marquis.

Anastasia Stevens, 23, whose parents live in Moscow, was soon revived to face the rest of the colorful, hour-long Orthodox ceremony in a crowded church near the Kremlin.

The bridegroom, Marchese Aurelio Ferrari de Dollesape, 29, had already married his bride a week ago in a Roman Catholic ceremony in Rome.

Miss Stevens, who lives in Rome, has acted in several Italian films.

KNICKERBOCKER HOLIDAY — Designer John Warden used out-of-season corduroy for this stone-colored sports outfit. The long, loosely-belted jacket and floppy bow blouse showed up in many of the costumes in his "Vanity Fair" spring collection for Montreal's Auckie Sanft. Most ensembles included variations on the circle hat and tight headband. (CP photo)

FOR CATHEDRAL VOWS

Dainty Heirloom Veil Worn by Miss Taylor

An heirloom veil, hand-made by nuns in Scotland, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Virginia Kathleen Taylor, recently, when she became the bride of Sub-Lt. Wilfred Lund.

The veil, which belonged to the groom's grandmother, misted from a pill box headpiece and complemented the bride's gown of old satin. A full-length train swept back from the shoulders of the slightly A-line gown. The bodice was styled with three - quarter - length sleeves and a scoop neckline. She carried rust and gold-toned daisies and roses, accented with ivy, in her bouquet.

Small Christmas trees, ablaze with red lights, and gold chrysanthemums, decorated Christ Church Cathedral for the ceremony at which Dean Brian Whitlow officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drummond Taylor, 1708 Barrie Road, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ellen M. Lund, 336 Richmond Avenue.

CHOIR BOYS

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Purcell's "Air for Trumpet." During the ceremony, choir boys Bill and Peter Dyson sang "Whence Is the Goodly Fragrance Flowing," "God Be in My Head" and "The Lord Is My Shepherd." The couple left the church to the sounds of Handel's "Water Music," with a guard of honor formed by the groom's fellow officers.

Floor - length gowns of sapphire blue velvet, accented with circlet headpieces of gold and rust daisies and bouquets of similar flowers were the choice of the bride's attendants. They were maid of honor, Miss Sheila Taylor, and bridesmaids, the Misses Dale Atkins, Marion Astrop and Agelin Goertner.

Best man was Sub-Lt. W. Barry Hodgkin. Ushering guests to their pews were Sub-Lt. James A. Dodgson, Sub-Lt. David Croyder and Sub-Lt. Edward S. Redshaw.

A soft wool suit in rosewood tones, complemented with black accessories and white orchid corsage, was worn by the new Mrs. Lund for travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, Wash. The couple will make their new home at the United States Navy Submarine Base in New London, Groton, Conn.

Travelling from out-of-town to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Taylor of Kelowna and Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison of Vancouver.

BEST PRESENT—17TH CHILD

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters) —Mrs. Doris Burgin, a British immigrant with five years in Australia, gave birth to her 17th child Christmas Day. She said it was the best Christmas she could have had.

HOOD HOODS — Edward Mann of England has designed a new range of hats inspired by the American gangster era of the 1930s. Included in the collection are, left to right, a slouch hat, "Long Legs Diamond"; a grey and white hoodlum called "Dillinger" and a white gabardine answering to "Hoodlum."

CHAPEL SERVICE

Elizabeth Naylor Wed In White Brocade Suit

Baskets of chrysanthemums in bronze and white tones decorated the chapel of First United Church, Friday afternoon, when Rev. R. J. Norris officiated at the quiet ceremony uniting Elizabeth Allan Naylor and Douglas Kenneth McRae in marriage.

The bride's parents are Capt. and Mrs. Donald B. Naylor, 3910 Ascot Drive, and the groom is the son of Mrs. S. C. Carey, North Surrey, and the late J. G. McRae.

Organist during the ceremony was Mrs. W. H. Gregory.

A wedding-ring headpiece of white velvet, edged with tulle, complemented the bride's white brocade suit. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and was given in marriage by her father.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Bruce Fennell was in a suit of cream wool, accented with a hat en tone and a bouquet of yellow roses. Hugh McRae was best man for his brother.

Holly and other festive decorations decorated the Olde England Inn for the reception, where a three-tier wedding cake centred the head table. Bruce Fennell proposed the toast to the bride.

A beaver coat topped the fawn wool dress worn by the bride for travelling. Accents were a bronze and brown feather hat, toning accessories and a yellow orchid corsage.

COME FROM WINNIPEG

Johnson-Mercier Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Mercier travelled from their Winnipeg home to attend the recent wedding of their daughter, Judy Ann Mercier, and Donald Paul Johnson in St. Patrick's Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, 4009 Magdelin Street, Victoria.

Fr. W. Leonard officiated at the ceremony and Mr. Mercier gave his daughter in marriage. Organist was Mrs. W. Gill.

Tiny bow appliques highlighted the full-length gown of floral-embroidered nylon over taffeta worn by the bride. The fitted bodice was styled with lily point sleeves. Completing the outfit was a single drop pearl pendant. Her bouffant scallop-edged veil misted from a pearl coronet and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The groom's sister, Mrs. B. Scott, was bridesmatron in a gown of blue nylon over taffeta. Her pillbox headpiece was of toning tulle, edged with a small veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Barry Stovel was best man. Ushering guests were George McAllister and Richard Brown.

Mr. Stovel proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the Dominion Hotel. A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, centred the head table.

For travelling on honeymoon up-Island, the new Mrs. Johnson chose a wool crepe suit in aqua tones. A black hat and accessories and pink orchid corsage completed her outfit.

Other out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Crawford of Nanaimo.

CLEMENTINE
By BOB STEVENS

Dear Eunice:

I have encountered great problems with patterns that have a separate section that fits into the side of a suit without set-in sleeves. It is something like a gusset but, since it shows very plainly, it must be neat. Mine simply isn't. Can you help with some extra instructions? Mrs. V. G.

Dear Mrs. V.G.:

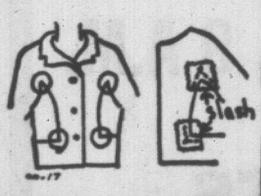

This definitely is "gusset type detail" similar to setting a godet into a skirt, and is like many other details that require clipping one section in order to fit another in place.

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS

If you follow these instructions you shouldn't have too much trouble from now on.

1. Reinforce the area that is to be slashed by placing a small square of firm, light-weight cotton on the wrong side of your garment. Machine stitch one inch on each side of the exact spot to be clipped or slashed.

2. Slash, as pattern directs, to the very last reinforced stitch.

3. Begin pinning ONE section at a time. Always pin and stitch toward the slashed area first. The section that was slashed will be FACE-UP and have a seamline that begins ⅝ inch wide and tapers to nothing at the point of the slash. The under-section of the garment will have a uniform ⅝-inch seam allowance.

4. As you machine stitch, hold the point at the end of the slash securely over the corresponding mark on the under-section with a large needle (this prevents slipping). If it should slip while you are stitching, you will have a rounded, poorly shaped area instead of a perfect square or point. Machine stitches should be much smaller on either side of the slashed area.

CHECK FIRST

5. Remove from sewing machine, check to see that the first stitching line is perfect, then pin and stitch the section that begins at the slash and continues to end of seam.

This is one of the trickiest of all sewing details. It is frustrating because if you take one extra stitch you are likely to have a pucker. If you stop stitching one stitch short of the slashed area you will have a hole at this point. Be accurate; it will pay off in the finished results.

TWO KILLERS ON LOOSE

SENTENCE will be announced Jan. 7 in Montreal for Eddy Lechasseur, 33, friend of convicted narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard. Lechasseur pleaded guilty to plotting fraudulent bankruptcy involving $40,000.

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — This Australian city of 2 million was gripped by fear of more violence today as the hunt continued for two convicts who police said have killed two men since they escaped from jail nine days ago.

Police believed there may be more deaths before the pair, Ronald Ryan, 41, and Peter Walker, 24, are back in Pentridge Maximum Security Jail.

Police said the pair brutally clubbed a prison chaplain in escaping, then shot and killed a guard on a busy street as he tried to prevent their getaway.

Christmas morning, Arthur James Henderson, 27, was found in a public toilet with the back of his head shattered by a bullet. He died on the way to hospital.

Police said Henderson was asked by a woman friend to help her recover her two-year-old daughter from the convicts, who held her as hostage. They forced the child's 25-year-old mother to rent hideout premises for them. The mother and child were released after Henderson was shot.

Ryan and Walker were believed to be armed with a carbine, a shotgun, two pistols or revolvers, a .22-calibre rifle and plenty of ammunition.

Every policeman, in a state where police do not normally carry weapons, was armed.

Forty-one police cars prowled Melbourne's streets, all equipped with shotguns, carbines and teargas.

Reluctant Soldier Jailed Three Years

FORT ORD, Calif. (UPI)—An army private who believed his father's philosophy that "you can't fight and be a Christian at the same time" was sentenced to three years at hard labor last week.

Pvt. James M. Taylor, 22, of Portland, was convicted of failing to obey orders relating to basic training after his enlistment in July. The nine-member court, which included three enlisted men, declined to hear evidence that Taylor was a conscientious objector.

Execution Change Supported by Lesage

QUEBEC (CP) — "I've never thought about it," said Quebec Premier Jean Lesage when he was asked about the provincial justice minister's idea for a national referendum on possible abolition of the death penalty.

Mr. Lesage told a press conference he is against abolition but "I am not strongly in favor of maintaing hanging" as the means of capital punishment.

Mr. Lesage said after a cabinet meeting he knew nothing about the referendum plan put forward Tuesday by Justice Minister Claude Wagner who said in an interview he will ask the federal government to hold a national referendum.

Mr. Lesage said the death penalty is regarded by the public as "a horrible thing because it is an association with hanging."

Asked whether he has any ideas for a different method of capital punishment, the premier said he couldn't suggest anything himself since this is a matter for experts.

AGREES WITH MINISTER

He said he agrees "for serious reasons" with Mr. Wagner that the death penalty should be retained.

"As long as we see commutations, such as the one we recently saw, and which follow horible crimes, we will continue to have horrible crimes," said Mr. Lesage.

He was apparently referring to the commutation of life imprisonment of the hanging sentence against Leopold Dion, 45, who was convicted in 1963 of the sex slaying of Pierre Marquis, 13, near Quebec City.

The justice department is studying the question of whether to seek trial for Dion on a second capital murder charge, a department spokesman said Wednesday.

Tribesmen To Die For Revolt

PLEIKU (AP)—Four Montagnard tribesmen were sentenced to death today for their part in an unsuccessful revolt 10 days ago to set up an autonomous tribal state in South Viet Nam's central highlands.

A South Vietnamese field court martial sentenced 15 other Montagnards to terms ranging from five years at hard labor followed by banishment for five years to life imprisonment. One tribesman was acquitted. The five-man court deliberated for 40 minutes.

The four men sentenced to death have the right to appeal.

Thirty-five Vietnamese civilians and soldiers were killed in the revolt. It was the second in 15 months by activists among the nearly 1,000,000 mountain tribesmen who generally resent domination by the Vietnamese from lowlands.

At the heart of the dispute are racial and cultural differences between the Montagnards and the lowland Vietnamese, who consider the primitive mountain people savages.

Jews Babysit For Mass

EMERSON, N.J. (AP)—Jewish families took up babysitting chores Friday night so Roman Catholics could attend midnight Mass in observance of Christmas.

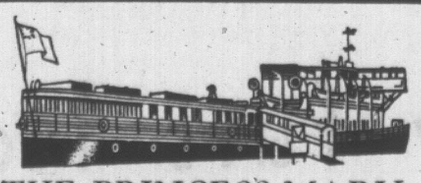

The Rev. Caesar G. Orrico, pastor of Assumption Roman Catholic church, said the practice has been going on since the Jewish Community Centre was opened about eight years ago.

Murray Klein, co-ordinator of the centre program, said, "This is our pleasure. It is reciprocation—in very, very small measure—for what the father has done for us."

Father Orrico turned over his church school facilities for the Jewish congregation to conduct Friday night services for several years before the Jews got their own facilities.

Teachers Plan Blacklist Of Board

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Teachers here who boycotted a salary arbitration hearing said last week they will invoke a form of blacklisting against their school board.

The teachers said they will notify all teachers' associations in Canada and Great Britain that they do not consider there is a contract between North Vancouver teachers and the school board.

They will ask prospective teachers to check with the B.C. Teacher's Federation before applying for a job here.

The teachers said they will return by cheque each month any raise granted them for 1966 by the arbitration board, whose decision is binding on both sides.

BOYCOTTED MEET

The arbitration meeting Monday was boycotted by the teachers to protest a move by school trustees to establish a metropolitan salary scale covering all teachers in Greater Vancouver.

The teachers say a metropolitan agreement would depress salaries and be the forerunner of an eventual provincial salary scale.

They say a provincial salary scale would reduce them to civil service status.

Teachers now bargain with individual school boards. If agreement is not reached the matter is referred to compulsory arbitration.

School trustees say that teachers prefer individual bargaining so they can use raises in one district as a lever to raise salaries in another.

A 1965 amendment to the Public Schools Act permits salary agreements on a zone basis if all school boards and teachers agree.

J. J. Greene faces first press conference as agriculture minister.

Agriculture Chief Braces For Round of PC Attacks

OTTAWA (CP)—That "awful date" when he will face "that avenging horde" of western Tories looms large in the mind of Joe Greene.

So he is working on a crash program to become more familiar with his first cabinet portfolio — agriculture—before the Jan. 18 opening of the parliamentary session.

And, he said at a press conference today, he may make a quick visit to Western Canada before Parliament meets to start educating himself on western agriculture and getting to know Prairie agricultural leaders.

As the first federal agriculture minister in more than 50 years from Eastern Canada, the 45-year-old Renfrew South MP anticipates he'll have a tougher than usual time in the Commons.

Across the Commons floor from him will be rank on rank of Prairie Conservatives, mostly veteran MPs and captained on agriculture matters by former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton and Douglas Harkness who also held the agriculture portfolio.

"I have a great deal to learn about agriculture, about the department and especially about western agriculture," he said.

The rough - hewn eloquence he has shown in Parliament came through only when he touched on topics with which he is more familiar.

KNOWS CAST BEST

Rural poverty in Eastern Canada, for example. The problem as he sees it is how to make the family farm a better paying unit and how to ensure that the farmer who hasn't an economic unit is to be helped to find productive endeavor.

Since his appointment a week ago to succeed Harry Hays, defeated in the Nov. 8 election, Mr. Greene has spent most of his time trying to catch up with the paper work that piled up during the election campaign and its aftermath.

"My first duty is to tackle the administrative problems rather than any political ones," he said.

BOY SWALLOWED BY SNAKE

LIMA, Peru (Reuters)—A boa constrictor crushed and swallowed a 12-year-old Indian boy near the Amazon port of Iquitos, according to reports reaching here Wednesday. An eyewitness said the boy was fishing in a lake when he was attacked.

Five Die In Fire

Dead are John MacLaughlin, 64, his daughter, Mrs. John Raywood, and her daughters, Katharine, two; Sharon, eight months, and Mrs. Adam Bailey, 84, Mr. MacLaughlin's mother-in-law.

'STUDY IN DEPTH' WANTED

Oak Bay Plans Campaign For Financial Revision

By RON SUDLOW

Reeve Allan Cox wants "an objective study in depth" on inter-government financing.

"This is the singlemost important thing next year," the reeve said today.

He said his council intends to press hard for a financial realignment to ease the burden on municipal taxpayers.

PEOPLE CONCERNED

The reeve said defeat of the regional hospital plan at the annual elections is a clear indication the people want a hard look taken at municipal financing.

A review of 1965 achievements shows parks played a big part in the municipality's delevopment.

Oak Bay played an important role in the formation of a regional parks board which will provide future breathing spaces for South Vancouver Islanders.

And Oak Bay added to its own parklands with the purchase of the 10-acre Victoria Riding Academy site.

The purchase was termed "a big step" by Reeve Allan Cox.

The land lies adjacent to Oak Bay's Henderson Park which is due for development soon.

OVERALL PLAN

The municipality continued to look ahead by commissioning the Capital Region Planning Board to produce an overall zoning and land use plan.

One of the biggest developments in the public works field was completion of the $120,000 municipal yard and addition to the fire hall.

The buildings were completed from accumulated reserve funds.

Oak Bay was active on the intermunicipal level during the year.

SEWER SURVEY

A highlight of this, said Reeve Cox, was signing of the agreement for a regional sewer survey.

Oak Bay also proved active in formulating a new financing arrangement for Greater Victoria Library services.

The new plan calls for intermunicipal financing by population rather than by book usage.

BRANCH LIBRARIES

Funds from the new finance formula will be used to establish branch libraries.

"This is quite important with the traffice situation and suburban buildup," said the reeve.

An Oak Bay brainchild started early this year was formation of a Greater Victoria-Greater Vancouver committee, to discuss problems—mostly financial and taxation—common to the metro areas.

Although there were no changes on council, Police Chief Bob Smith will be missed from traffic committee meetings.

He retires Jan. 1.

PEOPLE SATISFIED

"The re-election of incumbents is not a sign of apathy in Oak Bay. I believe the people are satisfied with the job their council is doing," commented the reeve.

He was re-elected by acclamation.

Rejected by a slim margin of 18 ballots voting day was a proposal to fluoridate the municipality's water supply.

'Santa' Ostler Gives Crying Girl a Break

Magistrate William Ostler got into the Christmas spirit last week in central court when he sentenced a young girl who was convicted of assault.

He told Sharon Sammis, no address given, "In keeping with the spirit of the season I'm going to let you go."

The defendant was crying in the witness box when the magistrate passed sentence.

But that didn't influence the magistrate's decision. He told her to control herself.

'BLAME YOURSELF'

"You brought this situation on yourself," he told her.

Court was told at an earlier hearing Miss Sammis had assaulted Mrs. Josephine Emsley who was working at French's Restaurant, 766 Yates Oct. 15.

Mrs. Emsley said Miss Sammis was using obscene language and when she tried to quieten her, the defendant turned on her.

SHOULDER STRUCK

She said she was struck on the shoulder with what she believed to be a ketchup bottle.

Miss Sammis testified she only grabbed the woman's sweater.

But she admitted she was "pretty intoxicated" at the time.

Magistrate Ostler placed her on a six-month $250 good behavious bond and ordered her to stay away from Mrs. Emsley.

Fearful Cubans Quit Viet Nam-Bound Ship

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — The U.S. government granted political asylum today to the captain and three officers of the Cuban freighter Aracelio Iglesias. They were expected to leave shortly for the United States.

The four Cubans walked into the U.S. consulate-general this morning and a U.S. embassy spokesman in Tokyo said they had been issued visas and were turned over to Japanese police.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the Cubans could leave Japan as soon as it was determined that they were going voluntarily. It was believed that this procedure had been completed during the day.

Japanese police told the Kyodo news service the men were frightened because their ship had been ordered to carry weapons from Shanghai, in China, to North Viet Nam.

They are from the 9,732-ton freighter Aracelio Inglesias, which has been in drydock here since October. Repairs to the ship were scheduled to be completed today. The Osaka customs office said it was to sail for Shanghai after navigation trials.

Plane Downed, None Hurt

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Holiday passengers missed their Christmas dinner aboard a Tokyo-bound Japan Air Lines jet and escaped down an emergency chute without injury after the damaged plane limped to a landing.

The plane's outer left engine caught fire four minutes after the DC-8's takeoff from San Francisco Saturday. There were 21 passengers and 10 crew members aboard.

"She went blooie," said Flight Officed Harold L. Brown, the only American crew member.

"There wasn't any warning." Parts of the engine fell over suburban areas, but the debris caused no reported damage. Capt. Tsuneo Kato landed the plane at Oakland, across the bay from San Francisco.

The fuel-laden plane screeched to a stop, its wheels on fire from friction on the runways.

Saturday's emergency was similar to an incident June 28 when a Pan American Boeing 707 jet lost an engine and 30 feet of wing over San Francisco suburbs. That plane landed safely with 153 persons aboard.

BRIGHTER CHRISTMAS FOR RONNIE

VAN DUYS, Calif (AP) — Ronnie Baker wasn't making any plans last Christmas. This year he did.

Last December doctors told Ronnie he'd die if they didn't amputate his cancerous left leg. Rather than face the operation, Ronnie, 16, ran away from home.

But he changed his mind, came home, and last New Year's Eve underwent the operation.

It was a success and Ronnie, fitted with a prosthetic leg, can walk, climb stairs, drive a car, and hold a part-time job as a painter. He has gained 30 pounds since his operation.

Doctors feel sure they eradicated all the cancer when they amputated Ronnie's leg above the knee, although they say it will be years before they're positive.

"Things look a lot better, now," said Ronnie, who turned 17 last Jan. 28.

Lucien Writes Apology

QUEBEC (CP) — Lucien Rivard the letter-writer is at it again.

The Quebec justice department has received a letter from Rivard, now in a Texas prison, apologizing for all the inconvenience and concern he caused the department in 1965.

He was especially apologetic for his "stupid act in climbing the wall at Bordeaux Jail."

Rivard added some warm words of praise for Justice Minister Claude Wagner, and tacked on some season's greetings.

Convicted by a U.S. court on narcotics - smuggling charges this fall, Rivard was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment and a $20,000 fine. He has appealed.

He escaped from Bordeaux Jail in Montreal March 2 while awaiting the outcome of extradition proceedings. He was recaptured in July.

Shortly after conquering the wall at Bordeaux, Rivard wrote the governor to express regrets over any inconvenience caused by the sensational flight.

Cattle Drive Starts

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — Transvaal farmers have begun a massive cattle drive to save as much as possible of the herds from a drought which in some areas has lasted five years. It is expected that more than 10,000 head of cattle will be moved by rail and road to areas where there is more water and fodder.

Youth Group to Hear About Social Problems

Crime, vandalism, sex, alcohol and automation are among topics to be discussed at a youth conference to be held at First United Church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference is sponsored by Kairos of the United Church of Canada, a group of young people aged 18 to 25.

Youth groups from Anglican, Baptist and Roman Catholic churches have been invited to attend.

Speakers at the conference will include Gerald Webb, president of the South Vancouver Island branch, B.C. Association of Social Workers; Thomas Smith, Victoria juvenile officer; Rev. William Van Druten, Gordon United Church, and Dr. Pierre d'Estrube, a psychiatrist.

"Kairos are anxious to understand the social problems of the day," says Gloria Porter, committee chairman. "We want to know what we as Christians can do to help."

She says that any young people who would like to join the conference should call her at EV 4-0641.

MARATHON WALKER Dr. Barbara Moore, 62, was jailed for an indefinite term in London last week for refusing to give a judge an assurance she would not interfere with a neighbor's right of way over a shared forecourt at her home in Surrey.

Report on Court To Be Studied By Councillors

A review of the new central magistrate's court in Victoria will be given at a Saanich council meeting Tuesday night.

Reeve Hugh Curtis indicated it will be discussed in private by council following the regular open meeting.

Reports on the subject will be given to council by prosecutor Kenneth Murphy and Police Chief W. A. Pearson.

The central court was held at Swan Lake in Saanich but was moved to Centennial Square three months ago, leaving the old courtroom empty.

An action by Saanich in the Supreme Court to have a magistrate sit in Saanich failed.

Labor Federation Swells Its Ranks

The B.C. Federation of Labour grew in membership to 110,000 during the past year.

Thirty unions with 7,000 members joined the province's central labor body.

Two new labor councils, in Port Alberni and Williams Lake, also were formed in the past year.

CABLE CAR SPLIT OPEN, SIX KILLED

CLERMONT - FERRAND, France (UPI)—Magistrates and police today launched an official inquiry into a Christmas Day mountain disaster in which a swinging aerial cable car burst open and spilled 23 vacationers on to rocks and snow beneath, killing six and injuring 12.

Authorities planned a full reconstruction of the accident—one of the worst in recent French mountaineering history.

Swirling fog and clouds still blanketing 5,694-foot Puy de Sancy in the Monte Dore range of central France hampered detailed investigations.

All the victims were French—most of them teen-age members of an Orleans ski club.

Three of the injured at the Hotel Dieu hospital here were reported today still in serious condition.

NEAR TOP

The 60-passenger cable car was about 120 feet from the top of the cone-shaped peak when the electric current went off, bringing the car to a violent halt.

Passengers and their stacked skis were flung against the front of the car, which burst open with an explosion that could be heard miles around and 23 persons were spilled on to the snow-covered mountainside below.

Louis Paris, 52, the engineer who was riding in the car at the time of the disaster, told police from his hospital bed he believed the car burst open when its front wall was smashed against the cable in a sort of pendulum motion.

CIA SAYS LITTLE

Public Confused Over U.S. Spy Agency Role

By SID MOODY
Associated Press Staff Writer

The shadowy business of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, by its nature demands secrecy. But in a finger-pointing, probe - conscious society there is constant pressure to lift the lid and have a look.

Scarcely a day—or a coup—goes by that someone, somewhere does not accuse the worldwide U.S. spy organization of murder or kidnapping, of bombing or blackmail, or bribery, or masterminding this or bungling that—all the while strewing American dollars hither and yon.

Since it is inherent in an intelligence apparatus not to confirm or deny anything, the claims, rumors and charges leave the public confused as to whether the agency is extremely good—or bad.

FAIR GAME FOR CHARGES

The fact that it—cannot answer for itself makes the CIA fair game for the wildest of charges and only occasionally does this iceberg of espionage surface: Such as the Berlin tunnel that tapped the wires of Soviet military headquarters, or the overthrow of leftist regimes in Guatemala or Iran, the U-2 flights over Russia and the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.

The CIA has many spies, few spokesmen. But a typical sampling of allegations which have been published in books and newspapers and which are part of the accepted picture of the CIA in many parts of the world provides such as the following:

—Two Syrians testified an American embassy official offered them $2,000,000 if they could deliver a Soviet naval patrol boat and its rockets to Cyprus. He was asked to leave the country. They were hanged.

—The CIA has rigged elections in Laos. An American reporter said he saw Communist and CIA agents literally bumping into each other while visiting Congolese parliamentarians to buy votes during a crucial vote of confidence.

—CIA agents adulterated a shipment of sugar aboard a Russian freighter docked in Puerto Rico. The aim was to sour the Soviet sweet tooth on Cuban sugar. President Kennedy became angered when he learned of it and the sugar thereupon was destroyed by a mysterious fire.

—A CIA agent tailed a courier going from Cairo to the Congo with $100,000 in a briefcase for the Congolese rebels. While in Khartoum the courier briefly put the briefcase down in the gentlemen's room. The agent promptly walked off with it.

—The CIA tried to suppress the book The Invisible Government, written by newspaper men David Wise and Thomas Ross about its activities and threatened to buy up all the first edition. Former CIA director Allen Dulles labelled the book scuttlebutt. Privately some CIA people gave it passing grades for accuracy.

The activities of the CIA, in fact or myth, mark the great distance U.S. intelligence has come from simpler pre - cold war days.

As recently as 1929 then State Secretary Henry Stimson disbanded the department's "black chamber" code-breaking operation saying "gentlemen do not read each other's mail."

COST UNKNOWN

Just how much the U.S. may spend on intelligence a year is anybody's guess. Ross and Wise estimate it at $4,000,000,000. There are few estimates that go below $2,000,000,000.

Who needs it?

The United States, says State Secretary Dean Rusk, who adds that a "back alley war" is going on all over the world.

"If we don't subvert, we're giving our enemies who operate solely by subversion an undue advantage," says Representative Clement J. Zablocki (Dem.-Wis.), one of the CIA's closer observers.

Wrote Allen Dulles, former CIA boss, "We cannot safely limit our response to the Communist strategy of take - over solely to those cases where we are invited in by a government. We ourselves must determine where and how to act."

Basically work at the CIA is divided in two. There is the "plans" end which handles the agents who do the cloak-and-dagger work. Espionage provides less than 20 per cent of the CIA's intelligence.

The "intelligence" end concerns itself with everything from technical journals, field reports and foreign publications to monitoring radio broadcasts in more than 60 languages to the tune of 6,000,000 words a day.

MAKES PREDICTIONS

From all this the agency prepares both periodic "national estimates," predicting future events around the world, and daily digests of intelligence reports which are seen by the president and secretaries of state and defence (and the workaday printers who set them in type).

The CIA's concern is catholic: How did Mao look at the last peasant's parade, what is the latest in Soviet biological research, how many trains run through Minsk each day.

The CIA man in the field may be rather openly attached to an embassy, he may be underground or he may be a paid informer in the nation involved. (Such "plants" start at about $100 a month, in part to keep them from acquiring more yachts, mistresses and gambling debts than their normal salary would allow).

The CIA recruits its agents from college campuses, tries to make career men and women of them. Only one applicant in 10 is hired.

Once in the field, the agent may observe, spy or decide to act. If things in a given country look bad, he might say "let's support Gustavus Adolphus, he's a middle-of-the-road guy." The agency then begins to plant propaganda, spend money, recruit support. But none of this can occur without approval of a policy agency in Washington outside the CIA.

AUTHORITY QUESTIONED

The CIA was formed in 1947 to bring the intelligence arms under one control. Has this been done and is there, indeed, control?

Some critics claim the CIA has been given authority over men and money far beyond any other U.S. agency. It has all but a blank cheque from the U.S. Congress. Its funds are hidden throughout the federal budget, presumably in the huge defence appropriations.

Few if any congressmen dispute the CIA's need for secrecy. Some feel—and strongly—that the agency should, however, be subject to more frequent and stringent congressional scrutiny.

Ultimately, the problem of CIA supervision comes to the desk of the president because it is to him the agency ultimately reports.

Thus the CIA believes it is as closely monitored as any agency in government. And it boasts (off the record) of being as tight-fisted as it is tight-lipped.

But there are critics who fear that the CIA has overgrown its original territory which was to collect and interpret information.

President John F. Kennedy did not quite answer the charge when he said the CIA "does not create policy; it attempts to execute it in those areas where it has competence and responsibility."

But Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem.-Alaska) has said the CIA does play a part in shaping policy because "the evaluation it presents has in the past determined our policy towards governments of foreign countries."

FRICTION EXISTS

Traditionally, the U.S. ambassador has been in charge of American operations in his country and there have been reports of some polite friction between the state department and the CIA, partially because their reporting duties sometimes overlap and because the agents can use dollars instead of just diplomacy in their pursuits.

But there appears to be general agreement the diplomats should stick to diplomacy and the CIA to finding out, as one congressman put it, "who is sleeping with whom."

In 1948 the CIA correctly predicted the Russians would not fight over the Berlin airlift. It knew in advance of the British-French intervention in the Suez, of the overthrow of Premier Kassem in Iraq, of a recent coup in a friendly Middle East country although the U.S. ambassador insisted it could not happen. A year before Sputnik I the CIA reported the Russians had the ability to launch a satellite.

"The CIA is not as good as it should be," one who should know said recently. "But it is constantly improving. I don't think, any responsible intelligence officer is going to say it is as good as it should be until we know what our adversaries are going to do and the likelihood of any confrontation anywhere in the world."

To him the CIA will be batting 1,000 per cent when it has infiltrated every foreign, security and defence ministry of every government in the world.

GEMINIS NEARLY HAD SPACE KISS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gemini 6 and 7 apparently came within one foot of each other during their nose-to-nose space rendezvous last week, a Space Agency official said last week.

Robert Aller, chief of Gemini mission planning for the National Aeronautic and Space Administration, told a National Press Club meeting of the latest figures. Earlier, NASA officials had said the space craft were six to 10 feet apart or less.

Aller did not say how officials arrived at the latest estimate, but indicated it was a result of intensive post-flight debriefing of the four astronauts involved.

½ CENT PER DAY

Fish Flour Hailed

NEW YORK (AP) — United States government scientists have perfected a cheap fish flour that could end the protein starvation that afflicts much of the world's population, the New York Times reports.

The newspaper says scientists in the bureau of commercial fisheries of the interior department say the flour could provide the normal protein requirement of 1,000,000,000 persons at a cost of half a cent a person a day.

The flour is made by grinding and processing fish, the paper says; it is almost odorless and tasteless and is light grey in color; it can be mixed with baked goods, noodles on gravy, milk shakes or baby fods.

EARLY PRODUCT BANNED

The Food and Drug Administration banned a similar product in 1962 on grounds it was "polluted and filthy". The Times says the new flour has been certified "pure and wholesome".

United Nations studies show that 80 per cent of the world's people do not get enough protein and 60 per cent verge on protein starvation.

An Academy of Sciences study puts the world's annual catch of fish at 50,000,000 tons and estimates that it could be increased to 250,000,000 tons. That would produce 50,000,000 tons of the flour.

Former U.K. War Minister Dies at 75

NASSAU (AP)—Funeral arrangements for Viscount Margesson, Britain's war minister during part of the Second World War, awaited the arrival in The Bahamas today of his son from London.

Lord Margesson, 75, died Friday night. He had been in poor health and was spending the winter at the home of Lady Baillie.

After service in the First World War, Margesson was elected to the House of Commons in 1922 and served there until he was made a viscount in 1942. He was the Conservative party's chief whip in the house from 1931 to 1940 and was war minister from December, 1940, until February, 1942, when a cabinet shakeup followed the fall of Singapore.

His marriage to Frances Leggett of New York ended in divorce in 1940.

In private life, he was well known in business circles as a director of the International Nickel Company and of Martins Bank.

Survivors include the son, Francis Vere Hampden Margesson, the new viscount, information officer at the British consulate in New York, and two daughters, Mrs. George Buchanan and Lady Cherteris, both of London.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

XMAS LEFTOVERS: Portly Sebastian Cabot, up from Hollywood to spend Christmas at his retreat at Deep Cove, informs me that he'll co-star in a pilot being shot by Don Fedderson Productions in the early part of January.

Stephen

The pilot, for CBS-TV's 1966-67 season, is entitled "The Family Affair." It's the story of a dashing bachelor engineer, Brian Keith, and life with his English valet (Sebastian). Their life is disrupted with the arrival of children on the scene.

That's the twist. Cabot, the valet, hates children with a passion—loathes them. The show will probably be in color because the network is planning to devote most of its programming, and all of its prime-time night programming, to color.

An upcoming episode of NBC-TV's "Get Smart" series has one of those "punny" titles—"The Dear Spy Scrawls." (No, I'm not going to draw it out for you) . . . NBC News will produce a full-hour White Paper in color examining the growing crisis over the spread of nuclear weapons.

The program will be the first White Paper special to be telecast in color. It will probe in depth the nuclear issue which now divides some of the U.S. government officials, the U.S. and its allies . . . Appearing on the program will be leaders and scientists in key countries involved in making decisions on the spread of nuclear weapons.

SHORT CIRCUIT: History-making events of the past century will be recreated through the actual voices of those people who shaped the destiny of the world during that time, on CBC radio's Project '66 series. The one-hour broadcast will be heard Sunday, Jan. 2.

Voices on the program include those of Kaiser Wilhelm, recorded in Berlin in 1914; a harangue by Adolf Hitler announcing a purge in Nazi Germany of the '30s; eloquent but futile cries for peace by European statesmen, including British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. "Sounds of the Century" will also present Winston Churchill, Ghandi, Einstein and George Bernard Shaw.

Crash Victims Still In Coma

Two children of a Victoria family are still unconscious and in critical condition in an Oregon hospital after receiving head injuries in an accident last Wednesday.

In the intensive care unit at Rogue Valley Hospital, near Medford, Ore., are Christopher John, 10, and Susan Hoit, 13, children of Wing Cmdr. James Baker, 3034 Westdowne.

A hospital official told the Times another daughter, Marie Elizabeth, 15, was released from hospital Sunday and arrangements are being made to send her to San Francisco to stay with relatives.

Mrs. Baker is still in hospital but is improving. She is reported in good condition. Wing Cmdr. Baker was uninjured in the crash.

Dr. Baker has served as chief of surgery at Naden Hospital since last July. He and his family left Victoria last week to holiday in San Francisco.

Oregon state police said the Baker car struck ice on Interstate Highway No. 5 near Central Point, Ore. The vehicle hit a divider strip, overturned and slid into another car. Police said all of the Bakers were thrown out.

Gas Rationing Next For Worried Rhodesia

SALISBURY (CP)—Rhodesia's three-day Christmas holiday ended today with the country's 220,000 whites worried about what lies ahead.

There was general expectation this week will see gasoline rationing.

Many believe the high standard of living will plunge as a result of Prime Minister Ian Smith's seizure of independence in November.

But some of the anxiety is offset by the fact that Rhodesia is largely self-supporting in food and that local industry can supply most of the essentials of life.

Observers find it difficult to assess just what effect international economic and trade sanctions will have.

RESTRICTIONS

The government has imposed strict import and exchange control restrictions but it has not disclosed which sectors of the economy will suffer most.

Besides its censorship of domestic newspapers, the government has clamped down on publication of any reports which could indicate to the outside world the measures being taken to combat the trade sanctions.

So far, only a few small items have become scarce—spools of thread, gramophone needles and razor blades. Some stores have introduced "one per person" rationing on brassieres and other ladies' foundation garments, imported perfumes, cosmetics and color films.

'CAN KEEP GOING'

Meanwhile, Premier Smith says Rhodesia has oil supplies for six months and "we can keep going, not for six months, but for six years by getting supplies in."

The country would buy the oil from anyone who would sell it, including the Communists, Smith said in a television interview broadcast in the United States Sunday by CBS.

STAND GUARD

In neighboring Bechuanaland, British troops Sunday guarded the sabotage-threatened British radio station being built to beam uncensored broadcasts to Rhodesia. White residents of Francistown, only 10 miles from the Rhodesian border, have threatened sabotage against the station.

The Soviet Union Saturday pledged to co-operate with African countries "in providing the utmost assistance to the people of Rhodesia." The pledge was made in a joint Soviet-Zambian communique issued after the departure of a delegation from Zambia.

Canada Makes First Delivery Of Zambia Oil

LUSAKA (AP) — Canada opened its share of the Zambian oil airlift today with a token lift of six barrels of lubricants to Lusaka Airport.

The oil was delivered by an RCAF Yukon aircraft coming from the Congo capital of Leopoldville which will be the base for the Canadian airlift.

The airlift was initiated by the British when neighboring Rhodesia, whose white-minority government seized independence from Britain, blocked normal channels of oil to Zambia more than a week ago.

Rhodesia's action followed a British-led oil embargo against it.

The real work of the airlift is expected to start later this week when four RCAF C-130 Hercules transports shuttle about 15 tons of oil each to Zambia.

The first C-130 will arrive in Leopoldville Tuesday night with others following on successive days.

OFFICER WILL DECIDE

Canadian sources said they hope the transports will make two daily trips each on the 1,200-mile Leopoldville - Lusaka run. The decision will be made by an advance party arriving in Leopoldville Thursday under the command of Wing Cmdr. Gordon Webb of Hamilton, Ont. Webb is meeting here with Air Commodore Ian McDougal who heads the RAF airlift operation to Zambia.

Nalumino Mundiga, Zambian minister of labor and special development, and Zambian Transport Minister D. Banda received the oil from Gordon Brown, Canadian ambassador in Leopoldville.

In a speech at Lusaka Airport, Brown said Canada's participation was at the request of Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda.

. . . SERVICES

The five readers relieved each other every two hours.

Sikhs from many parts of the province attended and the congregations included a few visitors from Christian churches.

WELCOME TO ALL

"We extended a welcome to all people of goodwill, regardless of their faith," said a spokesman for the Khalsa Diwan Society of Victoria, which sponsored the service.

Refreshments were served during the marathon worship, concluding with breakfast on Christmas morning.

More than 200 attended a Christmas Eve service in the Salvation Army Citadel, 757 Pandora Avenue, which was conducted by Lt.-Col. John Nelson, divisional Salvation Army commander for British Columbia.

FIRST OF KIND

"The service was the first of its kind," said Capt. Don McMillan, leader of the Victoria citadel. "It started at 11 p.m. and continued past midnight."

Churches in outlying districts also reported larger-than-usual congregations on Christmas Eve.

St. Luke's Anglican Church, 3821 Cedar Hill Cross Road, had a peak attendance of more than 300 at its 11:30 p.m. service and 200 at the family carol service at 10 a.m. Christmas Day.

The adult choir and the newly-formed boys' choir presented an inspiring performance of Bach's anthem Break Forth O Beauteous Heavenly Light.

$459 COLLECTED

At its Christmas morning service, Victoria Seventh-Day Adventist Church collected almost $459 towards the building of a 60-bed hospital in the Solomon Islands.

Donations were placed under a Christmas tree at the entrance to the church.

Candlelight communion services were also held Christmas Eve in St. Paul's-Gorge Presbyterian Church, Tillicum and Walter; the Church of Our Lord; Centennial United Church; St. Mary's Anglican, Oak Bay; and St. David-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay, and others.

Killer Gets Life

ZWEIBRUECKEN, West Germany (AP)—LAC Edward Ziesmann, 27, of Emerson, Man., was sentenced Friday to life imprisonment for slaying his wife and two young daughters last September.

NOTHIN' COULD BE FINAH, said this man from N. Carolina, a tourist here to see an old English Christmas. He is Archibald Yow and he finds a beard, a bumbershoot and rubber boots ideal protection against the snow, on the lawn of the Legislative Buildings.

POPULATION explosion was observed here today. Snowmen were born in front yards throughout district and children were out in force, some leaving without breakfast to get at the snow. But there was plenty left after record fall, even where kids built big — as did Kelly Tippett, Teresa Bridge and George Bridge, above, from left.

QUEEN SEES BRIGHTER, HOPEFUL DAYS AHEAD

LONDON (Reuters) — Following is the text of the Queen's annual Christmas broadcast to the Commonwealth:

Every year the familiar pattern of Christmas unfolds. The sights and the customs and festivities may seem very much the same from one year to another, and yet to families and individuals each Christmas is slightly different. Children grow and presents for them change.

It may be the first Christmas for many as husband and wife, or the first Christmas with grandchildren.

Some may be far from home, and others lonely or sick, yet Christmas always remains as the great family festival. A festival which we owe to that family long ago which spent this time in extreme adversity and discomfort.

I think we should remember that in spite of all the scientific advances and the great improvements in our material welfare, the family remains as the focal point of our existence.

There is overwhelming evidence that those who cannot experience full and happy family life for some reason or another are deprived of a great stabilizing influence in their lives.

At Christmas we are also reminded it is the time of peace on earth and good will towards men. Yet we are all only too well aware of the tragic fighting, hatred and ill will in so many parts of the world.

Because of this, cynics may shrug off the Christmas message as a waste of time, but that is only the gloomy side of the picture; there are also brighter and more hopeful signs.

The great churches of the world are coming to understand each other better and to recognize that without their inspiration and great ideals mankind will be smothered by its own material wealth. We must have dreams and ambitions for peace and good will and they must be proclaimed.

Perhaps the most practical demonstration of good will towards men is to be found in the growing practice among young people to give some form of voluntary service to others.

In Britain and throughout the world they are coming forward to help old people or to serve in every kind of capacity where they may be needed at home and overseas.

A new army is now on the march which holds out the brightest hopes for all mankind. It serves in international work camps, in areas hit by natural disasters or emergencies and in helping the poor, the backward or the hungry.

Peace on earth—we may not have it at the moment, we may never have it completely, but we will certainly achieve nothing unless we go on trying to remove the causes of conflict between peoples and nations.

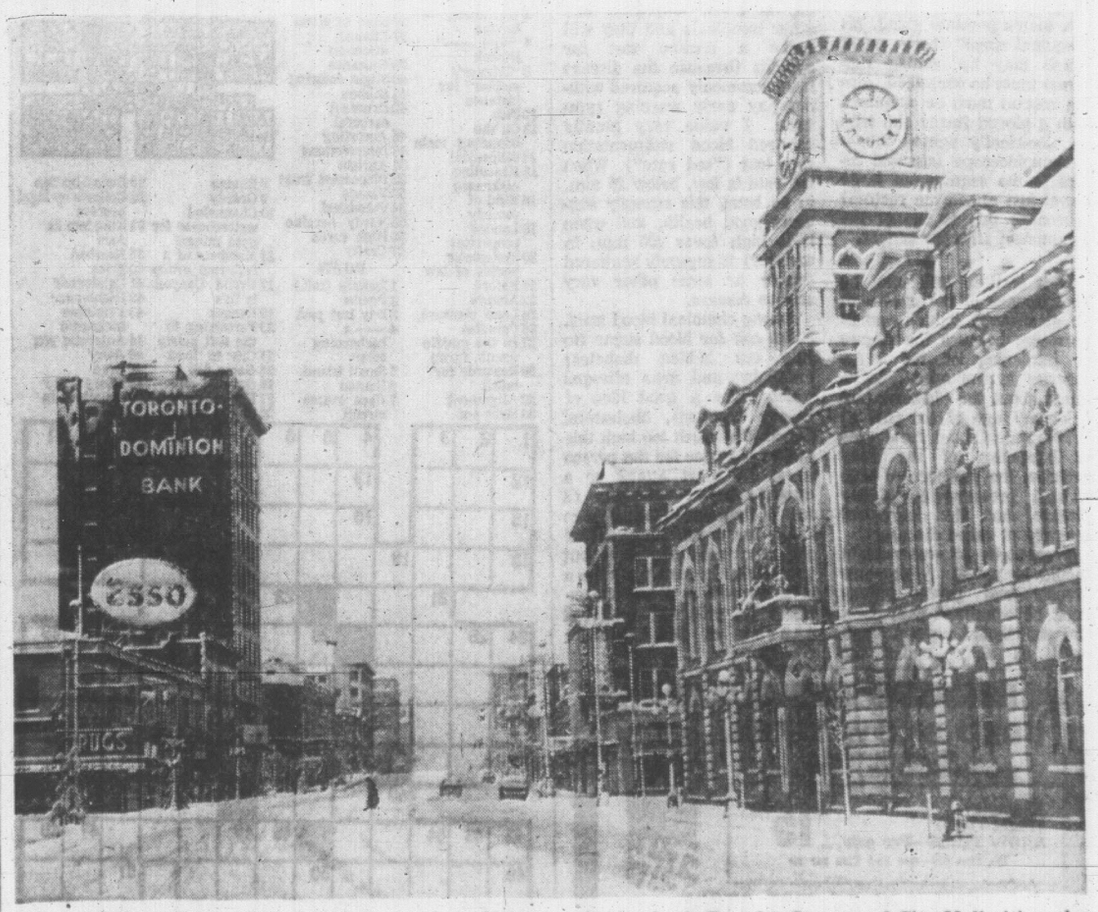

"Good will towards men" is not a hollow phrase. Good will exists, and when there is an opportunity to show it in practical form we know what wonderful things it can achieve.

To deny this Christmas message is to admit defeat and to give up hope. It is a rejection of everything that makes life worth living, and what is far worse it offers nothing in its place.

In fact it is just because there are so many conflicts in the world today that we should reaffirm our hopes and beliefs in a more peaceful and a more friendly world in the future.

This is just the moment to remind ourselves that we can all find some practical way to serve others and help to create a better understanding between people.

To each one of you I wish a very happy Christmas and if throughout the Commonwealth we can all make a sustained effort, perhaps Christmas next year will be a much happier one for many more people.

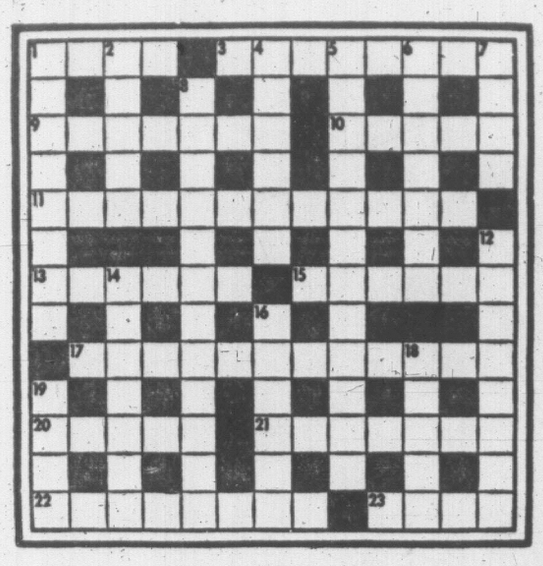

CUT THIS OUT, then hide it before people in Vancouver, Edmonton and Toronto learn the sad truth about our evergreen city. In case you can't recognize it, that's Douglas Street and City Hall although it looks slightly like Moscow today. It was the heaviest snowfall since 1923.

Many Tests Make Up 'Good Examination'

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Many people write to say they went to a doctor for a thorough check-up, and now they greatly fear that their overly busy doctor did not give them anything approaching a good examination. They ask, "What do you include in a good examination for a man or woman over 40?"

Alvarez

First, I take a good history of any serious illnesses that the person has had. Laymen and more doctors should know that the only way of diagnosing a neurosis, or sick headache, or a little stroke or a bad depression, is to take a good history. Sometimes it can be obtained only from the person's spouse.

There must be a careful physical examination. Many diagnoses such as that of a bad "little stroke," a beginning of Parkinson's disease, a chronic alcoholism, an asthma, an emphysema or an abnormally rapid aging can be made by a skilled physician — at a glance.

A man's prostate gland, his "inguinal rings" (holes out of which may be coming ruptures) must be examined. Also the rectum must be examined with a gloved finger and with an electrically lighted tube—a sigmoidoscope (sigmoid refers to the segment of large bowel just above the rectum) —because this is one of the commonest sites for cancer.

It is well to look into the backgrounds of the eyes with an electrically lighted opthalmoscope, because the degree of hardening of the tiny arteries in the eyes tells so much about the physical (not calendar), age of the person; it tells much about the degree of hardening of the body arteries, the presence of high blood pressure or kidney disease, and the degree of severity of these diseases.

Overweight or underweight should be noted. A woman's breasts and pelvic organs must be examined with care, and she should have a "pap test" (a study under the microscope of the secretion coming from the neck of the womb) to rule out beginning cancer. If her pelvic floor is badly torn, if she has varicose veins, and if she is badly overweight or underweight, these abnormalities should be noted.

In both men and women, the heart sounds and the nature of the pulse will be noted. The doctor will feel for tumors in the abdomen. He will note signs of a beginning arthritis.

★ ★ ★

In post-menopausal women he will be concerned perhaps over a "buffalo hump" due to collapse forward of the upper end of the spinal column.

Then the doctor will get X-ray studies made of the lungs, the stomach, perhaps the gallbladder and certainly the large bowel. These studies are expensive; but the only way of escaping death with a "too late to operate on" cancer is to get the digestive tract X-rayed every year.

Along the way, the patient will go to a laboratory where the people will make a measurement of the hemoglobin (red coloring matter of the blood); they will study a smear of the blood (to rule out anemias, leukemia, and other troubles); and they will make a routine test for syphilis (because the disease is so commonly acquired without any early warning symtoms. I value very greatly the red blood sedimentation rate test ("sed rate"). When the rate is low, below 25 mm, in an hour, this strongly suggests good health, and when it is high (over 100 mm. in an hour) it suggests scattered cancer or some other very serious disease.

Among chemical blood tests, I like one for blood sugar (to rule out hidden diabetes; creatinine and urea nitrogen which gives a good idea of kidney function), cholesterol (when it is much too high this makes it easier for the person to get a heart attack or a stroke); thymol turbidity (a test of liver function); in men I ask for a measurement of the uric acid (to rule out gout); also in men I ask for a measurement of the acid phosphate (to rule out scattered cancer of the prostrate gland).

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Alyce Hanlow, age 12, of East Cleveland, Ohio, for her question:

Why does Leif Ericson not get credit for discovering America?

America was discovered many times before the dawn of history by wanderers from Asia. Their descendants are the Indians that settled here. It has been rediscovered at least twice by Europeans. Leif Ericson is credited with discovering the New World long before Columbus.

Last Columbus Day certain scholars made an announcement about Leif Ericson. Many people were startled to learn that this bold Viking had discovered the New World centuries before Columbus landed here. Some suspected hocuspocus and challenged Lucky Leif's claim, but they were wrong. Reliable scholars have enough evidence to satisfy themselves that Ericson and his Vikings crossed the Atlantic from Greenland and landed on our shores in about 999 A.D.

But the bold Viking himself never claimed to have found the New World. This outstanding son of Eric the Red was known to his friends as Lucky Leif because everything he did seemed to turn out well. But when he landed on our shores he did not know that his luck had led him to discover a whole new world.

The roving Vikings explored many strange lands and crossed many uncharted seas. But the news of their discoveries had to be spread by word of mouth. In the days of Lucky Leif, the Norsemen had no written language. However, they knew it was important to report their doings to their own people. They told the story of each voyage in accurate detail and retold it again to each generation.

Stories Handed Down

These repeated stories are the old Norse sagas. They are as accurate as the Norsemen could make them, for they knew that their information might mean life or death to wandering Vikings of the future. Each story was told first by the men who returned from a voyage; and each time it was retold, some old-timer who had heard it before was there to correct the details. Later, the Norsemen wrote down their sagas, and Leif's visits to our continent appeared in 12 of these written reports. He was given credit for discovering a land he called Vinland. Nobody knew that his Vinland was part of our New World. Much later, historians studied the old sagas along with lots of other data, and they gave Lucky Leif Ericson the credit he deserved.

Columbus searched the old Norse sagas and many other old reports that hinted of land across the Atlantic. He thought this land was the East Indies and landed far south of the Viking's Vinland. This great man never tried to steal credit from Leif. Neither he nor Ericson suspected that they had both reached the shores of our vast New World.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Gerda Dezeeuw, age 10, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for her question:

Why do flies rub their feet together?

A busy fly zooms from here to there, landing on all kinds of surfaces. Her tiny feet are covered with tinier hairs, and these furry little boos get mussed and dirty. From time to time she stops to clean them. She rubs them together to scrape and brush off the dust and dirt, very much as you wash your soapy hands together.

Let's not imagine, however, that the fly is to be trusted as a clean little creaure. She may scrub her dirty feet, but when she lands on our food and such she is sure to leave behind some of the dirty specks that she missed. And some of these specks may be germs.

Ignoring Suspension Costs Driver $150

A man who was caught driving while his licence was suspended was fined $150 in central court.

John Alexander Boyd, 607 Yates Street, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he was seen driving east on Haultain Street early Thursday morning, then accelerated and turned right onto Dunlop Street where he was stopped by police.

Skunks Overrun P.E.I. Even in Urban Areas

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Prince Edward Island soon may declare war on skunks, once imported for their furs—now detested for their smell.

City and country residents have complained to provincial government officials about the growing population. Many of the skunks have entered urban areas.

The government withdrew a $1 bounty on skunks in 1963 and there have been demands for its reimposition.

C. O. Bartlett, director of fish and game, said Thursday it is unlikely a bounty would improve matters.

He said the island has "a super-saturated density of skunks right now." A careful program of trapping — especially in urban areas — would be more helpful than a bounty, he added.

Police say the skunks are most frequent at night. Nineteen traps have caught 78 in the few months.

Skunks were brought to the island in 1913 for their fur but the market declined and breeders set their stock free.

8.9 INCHES OF SNOW IN FOUR HOURS

We Could Be Clobbered Again

SMALL CARS are popular in Victoria, especially today. They take less push. Those of us who had to work today saw pushmobiles on every corner. Most Victorians were enjoying Boxing Day at home however, with nothing to do but shovel sidewalks, dig for fireplace logs and, in many cases, pray for the power to come back. Soggy pushers here are, from left, Dave Stelck and Stew Henderson. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Touch-and-Go For Two Days

A snowfall of 8.9 inches thumped Vancouver Island in a four-hour period this morning breaking power lines, cutting off telephones and blocking many roads.

Weather office officials had to go back to Feb. 14, 1923, to find a heavier snowfall. That day 20 inches fell on Victoria in a 24-hour period.

At Sunday midnight it was raining. At 1 a.m. the rain was mixed with slushy snow. At 4 a.m. the rain had vanished to be replaced by a light but steady snowfall and at 5:30 the full onslaught of the storm from the Oregon coast was plugging driveways and toppling trees across power lines.

The forecast for the next 24 hours is uncertain.

Cold air blankets most of British Columbia but warmer temperatures carrying heavy precipitation are moving north.

Weather office officials said the next two days would be touch-and-go for the lower Island.

If Temperature Drops, Look Out

"If the temperature stays up (it was 37 at press time) conditions will remain much as they are now," a spokesman said. "If the temperature drops below freezing we could get more snow."

Meantime most Vancouver Islanders were not worrying about the future. Their main concern was to get stranded cars out of ditches and driveways and wait for B.C. Hydro trouble-shooting crews to get cut power lines back in action.

See Weather Pictures Pages 17, 29

Hardest hit by power failures were Duncan and Nanaimo with close to total power blackouts in the early hours of the morning.

In the Victoria area, Burnside lost its electric power at 7:30 a.m. and was out for three hours.

Belmont Park lost its power at about the same time when a heavy tree on the Sooke Road crashed across the main line. Power was off for several hours before the tree could be moved and the line repaired.

In East Saanich power went off about the same time with the cause of the break unknown shortly before press time.

Hydro officials reported hundreds of smaller breaks all over the Island and estimated that in the Victoria area alone 100 men were seeking out and repairing the breaks.

B.C. Telephone officials reported only minor troubles but said they were swamped with calls—most of them asking for a connection with B.C. Hydro to report power failures.

Tow Trucks Busy, Busy, Busy

Motorists without snow tires or chains found themselves in serious difficulties as the light work day opened.

With most businesses and offices closed for the Christmas holiday the situation was not as serious as it could have been 24 hours later.

But even with light traffic on the roads wrecking truck companies reported a land-office business towing cars out of ditches or driveways.

Taxi companies also recorded a record business morning and were running up to an hour late on their calls.

Motorists seeking chains to get mobile were right out of luck. Only one jobber in Victoria opened his doors for business to cope with the emergency and he sold every one of his 60 sets of chains in the first hour of business.

They were thought to be the only chains available in Victoria.

On the Malahat the snowfall was only slightly heavier than in Victoria—about 10 inches recorded during the night—but the RCMP was asking that only emergency vehicles attempt the journey north or south.

In Saanich two graders were at work clearing main roads from Judah and Carey Road north. Sanding trucks were following the graders.

The graders started their clearing program at 9 a.m. having been delayed by a power failure which necessitated filling gas tanks with diesel fuel by hand.

Saanich Short of Good Operators

The greatest fear of Neville Life, Saanich engineer, was that his manpower would run out before all roads could be cleared.

"We can keep the graders running 24 hours a day should more

War Starts Again

SAIGON (AP)—For the third straight day, the United States kept its planes out of North Viet Nam's skies today, but U.S. Marines killed 63 Viet Cong in ground skirmishes after a short, interrupted Christmas truce.

The Marines reported strikes against the Communists during patrols around the big U.S. air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. The Americans reported taking light casualties.

A squad of Marines pounced on about 40 Viet Cong, killing 15 at a hamlet called Quant Ha No. 1.

Two hours later a marine platoon near Quang Ha No. 2, about two miles southward, was attacked by 75 Viet Cong armed with automatic weapons.

The Americans called in artillery support, tanks and armed helicopters. When the brief encounter was over, they counted the bodies of 41 Viet Cong.

Marines, in other scattered actions, reported killing seven Viet Cong during the day.

LIMIT ACTION

Air attacks were made only on suspected Viet Cong concentrations in South Viet Nam, U.S. spokesmen said. Ground action also was reported in low key for the last 24 hours.

A U.S. spokesman said early today that no orders had come yet for resumption of the air war against the North. This immediately raised speculation of another bombing pause in hopes of persuading the North Vietnamese to come to the conference table.

As a peace gesture to Hanoi, the United States halted the raids for five days in May but the pause did not lead to negotiations. Washington has been under strong diplomatic pressure to stop the air war again.

U.S. planes dropped their last bombs over North Viet Nam just before the start of the 30-hour Allied truce at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve. A 12-hour Viet Cong ceasefire began an hour later.

U.S. planes once more struck suspected Viet Cong targets in the South as ground fighting resumed.

A Communist mine blew up a jeep near Sadec, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, killing two American soldiers and wounding a civilian.

WANTED EXTENSION

U.S. officials said the state department had instructed the military command to extend the truce as long as possible. But even as the instructions arrived the Viet Cong had already broken the Allied ceasefire period with a rash of incidents, U.S. spokesmen said.

American headquarters sent out orders to all units early Sunday to resume normal operations, thereby sealing the end of the truce.

Viet Cong attacks during the truce killed at least a dozen Americans and up to 50 South Vietnamese troops, U.S. spokesmen said. Many others were wounded.

During the 30-hour Allied

26 MEN MISSING

U.K. Oil Rig Falls in Sea

GRIMSBY, England (Reuters)—An armada of ships and helicopters was reported tonight to have picked up the body of a dead man and rescued 19 of the 46 men aboard a giant oil-drilling rig which collapsed and sank in the North Sea east of here.

Three of those rescued were reported seriously injured.

Only a few pieces of steel sticking above the waves showed where the 5,600-ton oil rig had stood.

The rig, The Sea Gem, stationed 42 miles east of here in 100-foot-deep waters, had been preparing to move on after discovering a vast field of natural gas and drilling a 10,000-foot well.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind swept the scene as the rig, manned by an all-British crew, crumpled into the water early this afternoon.

The British ship Baltrover sent out an immediate "mayday" distress call and launched a lifeboat. Other lifeboats set out from nearby ports, while trawlers converged on the scene and RAF helicopters took off from the mainland.

The first four survivors were found floating on a life raft as a spokesman for the rig's owners, British Petroleum, was telling reporters:

"She seems to have sunk. For this to have happened seems inconceivable."

HEADS FOR PORT

The Baltrover reported that it was heading for Hull with the crew members it had rescued.

Three ships were at the scene searching for the 26 crew members still unaccounted for while a helicopter dropped flares to light the rescue efforts.

The Sea Gem, a 247- by 90-foot platform on 10 self-elevating legs, was BP's first North Sea rig but most of its crew members were experienced drillers.

It first struck gas in September, then in October made another strike. British Power Minister Fred Lee told Parliament this should justify piping gas to the mainland by 1967 or 1968.

It was indicated that the field would produce 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

The Sea Gem was towed to its site from Le Havre, France, and its equipment was assembled from as far away as Trinidad and Papua, New Guinea. Its sister rig, the Sea Quest, now is being built at an estimated cost of £3,500,000 ($10,150,000).

Mainland, U.S. Dig Out Too

VANCOUVER (CP)—A white Christmas season on the British Columbia coast spelled death to some and trouble to many.

A storm hammered the B.C., Washington and Oregon coasts today, with winds with gusts up to 120 miles an hour in the U.S. and snow over a wide area.

Lower Mainland and Greater Vancouver police urged motorists to stay off the roads.

Up to six inches of snow was expected in the Fraser Valley and Greater Vancouver areas of the Lower Mainland.

AIRPORTS CLOSED

All flights were grounded on the west coast. Victoria, Vancouver and Abbotsford airports were closed. The weather office at the Vancouver Airport said 4.5 inches fell in six hours.

Snow started falling on the Lower Mainland last Wednesday. Temperatures fell after that and icy highways and roads accounted for several of the traffic deaths in the province on the holiday weekend.

Many side roads were closed in the Fraser Valley early today as winds gusting to 35 miles an hour caused drifting.

Police warned drivers to stay off the Rraser Valley roads if they could. Drivers were warned not to attempt the mountain roads to the interior without chains or snow tires.

Snow was general in the southern part of B.C. In the north it was clear and cold with temperatures as low at 21 below zero at Prince George overnight.

In the U.S. Pacific Northwest there were high winds, rain and snow.

The Coast Guard weather station at Cape Disappointment at the mouth of the Columbia River reported its wind gauge broke at 120 miles an hour.

Ships off the coast messaged winds of between 80 and 90 miles an hour.

The storm was drifting northeastward and weakening.

Cause of the death had not been established today.

HEROIC EFFORT BY PAL

Pt. Hardy Boy Perishes 10 Minutes From Safety

Special to the Times

PORT HARDY — Nine-year-old David Hunt was just a 10-minute walk from safety when he lay down in the bush and died last Thursday night.

RCMP say he died of exposure on the snow-covered ground in dense bush near this community on northern Vancouver Island.

The heroic efforts to save him by a 10-year-old companion were thwarted when the two boys became separated at dusk Thursday night.

Norman Wilson was found Friday morning near Port Hardy airport when he walked out to the highway after spending the night wandering in the bush clay only in a T-shirt, trousers and running shoes.

The body of David Hunt was found by searchers later the same day, a 10-minute walk from the main highway.

He was still wearing a heavy jacket which was given to him by Norman just before they became separated.

From his bed at home today, Norman Wilson retold his mother the story:

"Thursday morning David and I decided o follow two men who had gone into the bush to cut Christmas trees.

"Before we went into the bush I told David, 'You better get a jacket on; it's cold.' He told me, 'I'm not cold,' so we went into the bush.

David was wearing only a light shirt at the time.

"We walked for a while, but we couldn't catch up to the men.

"Then I realized we were lost.

"We continued walking. There was heavy bush and snow on the ground.

"In the afternoon David said he was getting cold so I took my jacket off and put it on him.

"David said he was tired of walking, but I knew we had to keep going if we were going to get out before dark.

"I carried him piggy-back until it started getting dark. We still did not know where we were.

"When I stopped to rest we became separated.

"I couldn't see him anywhere because it was getting dark. I lay on the ground and tried to go to sleep. I closed my eyes for about 10 minutes, but it was too cold to sleep so I kept walking.

"Early in the morning (Friday) I heard a dog barking so I followed the sound until I came to a house near the highway. It was near the airport.

"I warmed up and the woman fed me something to eat, then she telephoned my mother."

The alarm was raised immediately and searchers, headed by RCMP, set off into the bush.

Later that day they found the body of David Hunt.

An inquest will be held.

David Hunt was one of a family of six children who were being cared for by a stepfather.

His mother, who was living in Vancouver, has returned to Port Hardy.

Mrs. Bennett's husband, Herman, was unjured and his son Gordon, 7, was unhurt.

Ivan Monrad Peterson, lone occupant of the other car, was severely injured.

Police said the Bennett family were travelling in a station wagon on the Lougheed Highway near this community 30 miles east of Vancouver. They were going home to nearby Hammond.

One of the vehicles attempted to pass another and lost control.

Seven others were killed in traffic mishaps on the mainland during the weekend. Two died in a fire.

Phillip Ghostkeeper and Mrs. John Carfille, both of Prince George, were killed when their car was in collision with a car occupied by five teen-agers.

Wynard Baylis, 79, of Delta was killed in a two-car collision near his home and Allan Lee Folsam of Surrey died after his car left the icy Pacific Highway.

Cornelius Unruh, 80, of Matsqui died today of injuries suffered when hit by a car as he crossed a street in Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley Christmas Eve.

Louis Dan, 58, and his son Edward, 27, died Christmas Eve when fire destroyed their home on the Alkali Lake Indian Reserve near Williams Lake in the central interior.

Two Teen-Agers Die In Holiday Mishaps

Beautiful

Clinging snow made a lacy valentine of Beacon Hill Park trees today but few camera enthusiasts were intrepid enough to mush through the park after pictures this morning. Times photographer Bill Halkett was out before the snow was tracked. The oaks appeared to wear their snow without strain . . .

'SNO HURRY AFTER ALL FOR MOTHER

An expectant mother got a frantic ride to hospital through the snow in an Oak Bay police car this morning.

But all the rush wasn't needed. At press time the baby had still not arrived.

Mrs. Loraine Olson, 24, of 1931 Oak Bay Avenue, tried to get a taxi to go to hospital at 7 this morning. Some taxi companies didn't answer their telephone and others told her they were too busy; she would have to wait an hour.

Finally Mrs. Olson's landlady, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, called police. They were on the scene in minutes and drove Mrs. Olson to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Olson, who is separated from her husband, has one other child.

Truck Runs Off Road; Car Slips

RCMP are still trying to piece together the details of accidents which killed two youths in the Duncan area over Christmas.

Albert Hendrik Wikkerink, 19, of Cowichan Station, was found dead near his pick-up truck which apparently went off the Trans-Canada Highway near Cobble Hill.

The accident occurred about 8 p.m. Christmas Day.

Coroner Dr. R. R. Wilson said today he is awaiting a pathologist's report to determine the exact cause of death.

THROWN FROM CAB

RCMP believe Wikkerink, alone in the truck at the time of the accident, was thrown from the cab when the truck crashed into the ditch.

Wikkerink, who worked at a Duncan bakery, was the youngest son of farmer Hendrik Wikkerink of Cowichan Station.

The second fatal accident occurred Sunday.

CAR FELL

RCMP believe Leonard Dale Vellacott, 19, died as a result of injuries he received when his car fell when he was underneath doing repairs.

The car had been jacked up in the driveway of his home on Fisher Road, Cobble Hill, when the accident occurred.

Coroner Dr. Wilson said he would await medical reports in both cases before deciding on inquests.

THIEVES HIT TWICE ON SAME CITY STREET

Another house break-in on Pentrelew Place was reported to city police Christmas Eve.

Thirty-five dollars was stolen from the home of Dr. A. C. C. Johnstone, 1020 Pentrelew, by a thief who smashed a bedroom window to gain entry.

The bedroom was also ransacked but nothing else was reported missing.

Thursday night $71 in cash, a camera and a watch was taken from the home of A. C. V. Hall, 1033 Pentrelew.

Sudbury Reaches Disabled Ship

Salvage tug Sudbury II hove within sight of the disabled freighter Tainan Sunday night and was expected to put a tow line aboard today off the tip of Alaska.

Christmas Crash On Icy Highway Injures Five

Nine Sent To Hospitals After Holiday Collisions

A head-on collision on ice-slicked Patricia Bay Highway Christmas night sent five persons to hospital.

The mishap occurred near the entrance to Beaver Lake.

None of the occupants of the two vehicles was injured seriously.

Driver Ronald Osland, 19, of 2766 Island View Road, was reported in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

Passengers John Cook, 6272 Rudolph Street, and Murray Hurst, 20, of 2437 Keating Cross Road, have been released from hospital.

In good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital is the driver of the other car, Harold Piton, 247 Sims.

His wife, Dorothy, was treated for minor injuries and released.

NINE PERSONS

The smashup was the worst of a holiday weekend which saw a total of nine persons taken to hospitals following traffic mishaps.

Also injured Christmas Day was assistant city fire chief John McLennan, 58, of 2570 Roseberry.

He was driving the fire department's inhalator truck on an emergency run when he became involved in a collision at Fernwood and Bay streets.

The fire vehicle was on its way to assist a woman who was locked in a room.

It was going east on Bay when it became involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Lorne H. Ames, 1704 Myrtle St., police said.

FIRE HYDRANT

The fire vehicle went out of control after the impact, mounted a curb, broke a fire hydrant off at the base, went through a picket fence and into property at 1303 Bay St.

Mr. McLennan and Harold Ames, 65, a passenger in the other vehicle, were treated and released from Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A city works crew had to be called to turn off water gushing from the sheared off hydrant.

Also treated for minor injuries were Frank and Molly Tchebeault, address unavailable, after a one-car mishap at Douglas and Dieppe at 12:02 a.m. Sunday.

Police said their vehicle left the road, travelled through a ditch and bounded into a field.

FIRES STARTED IN TREES BY FALLING POWER LINES

Sidney volunteer fire department drove through drifts this morning to extinguish two fires caused by fallen power lines.

In both cases, on Madrona Drive and Harbor Road, the lines set fire to trees.

Firemen said that with the help of snow tires and chains, the emergency vehicles were able to get to the fires. They were quickly extinguished.

Broken

But some varieties of trees couldn't bear their unaccustomed burden without collapse. This Japanese plum on Cornwall Street was an early morning casualty, losing a bough. Many evergreen shrubs were flattened. Many boughs took telephone and power lines to ground also, creating a hazard. Hydro warns — don't touch felled wires . . .

FIRST FAILURE

Beak Count Scrubbed, Rescheduled Sunday

Birdwatchers were fouled by the big snow today, forcing a six-day delay in the annual Christmas bird count.

Victoria Natural History Society was forced to cancel its traditional Boxing Day bird census because car travel in the far-flung spotting zone was almost impossible.

"We depend so much on cars to cover our large area," organizer David Stirling explained.

TAKE COVER

"Visibility is poor and birds tend to take cover in this weather. The conditions would not have been good for the count.

"This hasn't happened before as far as I know," Mr. Stirling said.

But National Audubon Society, whose census rules the local bird group follows, allows until Jan. 2 for the count to take place.

LAST PLACE

Sunday will be bird-count day in Victoria, probably the last place in North America where snow could be foreseen as an obstacle.

Last year local birders winged the Canadian record by spotting 124 species among the 53,000 Victoria birds counted.

Elsewhere, even snow a foot deep and temperature at 50 degrees below zero was no impediment to dogged bird-watching. At Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., last year, Ramon Burron stomped all day in these conditions, finally spotting a flock of 11 rock ptarmingan which he reported to the society.

'FEED THEM'

Meanwhile, local weather should prompt more people to look after their feathered friends.

"The thing to do now is feed them," Mr. Stirling said.

"The little birds will find food hard to come by and people may put out grain and suet to tide them over."

'Crashing' Sound Of Falling Snow

Sleeping people often report being awakened by such intrusions as thunder claps, rain storms, train wrecks, howling wind and earthquake.

Mrs. J. D. Somerville, 2886 Tudor, and probably dozens of other residents in the district, awoke this morning to the sound of falling snow.

Her home on Ten Mile Point is surrounded by large evergreens with spreading boughs that get heavy with sticky snow.

The crack of snow-laden branches falling into the Somerville driveway was a pretty effective alarm.

Everywhere in the district where evergreens caught the heavy snow, branches came crashing to earth, sometimes brushing power lines and causing brilliant flashes of bluish fire, or knocking out electric power and telephone lines.

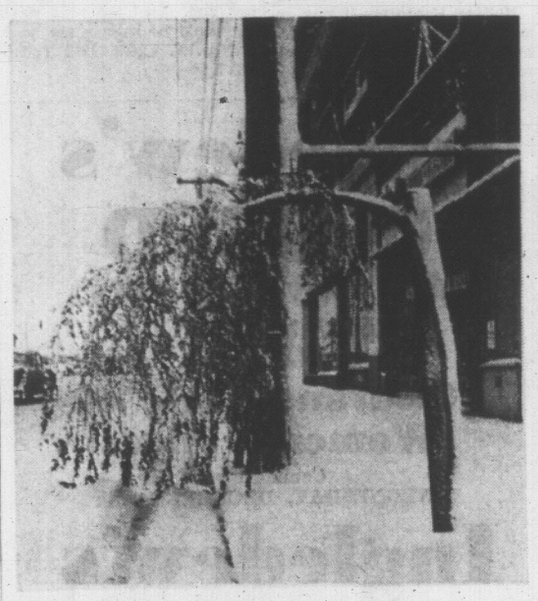

Leaning Pole Seen In Time To Save Train

Esquimalt Police this morning flagged down the E & N Dayliner to avert a collision with a telephone pole leaning over the tracks.

The train was flagged at the level crossing on Lampson St. near Old Esquimalt Rd.

The telephone pole as not on the tracks but was suspended over them by wires weighted with snow.

Police just happened to spot the pole while on routine patrol.

Bowed

Not all foliaged trees were "disemboughed"—some were just bowed—and will spring erect again when the snow goes. This one on Douglas near Hillside, one of the "instant trees" recently planted by the city, is expected to survive. Early rising gardeners were out giving trees a good shaking wherever they were letting a little snow get them down.

Driver Blamed By Inquest Jury In Traffic Death

A coroner's jury Thursday night blamed motorist Elmer Moxham, 1687 Pear, in the traffic death of pedestrian Isaac Stirling, 75, of 424 Linden.

Mr. Stirling died in hospital following the accident 10 days ago.

Two witnesses told the jury the pedestrian was in the crosswalk going from west to east across Cook.

Another witness said he was either in the crosswalk or very near it.

Mr. Moxham testified he did not see the man until he was right in front of him.

He was travelling north on Cook at the time.

New Motorbike After Crawlers

Saanich police will begin a motorcycle patrol of the Pat Bay Highway early in the New Year.

The new $2,100 cycle arrived Friday.

The vehicle will be used to nip up to the front of long lines of traffic, caused by motorists driving too slowly, said Deputy Chief Joe Armstrong.

750 AT SCOPE

Battle of Bands 'Proves' Teen-Agers Aren't Snobs

A blaring battle of bands Boxing Day proved Victoria young people will turn out in support of local entertainers.

More than 750 paid $1 each to attend the Scope, a discotheque, where five bands were on the stand.

Arranged by Brad Williams, manager of the Victorian Sect, one of the bands taking part, the program was designed to disprove a statement made by Scope manager Peter Chapman.

He said recently that Victoria teen-agers are "snobs" who will not support local entertainers. Mr. Chapman also said that senior high school students will not mix with those in junior high and that university students scorn to be seen with those still at school.

Mr. Williams, 18, said the Boxing Day performances disproved Mr. Chapman on all points.

"We showed that all age groups can mix, will mix and will enjoy it," he said.

But, he admitted, it took a number of bands to draw the crowd. And he said that the organizers would probably have lost money if the bands had asked for payment. All the bands played free for this occasion.

Bush Driver Fined For Impairment

A man who drove his car 50 feet into dense bush was fined $350 in central court Friday for impaired driving.

Stanley Schwartz, 219 Howe St., pleaded guilty.

Court was told he lost control of his vehicle Thursday night when he was travelling east on Craigflower Road.

The vehicle dropped down a six-foot embankment and into the bush, causing $100 damage.

"You were just lucky you didn't kill someone aren't you?" said Magistrate William Ostler who suspended Schwartz' licence.

'Greater Awareness' Of Christmas As Religious Fete

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Church Editor

For many Victorians it was a truly Christian Christmas.

There were more Christmas Eve services than for many years past and many churches throughout the city were packed.

"There seemed to be a greater awareness of Christmas as a religious festival," said Bishop Denys Rankilor of the historic Church of Our Lord at Humboldt and Blanshard.

Nearly 1,200 men, women and children attended the candlelit choral eucharist in Christ Church Cathedral and a peak attendance of more than 800 was recorded at the family communion service at 10:30 a.m. Christmas Day.

St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, with normal capacity of 900, had to provide extra chairs for worshippers attending the midnight mass on Christmas Eve and the Family Christmas Day mass at 11 a.m.

Two organists and two choirs were heard simultaneously at the midnight mass, which was celebrated by Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic church in Victoria and Vancouver Island.

NO STANDING ROOM

"Because of fire hazard we cannot offer standing room in the cathedral," a spokesman said. "For that reason, many who could not find seats attended midnight mass in other churches."

Nearly 900 attended the midnight service in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church on Haultain Stret to hear a presentation of the Pastoral Mass in F Major by Anton Diabelli given by the church choir and members of Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

"We had to provide about 200 extra chairs," said Albert Richter, who conducted the performance. "It was a most inspiring occasion and we were happy to welcome officials of Victoria Symphony Society to our congregation."

A repeat performance of the Pastrol Mass is planned in the Church for Jan. 16 at 11 a.m.

More than 500 attended the Christmas Eve candlelight service in Metropolitan United Church at 11 p.m. and the neighboring Anglican Church of St. John the Divine attracted 550 to the midnight service of holy communion conducted by the former rector, Canon George Biddle.

DAY, NIGHT

A continuous service of worship lasting from 10 a.m. Christmas Eve to 10 a.m. Sunday drew day and night congregations to the Sikh Temple at 1210 Topaz.

But the peak attendance of 500 was recorded Christmas Eve.

Throughout the uninterrupted two-day service, five bearded Sikhs read continuously from the sacred word of Guru Nanak as contained in the Holy Book of the Sikhs.

CIA SAYS LITTLE

Public Confused Over U.S. Spy Agency Role

By SID MOODY
Associated Press Staff Writer

The shadowy business of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, by its nature demands secrecy. But in a finger-pointing, probe - conscious society there is constant pressure to lift the lid and have a look.

Scarcely a day—or a coup—goes by that someone, somewhere does not accuse the worldwide U.S. spy organization of murder or kidnapping, of bombing or blackmail, or bribery, or masterminding this or bungling that—all the while strewing American dollars hither and yon.

Since it is inherent in an intelligence apparatus not to confirm or deny anything, the claims, rumors and charges leave the public confused as to whether the agency is extremely good—or bad.

FAIR GAME FOR CHARGES

The fact that it cannot answer for itself makes the CIA fair game for the wildest of charges and only occasionally does this iceberg of espionage surface: Such as the Berlin tunnel that tapped the wires of Soviet military headquarters, or the overthrow of leftist regimes in Guatemala or Iran, the U-2 flights over Russia and the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.

The CIA has many spies, few spokesmen. But a typical sampling of allegations which have been published in books and newspapers and which are part of the accepted picture of the CIA in many parts of the world provides such as the following:

—Two Syrians testified an American embassy official offered them $2,000,000 if they could deliver a Soviet naval patrol boat and its rockets to Cyprus. He was asked to leave the country. They were hanged.

—The CIA has rigged elections in Laos. An American reporter said he saw Communist and CIA agents literally bumping into each other while visiting Congolese parliamentarians to buy votes during a crucial vote of confidence.

—CIA agents adulterated a shipment of sugar aboard a Russian freighter docked in Puerto Rico. The aim was to sour the Soviet sweet tooth on Cuban sugar. President Kennedy became angered when he learned of it and the sugar thereupon was destroyed by a mysterious fire.

—A CIA agent tailed a courier going from Cairo to the Congo with $100,000 in a briefcase for the Congolese rebels. While in Khartoum the courier briefly put the briefcase down in the gentlemen's room. The agent promptly walked off with it.

—The CIA tried to suppress the book The Invisible Government, written by newspaper men David Wise and Thomas Ross about its activities and threatened to buy up all the first edition. Former CIA director Allen Dulles labelled the book scuttlebutt. Privately some CIA people gave it passing grades for accuracy.

The activities of the CIA, in fact or myth, mark the great distance U.S. intelligence has come from simpler pre - cold war days.

As recently as 1929 then State Secretary Henry Stimson disbanded the department's "black chamber" code-breaking operation saying "gentlemen do not read each other's mail."

COST UNKNOWN

Just how much the U.S. may spend on intelligence a year is anybody's guess. Ross and Wise estimate it at $4,000,000,000. There are few estimates that go below $2,000,000,000.

"Who needs it?

The United States, says State Secretary Dean Rusk, who adds that a "back alley war" is going on all over the world.

"If we don't subvert, we're giving our enemies who operate solely by subversion an undue advantage," says Representative Clement J. Zablocki (Dem.-Wis.), one of the CIA's closer observers.

Wrote Allen Dulles, former CIA boss, "We cannot safely limit our response to the Communist strategy of take - over solely to those cases where we are invited in by a government. We ourselves must determine where and how to act."

Basically work at the CIA is divided in two. There is the "plans" end which handles the agents who do the cloak-and-dagger work. Espionage provides less than 20 per cent of the CIA's intelligence.

The "intelligence" end concerns itself with everything from technical journals, field reports and foreign publications to monitoring radio broadcasts in more than 60 languages to the tune of 6,000,000 words a day.

MAKES PREDICTIONS

From all this the agency prepares both periodic "national estimates," predicting future events around the world, and daily digests of intelligence reports which are seen by the president and secretaries of state and defence (and the workaday printers who set them in type).

The CIA's concern is catholic: How did Mao look at the last peasant's parade, what is the latest in Soviet biolbgical research, how many trains run through Minsk each day.

The CIA man in the field may be rather openly attached to an embassy, he may be underground or he may be a paid informer in the nation involved. (Such "plants" start at about $100 a month, in part to keep them from acquiring more yachts, mistresses and gambling debts than their normal salary would allow).

The CIA recruits its agents from college campuses, tries to make career men and women of them. Only one applicant in 10 is hired.

Once in the field, the agent may observe, spy or decide to act. If things in a given country look bad, he might say "let's support Gustavus Adolphus, he's a middle-of-the-road guy." The agency then begins to plant propaganda, spend money, recruit support. But none of this can occur without approval of a policy agency in Washington outside the CIA.

AUTHORITY QUESTIONED

The CIA was formed in 1947 to bring the intelligence arms under one control. Has this been done and is there, indeed, control?

Some critics claim the CIA has been given authority over men and money far beyond any other U.S. agency. It has all but a blank cheque from the U.S. Congress. Its funds are hidden throughout the federal budget, presumably in the huge defence appropriations.

Few if any congressmen dispute the CIA's need for secrecy. Some feel—and strongly—that the agency should, however, be subject to more frequent and stringent congressional scrutiny.

Ultimately, the problem of CIA supervision comes to the desk of the president because it is to him the agency ultimately reports.

Thus the CIA believes it is as closely monitored as any agency in government. And it boasts (off the record) of being as tight-fisted as it is tight-lipped.

But there are critics who fear that the CIA has overgrown its original territory which was to collect and interpret information.

President John F. Kennedy did not quite answer the charge when he said the CIA "does not create policy; it attempts to execute it in those areas where it has competence and responsibility."

But Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem.-Alaska) has said the CIA does play a part in shaping policy because "the evaluation it presents has in the past determined our policy towards governments of foreign countries."

FRICTION EXISTS

Traditionally, the U.S. ambassador has been in charge of American operations in his country and there have been reports of some polite friction between the state department and the CIA, partially because their reporting duties sometimes overlap and because the agents can use dollars instead of just diplomacy in their pursuits.

But there appears to be general agreement the diplomats should stick to diplomacy and the CIA to finding out, as one congressman put it, "who is sleeping with whom."

In 1948 the CIA correctly predicted the Russians would not fight over the Berlin airlift. It knew in advance of the British-French intervention in the Suez, of the overthrow of Premier Kassem in Iraq, of a recent coup in a friendly Middle East country although the U.S. ambassador insisted it could not happen. A year before Sputnik I the CIA reported the Russians had the ability to launch a satellite.

"The CIA is not as good as it should be," one who should know said recently. "But it is constantly improving. I don't think, any responsible intelligence officer is going to say it is as good as it should be until we know what our adversaries are going to do and the likelihood of any confrontation anywhere in the world."

To him the CIA will be batting 1,000 per cent when it has infiltrated every foreign, security and defence ministry of every government in the world.

GEMINIS NEARLY HAD SPACE KISS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gemini 6 and 7 apparently came within one foot of each other during their nose-to-nose space rendezvous last week, a Space Agency official said last week.

Robert Aller, chief of Gemini mission planning for the National Aeronautic and Space Administration, told a National Press Club meeting of the latest figures. Earlier, NASA officials had said the space craft were six to 10 feet apart or less.

Aller did not say how officials arrived at the latest estimate, but indicated it was a result of intensive post-flight debriefing of the four astronauts involved.

½ CENT PER DAY

Fish Flour Hailed

NEW YORK (AP) — United States government scientists have perfected a cheap fish flour that could end the protein starvation that afflicts much of the world's population, the New York Times reports.

The newspaper says scientists in the bureau of commercial fisheries of the interior department say the flour could provide the normal protein require- of 1,000,000,000 persons at a cost of half a cent a person a day.

The flour is made by grinding and processing fish, the paper says; it is almost odorless and tasteless and is light grey in color; it can be mixed with baked goods, noodles on gravy, milk shakes or baby fods.

EARLY PRODUCT BANNED

The Food and Drug Administration banned a similar product in 1962 on grounds it was "polluted and filthy". The Times says the new flour has been certified "pure and wholesome".

United Nations studies show that 80 per cent of the world's people do not get enough protein and 60 per cent verge on protein starvation.

An Academy of Sciences study puts the world's annual catch of fish at 50,000,000 tons and estimates that it could be increased to 250,000,000 tons. That would produce 50,000,000 tons of the flour.

Former U.K. War Minister Dies at 75

NASSAU (AP)—Funeral arrangements for Viscount Margesson, Britain's war minister during part of the Second World War, awaited the arrival in The Bahamas today of his son from London.

Lord Margesson, 75, died Friday night. He had been in poor health and was spending the winter at the home of Lady Baillie.

After service in the First World War, Margesson was elected to the House of Commons in 1922 and served there until he was made a viscount in 1942. He was the Conservative party's chief whip in the house from 1931 to 1940 and was war minister from December, 1940, until February, 1942, when a cabinet shakeup followed the fall of Singapore.

His marriage to Frances Leggett of New York ended in divorce in 1940.

In private life, he was well known in business circles as a director of the International Nickel Company and of Martins Bank.

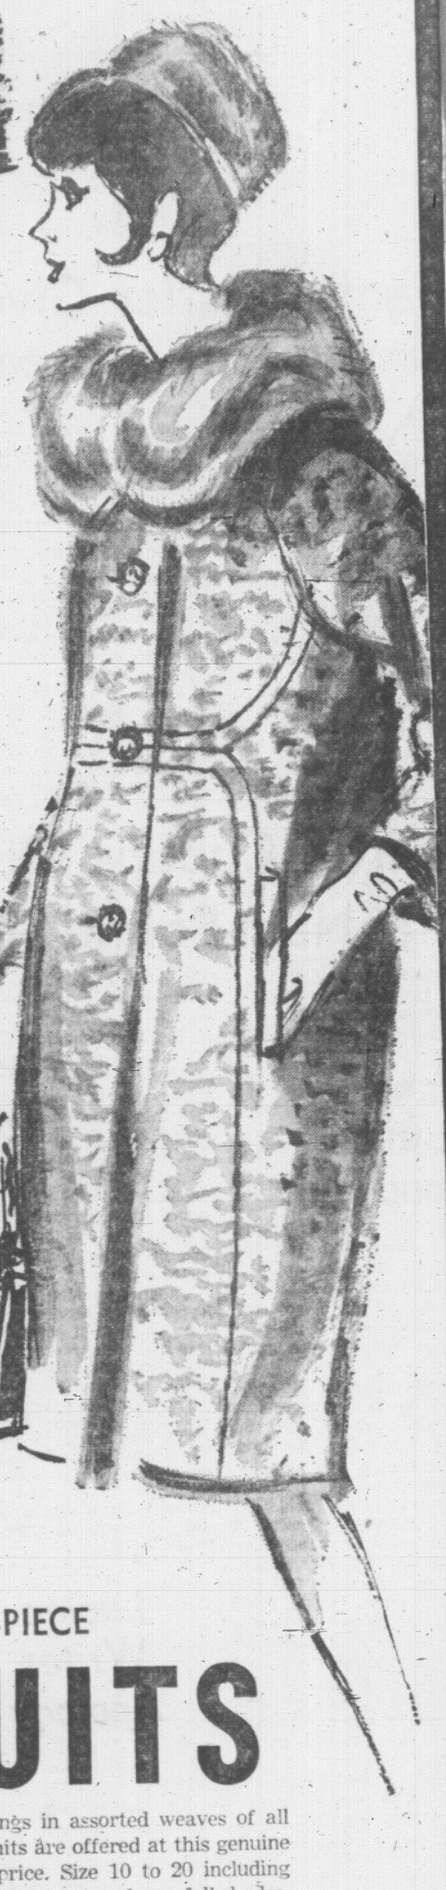

Survivors include the son, Francis Vere Hampden Margesson, the new viscount, information officer at the British consulate in New York, and two daughters, Mrs. George Buchanan and Lady Cherteris, both of London.

CHRISTMAS AT THE EMPRESS

'We're Here to Enjoy Ourselves'

Christmas at the Empress!

That has been the dream of Edward Keefe ever since he first came to Victoria with his parents 49 years ago.

The dream came true this year when Mr. Keefe, his wife and their 15-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth, joined the more than 700 guests who celebrated Christmas Empress style.

"It's wonderful—really wonderful," said 57-year-old Mr. Keefe as he surveyed the glittering, festive-clad lounge.

"We've been here many times in the summer and enjoyed it. But the old traditional Empress Christmas was just an echo to us. We heard about it and we read about it, but the real thing always seemed just beyond our reach."

Mr. Keefe, whose home is in Oklahoma City, is president of Kiwanis International, but says that is strictly incidental to his visit.

"We are here to enjoy ourselves," he said.

One reason Mr. and Mrs. Keefe were eager to share in the Olde English Christmas at the Empress is that their respective grandparents came out to the United States from England.

"My ancestors lived many generations in the county of Sussex," Mr. Keefe said. "My parents took me there twice when I was a boy and we visited the cemetery where my grandparents are buried.

"Alas, we never had the opportunity to spend Christmas in England."

Born in Ohio and raised in New York, Mr. Keefe was elected president of Kiwanis International last July.

He says the organization now has 275,000 members in Canada, the U.S. and 17 other countries and is active in many fields of charitable enterprise.

He is particularly proud of the development of Kiwanis Villages for senior citizens in North America. He inspected additions to the Victoria village, which he last visited in 1963.

"This is a really worthwhile enterprise," he said.

HE GOT THE CALL

'Best Christmas Present I Could Get' Says Mormon

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — For 10 years Richard Keith Newton has been buildings inspector of North Cowichan.

He quit this week after receiving a "call" from the Mormon Church to be a missionary among the Indians of New Mexico.

He has to finance the two-year mission out of his own pocket.

He said: "It means selling my home, furniture and cashing in my savings.

"But the call is the best Christmas present I could have got."

GIVES UP $5,000

A 40-year-old bachelor, Mr. Newton is a minister of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

He is giving up a $5,000-a-year salary to become a missionary.

And he has no safeguard about his future after two years.

He said: "I may get a call again, or I may have to find another secular job."

Mr. Newton is an ex-member of the United Church.

"I was not disillusioned with the United Church but feel my new faith gives me more personal opportunity.

He says the missionaries among the Navajo Indians live frugally and humbly and he expects the two years' work to cost him about $2,000.

Mr. Newton feels his municipal job has helped him know people and their problems in an individual way.

He is "thrilled at the honor" of being called to missionary work.

"The peace of mind I've known since receiving the call has already more than repaid any sacrifice I may be called to make. I'm having a hard job holding myself down I'm so excited."

OVERCOME HANDICAP

Mr. Newton, afflicted since birth by a cleft palate and hair lip, is amazed he was chosen to work as a missionary.

As a child it was expected he would not be able to speak, but he has overcome his handicap.

He requested work among the Indians "because I love them."

He expects to leave at the end of January for a six-week course at Salt Lake City before going to the desert states of New Mexico and Arizona.

Power Lines Falling Like Snow in Valley

DUNCAN — "We're in trouble all over."

The admission came this morning from Al Van Sacker, area manager of B.C. Hydro, as snow continued to fall heavily throughout the Cowichan Valley.

Power lines are down throughout the area with the exception of central Duncan, Ladysmith and Chemainus.

The Mill Bay area has been powerless since 7 a.m. and residents are without light and water.

SHORT-HANDED

Mr. Van Sacker said with men sick and on holiday his crews were short-handed but are working full-steam trying to cope.

Highway crews stationed at Duncan are plowing into two-foot drifts in the Glenora and Cowichan Station districts.

12 INCHES

Duncan itself had almost a foot of snow overnight and RCMP report numerous minor car accidents.

Telephone communications are not badly affected as yet.

The Malahat was closed to all but essential traffic.

ISLAND DIGEST

FOUR HURT IN CRASH

TOFINO—An accident on the Alberni-Tofino highway Christmas Eve sent four persons to hospital.

The accident occurred when two cars collided at a corner of the road which was covered with snow.

Driver of one car was Edwin Burns, Ucluelet, was injured, and an occupant of the car, Leslie Hillier, is still in hospital with undetermined injuries.

Driver of the second car was Ron Watson, also of Ucluelet. He and another occupant of his car were injured slightly.

THREE SURVIVE PLANE FLIP

TOFINO — Heavy snow on the airport runway here is believed to have caused a small airplane to flip over while attempting a take-off Sunday afternoon.

The pilot, Barry Gear, and two passengers were uninjured.

Tofino airport was closed to all traffic, today. Heavy snow was falling.

Gwynne Accepts

DUNCAN — Vancouver tenor Hugh Gwynne has accepted the lead role in Duncan Musical Club's production, Gondoliers, which is to be presented early in the new year.

SNOW BALKS SEARCHERS

The search for the body of a missing man was called off today in Sooke because of the snowfall.

RCMP today were to have resumed the search for the body of Stanley Jones, 36-year-old son of Charles Jones, acting chief of the Renfrew Indian Band.

Mr. Jones apparently fell into the water off Port Renfrew wharf last Wednesday night. His car was found on the wharf with its headlights still burning at 10 p.m. Wednesday.

'COPTER AT WORK

Navy divers searched the waters around the wharf and the bay early Friday without turning up the body. A helicopter search of the shoreline was also made.

Sooke RCMP said this morning the search of the shoreline was to have continued today by boat but was called off on account of poor visibility.

Big Qualicum Permit Plan Reinstated

QUALICUM—A special permit system for fishing the Big Qualicum River will be reinstated Jan. 1 and remain until the end of April.

The provincial fish and game branch in co-operation with the federal department of fisheries announced the special permit covers the part of the river from the Island Highway Bridge upstream to a point marked by a boundary sign below Horne Lake.

The system has been put into effect to contribute to steelhead management studies being jointly carried out by the two departments.

HOME GARDEN

Don't Throw Away Those Left-Overs

By HILDA BEASTALL

The heading might as well be what to do with the pieces.

Not the pieces of turkey or that fabulous plum pudding. There are many methods we women will use to rehabilitate those left-overs into dishes even more appreciated than the original.

Hilda

But the pieces of cedar bough and branches of balsam and pine are too often cast outdoors for burning later.

And the Christmas tree, briefly the joy of the home, follows the same path to the trash burner.

Where a garden exists which contains treasures to bloom during winter, these branches and twiggy pieces can be thrust into the soil on the north and north-east to break the wind and trap a little extra warmth from the fugitive sun.

In the rock garden, the early blooming Draba aizoon and the many forms of Crocus chrysanthus making their appearance soon after the brave New Year may receive a vestige more protection from evergreen sprays on their north side.

SNACK BAR

The discarded Christmas tree may assume a new role of importance when set up firmly in even the barest of yards as a snack bar for the birds.

Pieces of beef fat, with the skin attached to hold it together, may be wired to the branches. This is a special necessity for birds in winter we are told.

If a tough crust of a home baked loaf were ever discarded, it too could be wired to the tree.

These outdoor activities are just what we need after three days of Christmas.

3 MONTHS TO GO

Goodwill Home Soon Complete

George Gray, president of Goodwill Enterprises said today there is only interior work left to do on the new Goodwill building at Bay and Wilson.

The snow won't make any difference.

"We'll even have the heat on next week," said Mr. Gray.

The $555,000 workshop and rehabilitation centre will be in operation by March and will have its formal opening the month after.

It has been a long time in the planning and the building.

The Rotary Club of Victoria over a seven-year drive towards the building's construction fund has raised over $90,000.

ALMOST DEFEATED

Spiralling building costs and other setbacks, like the burning of temporary Goodwill quarters in July '64, almost defeated the project.

But the new centre, to be named Blakeney House, for Fred Blakeney, founder of Goodwill Enterprises in Victoria, is now officially undefeatable.

It will house 100 handicapped trainees from Vancouver Island. The trainees will work in the plant's clothing repair, laundry, dry cleaning and pressing, furniture repair, electric appliance repair and housewares processing shops.

The Yates Street store will remain the main retail outlet.

The centre will contain offices for personal counselling and health services and space for the installation of a cafeteria.

New Faces Appear In Spring Thaw Opening Here

TORONTO (CP) — Two Australians will be among the new faces in Spring Thaw this year following weekend completion of casting.

Robert Johnston, who purchased production rights to the perennial Canadian revue from Mavor Moore, will take the show on a coast-to-coast tour after its debut in Victoria in late January.

The two Australians are Pamela Beard, 27, who arrived in Canada two months ago after playing leading roles in U.S. musicals in Australia, and Bob Ainslie, 25, who has had previous experience in Canada.

Also joining the cast for the first time as actor-singer-dancers are Robina Beard, Betty Hader and John Rutter, while Marylyn Stuart, Jack Duffy, Dean Regan and Peter Mews have been re-engaged from previous seasons.

Pierre Gelinas, 25, of Montreal has been commissioned to design the sets for Spring Thaw '66. Alan Lund will repeat his 1965 double role as choreographer and director.

Indian Agent Kamloops-Bound

PORT ALBERNI — Jack L. Homan, superintendent of Indian Affairs in the Alberni Valley and the west coast area, has been transferred to Kamloops.

Mr. Homan, who has been in charge of the district for the past four years, will take up his new duties on the mainland in February.

Caught in Door

TORONTO (CP)—A 50-year-old man was killed Christmas Eve when his hand got caught in the closing doors of a subway train and he was dragged 100 feet along the track. Witnesses said Griffith Pritchard of suburban Scarborough was dragged from the platform and his body fell between the cars.

5.4% Wage Increase For Sooke Teachers

Sooke school teachers have received wage increases similar to those awarded Greater Victoria teachers a week ago.

The settlement was reached Friday only five days before Sooke school board and the teachers were to take their salary dispute to an arbitration board.

The average increase in wages under the new contract is 5.4 per cent. This is similar to the average increase in Greater Victoria but Sooke teachers will receive a little less and a little more in certain categories.

The agreement marks the end of salary negotiations in this area. Saanich teachers earlier won an average increase of 5.7 per cent after going to arbitration.

RAG DOLL SAVED

4 Homeless After Fire On W. Coast

PORT ALBERNI—A family of four was left homeless here Thursday night when their rented home was destroyed by fire.

An electric light left burning to welcome them home is believed to have short-circuited and caused the fire which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emlyn Moore.

$7,000 DAMAGE

Damage to the house and contents was estimated at more than $7,000.

Area residents offered aid to the stricken family which is staying with a relative.

When Chief Maurice Smith and the crew of the volunteer fire department arrived at about 6 p.m. smoke and flames were already erupting from the doors and windows of the home.

FIREMAN HURT

No one was home when the fire started and the only casualty was a fireman who received a cut on his head when a window "exploded" as a result of the heat.

A rag doll which was to be a Christmas gift for one of the children was the only gift saved.

It was the third house fire within a month, which has caused serious damage in the Alberni Valley.

PENSION HIKE

Hong Kong Veterans Optimistic

Victoria's Hong Kong veterans are optimistic their request for an increase in disability pensions will be granted.

They are also hoping for further protection for their wives and children after the death of a veteran.

Robert Manchester of Victoria, president of the B.C. Hong Kong Veterans' Association, said Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet is considering their request.

"HOPEFUL"

"His letter didn't say what changes would be made," Mr. Manchester said, "but we are hopeful our request for an increased pension will be granted."

At present a Hong Kong veteran must have at least a 50 per cent disability pension for his family to benefit after his death. The veterans have asked that this be lowered.

130 IN B.C.

Mr. Manchester said discussions with the government have been going on since 1945. There are 1,200 Hong Kong veterans across Canada, of whom 130 live in British Columbia.

A two-year study directed by Dr. H. J. Richardson of the Canadian Pensions Commission has been made into the problems of Hong Kong Veterans.

The survey showed that Hong Kong veterans have more social and economic problems than other veterans.

"They had significantly more medical disabilities, including gastro-intestinal, neurological and psychological problems and inferior dental health," Dr. Richardson reported.

"Among Hong Kong veterans as a whole, there have been significantly more deaths from coronary artery diseases than would have been expected among Canadian men of the same age group."

More Snow, Rain on Way

War Starts Again

SAIGON (AP)—For the third straight day, the United States kept its planes out of North Viet Nam's skies today, but U.S. Marines killed 63 Viet Cong in ground skirmishes after a short, interrupted Christmas truce.

The Marines reported strikes against the Communists during patrols around the big U.S. air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. The Americans reported taking light casualties.

A squad of Marines pounced on about 40 Viet Cong, killing 15 at a hamlet called Quant Ha No. 1.

Two hours later a marine platoon near Quang Ha No. 2, about two miles southward, was attacked by 75 Viet Cong armed with automatic weapons.

The Americans called in artillery support, tanks and armed helicopters. When the brief encounter was over, they counted the bodies of 41 Viet Cong.

Marines, in other scattered actions, reported killing seven Viet Cong during the day.

LIMIT ACTION

Air attacks were made only on suspected Viet Cong concentrations in South Viet Nam, U.S. spokesmen said. Ground action also was reported in low key for the last 24 hours.

A U.S. spokesman said early today that no orders had come yet for resumption of the air war against the North. This immediately raised speculation of another bombing pause in hopes of persuading the North Vietnamese to come to the conference table.

As a peace gesture to Hanoi, the United States halted the raids for five days in May but the pause did not lead to negotiations. Washington has been under strong diplomatic pressure to stop the air war again.

U.S. planes dropped their last bombs over North Viet Nam just before the start of the 30-hour Allied truce at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve. A 12-hour Viet Cong ceasefire began an hour later.

U.S. planes once more struck suspected Viet Cong targets in the South as ground fighting resumed.

A Communist mine blew up a jeep near Sadec, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, killing two American soldiers and wounding a civilian.

WANTED EXTENSION

U.S. officials said the state department had instructed the military command to extend the truce as long as possible. But even as the instructions arrived the Viet Cong had already broken the Allied ceasefire period with a rash of incidents, U.S. spokesmen said.

American headquarters sent out orders to all units early Sunday to resume normal operations, thereby sealing the end of the truce.

Viet Cong attacks during the truce killed at least a dozen Americans and up to 50 South Vietnamese troops, U.S. spokesmen said. Many others were wounded.

SMALL CARS are popular in Victoria, especially today. They take less push. Those of us who had to work today saw pushmobiles on every corner. Most Victorians were enjoying Boxing Day at home however, with nothing to do but shovel sidewalks, dig for fireplace logs and, in many cases, pray for the power to come back. District Gets 8.9 Inches

A snowfall of 8.9 inches thumped Vancouver Island in a four-hour period this morning breaking power lines, cutting off telephones and blocking many roads.

Weather office officials had to go back to Feb. 14, 1923, to find a heavier snowfall. That day 20 inches fell on Victoria in a 24-hour period.

At Sunday midnight it was raining. At 1 a.m. the rain was mixed with slushy snow. At 4 a.m. the rain had vanished to be replaced by a light but steady snowfall and at 5:30 the full onslaught of the storm from the Oregon coast was plugging driveways and toppling trees across power lines.

The forecast for the next 24 hours is uncertain.

Cold air blankets most of British Columbia but warmer temperatures carrying heavy precipitation are moving north.

Weather office officials said the next two days would be touch-and-go for the lower Island.

If Temperature Drops, Look Out

"If the temperature stays up (it was 37 at press time) conditions will remain much as they are now," a spokesman said. "If the temperature drops below freezing we could get more snow."

Meantime most Vancouver Islanders were not worrying about the future. Their main concern was to get stranded cars out of ditches and driveways and wait for B.C. Hydro trouble-shooting crews to get cut power lines back in action.

Hardest hit by power failures were Duncan and Nanaimo with close to total power blackouts in the early hours of the morning.

In the Victoria area, Burnside lost its electric power at 7:30 a.m. and was out for three hours.

Belmont Park lost its power at about the same time when

See Weather Pictures Pages 17, 29

a heavy tree on the Sooke Road crashed across the main line. Power was off for several hours before the tree could be moved and the line repaired.

In East Saanich power went off about the same time with the cause of the break unknown shortly before press time.

Hydro officials reported hundreds of smaller breaks all over the Island and estimated that in the Victoria area alone 100 men were seeking out and repairing the breaks.

B.C. Telephone officials reported only minor troubles but said they were swamped with calls—most of them asking for a connection with B.C. Hydro to report power failures.

Tow Trucks Busy, Busy, Busy

Motorists without snow tires or chains found themselves in serious difficulties as the light work day opened.

With most businesses and offices closed for the Christmas holiday the situation was not as serious as it could have been 24 hours later.

But even with light traffic on the roads wrecking truck companies reported a land-office business towing cars out of ditches or driveways.

Taxi companies also recorded a record business morning and were running up to an hour late on their calls.

Motorists seeking chains to get mobile were right out of luck. Only one jobber in Victoria opened his doors for business to cope with the emergency and he sold every one of his 60 sets of chains in the first hour of business.

They were thought to be the only chains available in Victoria.

On the Malahat the snowfall was only slightly heavier than in Victoria—about 10 inches recorded during the night—but the RCMP was asking that only emergency vehicles attempt the journey north or south.

Saanich Short of Good Operators

The greatest fear of Neville Life, Saanich engineer, was that his manpower would run out before all roads could be cleared.

"We can keep the graders running 24 hours a day should more

26 MEN MISSING

U.K. Oil Rig Falls in Sea

GRIMSBY, England (Reuters)—An armada of ships and helicopters was reported tonight to have picked up the body of a dead man and rescued 19 of the 46 men aboard a giant oil-drilling rig which collapsed and sank in the North Sea east of here.

Three of those rescued were reported seriously injured.

Only a few pieces of steel sticking above the waves showed where the 5,600-ton oil rig had stood.

The rig, The Sea Gem, stationed 42 miles east of here in 100-foot-deep waters, had been preparing to move on after discovering a vast field of natural gas and drilling a 10,000-foot well.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind swept the scene as the rig, manned by an all-British crew, crumpled into the water early this afternoon.

The British ship Baltrover sent out an immediate "mayday" distress call and launched a lifeboat. Other lifeboats set out from nearby ports, while trawlers converged on the scene and RAF helicopters took off from the mainland.

RACING PAGE 29

The first four survivors were found floating on a life raft as a spokesman for the rig's owners, British Petroleum, was telling reporters:

"She seems to have sunk. For this to have happened seems inconceivable."

HEADS FOR PORT

The Baltrover reported that it was heading for Hull with the crew members it had rescued.

Three ships were at the scene searching for the 26 crew members still unaccounted for while a helicopter dropped flares to light the rescue efforts.

The Sea Gem, a 247- by 90-foot platform on 10 self-elevating legs, was BP's first North Sea rig but most of its crew members were experienced drillers.

It first struck gas in September, then in October made another strike. British Power Minister Fred Lee told Parliament this should justify piping gas to the mainland by 1967 or 1968.

It was indicated that the field would produce 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

The Sea Gem was towed to its site from Le Havre, France, and its equipment was assembled from as far away as Trinidad and Papua, New Guinea. Its sister rig, the Sea Quest, now is being built at an estimated cost of £3,500,000 ($10,150,000).

BULLETINS

Traffic Toll Record in U.S.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The United States set a record of 721 traffic fatalities during the three-day Christmas holiday — more persons than had died over any other holiday period on record.

Prairies Chilled

EDMONTON (CP)— Temperatures in the 15-to-35-below range were common across the western Prairies this morning and afternoon readings were to be held far below zero.

Blaze on Ship

BELLE CHASSE, La. (UPI)—The crew of the freighter Neva West today battled to control a fire in the hold which threatened a cargo of 121 tons of small arms ammunition.

Frozen Dead

TORONTO (CP) — A 52-year-old Toronto woman was found frozen to death on the porch of her home early Sunday after apparently slipping and striking her head. Police said Mrs. Constance Brown went outside Christmas night in her night-clothes. An autopsy showed death due to exposure. Temperatures here fell below 10 degrees Sunday.

Mainland, U.S. Dig Out Too

VANCOUVER (CP)—A white Christmas season on the British Columbia coast spelled death to some and trouble to many.

A storm hammered the B.C., Washington and Oregon coasts today, with winds with gusts up to 120 miles an hour in the U.S. and snow over a wide area.

Lower Mainland and Greater Vancouver police urged motorists to stay off the roads.

Up to six inches of snow was expected in the Fraser Valley and Greater Vancouver areas of the Lower Mainland.

AIRPORTS CLOSED

All flights were grounded on the west coast. Victoria, Vancouver and Abbotsford airports were closed. The weather office at the Vancouver Airport said 4.5 inches fell in six hours.

Snow started falling on the Lower Mainland last Wednesday. Temperatures fell after that and icy highways and roads accounted for several of the traffic deaths in the province on the holiday weekend.

Many side roads were closed in the Fraser Valley early today as winds gusting to 35 miles an hour caused drifting.

Police warned drivers to stay off the Fraser Valley roads if they could. Drivers were warned not to attempt the mountain roads to the interior without chains or snow tires.

Snow was general in the southern part of B.C. In the north it was clear and cold with temperatures as low as 21 below zero at Prince George overnight.

In the U.S. Pacific Northwest there were high winds, rain and snow.

The Coast Guard weather station at Cape Disappointment at the mouth of the Columbia River reported its wind gauge broke at 120 miles an hour.

Ships off the coast messaged winds of between 80 and 90 miles an hour.

The storm was drifting northeastward and weakening.

HOLIDAY FATALITY LIST GROWS

Christmas Night Crash Kills Five

HANEY (CP)—Five persons returning home from visiting were killed Christmas night in a head-on collision on the icy highway in the Fraser Valley near here.

Police said all were dead by the time help arrived.

Mrs. Bennett's husband, Herman, their son Gordon, seven, were unhurt.

Ivan Monrad Peterson, lone occupant of the other car, was severely injured.

Police said the Bennett family were travelling in a station wagon on the Lougheed Highway near this community 30 miles east of Vancouver. They were going home to nearby Hammond.

One of the vehicles attempted to pass another and lost control.

Seven others were killed in traffic mishaps on the mainland during the weekend. Two died in a fire.

Phillip Ghostkeeper and Mrs. John Carfille, both of Prince George, were killed when their car was in collision with a car occupied by five teen-agers.

Cornelius Unruh, 80, of Matsqui died today of injuries suffered when hit by a car as he crossed a street in Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley Christmas Eve.

Louis Dan, 58, and his son Edward, 27, died Christmas Eve when fire destroyed their home on the Alkali Lake Indian Reserve near Williams Lake in the central interior.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—A 50-year-old motorist died Sunday night after a fight which followed a minor collision between his car and another.

Dead is Isbal Hundal of North Vancouver.

HEROIC EFFORT BY PAL

Pt. Hardy Boy Perishes 10 Minutes From Safety

Special to the Times

PORT HARDY — Nine-year-old David Hunt was just a 10-minute walk from safety when he lay down in the bush and died last Thursday night.

RCMP say he died of exposure on the snow-covered ground in dense bush near this community on northern Vancouver Island.

The heroic efforts to save him by a 10-year-old companion were thwarted when the two boys became separated at dusk Thursday night.

Norman Wilson was found Friday morning near Port Hardy airport when he walked out to the highway after spending the night wandering in the bush clad only in a T-shirt, trousers and running shoes.

The body of David Hunt was found by searchers later the same day, a 10-minute walk from the main highway.

He was still wearing a heavy jacket which was given to him by Norman just before they became separated.

From his bed at home today, Norman Wilson retold his mother the story:

"Thursday morning David and I decided o follow two men who had gone into the bush to cut Christmas trees.

"Before we went into the bush I told David, 'You better get a jacket on; it's cold.' He told me, 'I'm not cold,' so we went into the bush.

David was wearing only a light shirt at the time.

"We walked for a while, but we couldn't catch up to the men.

"Then I realized we were lost.

"We continued walking. There was heavy bush and snow on the ground.

"In the afternoon David said he was getting cold so I took my jacket off and put it on him.

"David said he was tired of walking, but I knew we had to keep going if we were going to get out before dark.

"I carried him piggy-back until it started getting dark. We still did not know where we were.

"When I stopped to rest we became separated.

"I couldn't see him anywhere because it was getting dark. I lay on the ground and tried to go to sleep. I closed my eyes for about 10 minutes, but it was too cold to sleep so I kept walking.

"Early in the morning (Friday) I heard a dog barking so I followed the sound until I came to a house near the highway. It was near the airport.

"I warmed up and the woman fed me something to eat, then she telephoned my mother."

The alarm was raised immediately and searchers, headed by RCMP, set off into the bush.

Later that day they found the body of David Hunt.

An inquest will be held.

David Hunt was one of a family of six children who were being cared for by a stepfather.

His mother, who was living in Vancouver, has returned to Port Hardy.
